'25 YEAR PLAN,' COSTING U.S. 105 BILLIONS, TOLD

Four Point Program Given Roosevelt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—A long range program of national planning for land, water, and mineral use, involving the expenditure of 105 billions of dollars on public works in the next 20 to 30 years, is outlined in the report of President Roosevelt's national resources board, made public today.

The national resources board, of which Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes is chairman, was appointed by the President last June to devise "a plan for planning," which, incidentally, is the title of the report's last chapter. The board is dominated by the big spending advocates of the New Deal and the projects surveyed include those which are expected to comprise the administration's combined relief and public works program for the immediate future.

Projects in Outline.

These are:

1. Improvement of highways and the elimination of grade crossings.

2. National housing, including slum clearance, subsistence homestead, rehabilitation, and low cost housing projects.

3. Water projects, including water supply, sewage treatment, flood control, irrigation, soil erosion prevention, and hydro-electric power developments.

4. Rural electrification.

These are the principal types of public works on which the administration is expected to base its unemployment relief program, with the probable expenditure of 5 billion dollars during the next year, but the NRB is primarily concerned with long range planning.

Would Remake U. S. Map.

The stupendous undertakings which it recommends as feasible and socially desirable involve the virtual remaking of the physical map of the country, not the least of which is the taking of 75 million acres of submarginal land out of use.

In the field of hard surfacing of roads alone the report states that 1,750,000 miles of unimproved third class highways warant improvement, at a cost of $2,000 a mile, or 3 billion 500 million dollars. The report quotes the American engineering council as suggesting the immediate elimination of 5,000 selected railroad crossings at a cost of 500 million dollars, and adds that further eliminations to the amount of 12 billions of dollars would be justified.

Would Divide the Cost.

The report does not suggest that the incomprehensible sum of 105 billions of dollars should be spent by the federal government, but recommends a national plan of coördinating federal construction projects with state and local undertakings. It also recommends a public works "reserve" of 10 billion dollars, to take up the slack of construction in periods of depression, but does not suggest where such a fund—more than one-third of the total national debt—could be obtained.

Like most other emergency agencies appointed by President Roosevelt to undertake a given task, this board recommends the establishment of permanent organizations that probably would perpetuate some or all of its members in service.

Plan of Permanent Board.

It is suggested that:

1. "A permanent land planning section of the national resources board, or its successor, be established, with an advisory committee consisting of representatives of the federal bureaus primarily concerned and served by the secretariat of the board.

2. "A permanent water planning section of the national resources board, or its successor, be established.

3. "A permanent Public Works administration be established, based upon the powers, duties, and functions of the emergency administration of public works."

Besides Chairman Ickes, secretary of the interior and PWA administrator, the national resources board includes Secretary of War Dern, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Secretary of Commerce Roper, Secretary of Labor Perkins, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Frederic A. Delano, Charles E. Merriam, and Wesley C. Mitchell.

BRITON MOBBED IN SAAR AFTER SHOOTING MAN

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Territory, Dec. 16.—Prince Hubertus von Loewenstein engaged in a brawl with Capt. Hensley, British member of the Saar international police force, in a cafe here today. The origin or nature of the argument between the two is obscure. Following the clash the prince complained to the league of nations governing commission, alleging technical assault.

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Territory, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Tension accompanying the approaching Saar plebiscite was increased here today by the wounding of a Saar resident and the beating by an angry mob of a British member of the league of nations' international police force.

A bullet from the pistol of Capt. James Justice, an Englishman, struck a civilian in the abdomen, according to the official version of the incident, after Justice's automobile, carrying two other men, mounted the sidewalk of a narrow street and struck a woman.

[A Reuter's dispatch published in London said the 26 year old earl of Aylesford was a companion of the police officer and also was roughly handled.]

German Leader Protests.

Deputy Leader Nietmann of the German front, the Nazi organization in the Saar, called upon the Dutch member of the league governing commission and requested that the commission take measures "to prevent the recurrence of such incidents."

After the accident Justice, who was in civilian clothes, alighted and apologized to the woman, who was treated at a pharmacy. A gathering crowd gained the impression that Justice and his companions sought to leave the scene and tried to restrain them forcibly.

Believing he was in danger, the official version said, Justice drew his pistol and fired a warning shot. The crowd then rushed him and tried to take away the weapon. The pistol was discharged, wounding a man named Neumeister. Justice thereupon was badly beaten. He was taken to Reppertsberg hospital, where he remained.

Neumeister, an electrician, was not seriously hurt, and was able to go home after being treated at a pharmacy.

Rushed by 30 Youths.

Eyewitnesses of the incident said that after Justice's car hit the woman he got out and apologized. Her clothing was torn by the mudguard, but apparently she was not hurt much. The eyewitnesses said Justice offered to pay for damage to her clothing, and was about to conclude payment to her and her husband who accompanied her when a band of about 30 youths rushed out from a nearby beer garden.

The leader of this group, according to one of the accounts, shouted, "Don't take money from foreigners." This man struck Justice and mounted the running board of the car. Other people rushed up as a result of the uproar and the leader ordered silence, saying he would take charge of the situation.

Justice demanded that the youth identify himself and received the reply, "Never mind." Witnesses further cited the youth as saying:

"Comrades, if he doesn't obey, do what you like to him."

German Woman in Car.

One witness said the crowd became enraged because Fräulein Kathe Braun, a German woman, was in the car.

Close investigation of today's incident was pressed, and Justice was under official suspension from duty. He had been in the Saar for several months.

Officials described the incident as of minor importance which could easily have happened in any city where a foreigner is involved in an automobile accident.

The comparatively few persons on the street in the early hours when the accident occurred prevented it from becoming of graver import, officials said.

Recognizing that the incident may create a bad atmosphere for the ar-

Son Is Born to Clara Bow, Film "It" Girl

Santa Monica, Cal., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Clara Bow, the "it" girl whose screen career was launched in a beauty contest and who became the red haired standard bearer of "flaming youth," today achieved her heart's desire by becoming a mother.

Clara, the wife of Rex Bell, film cowboy hero, gave birth to a son, weight seven pounds and a half, at 4:10 a. m. in Santa Monica hospital.

Dr. H. H. Blodgett, her physician, reported both were in "perfect condition." He could not say as much for Bell, whose nervousness was in contrast to the calm of the smiling actress.

Bell Sure of Son.

No name has been selected yet for the baby, but Bell said they expected to reach a decision soon. The actor, "too excited to talk," paused long enough to remark:

"Clara hasn't decided on a name yet, but we've got to make up our minds because the engraver must get out the announcements the first thing tomorrow."

Bell had his heart set on a son, and so confident was he that he purchased a pony as an advance gift. As a luck charm Bell took with him to the hospital a pair of boxing gloves that Max Baer, the champion, recently gave him.

"Blue Eyes, Blond Hair, Lusty Bawl."

Bell paced the hospital corridors so nervously that Dr. Blodgett said he was "seriously considering ordering him put to bed in the father's ward."

Finally, with the dawn, came Nurse Irene Brown with the announcement:

"It's a boy—a boy with blue eyes, blond hair, a lusty bawl, and an inclination to smile. He looks as much like you as like his mother."

Starred as "It" Girl.

Miss Bow, a product of Brooklyn, won a New Bedford, Mass., beauty contest to obtain her first chance for film work. She was starred as the "it" girl and her pictures have been among the most successful, financially, of Hollywood's products.

She was married to Bell in December, 1931. A year ago she went into virtual retirement with the announcement that her ambition was to have a child.

FLYING 31 YEARS OLD TODAY; WRIGHT SAYS CHILD OUTGROWS HIM

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The flying machine will celebrate its 31st birthday tomorrow, full grown to a position of importance among the first industries of the world.

ORVILLE WRIGHT.

The sputtering kite which carried Orville and Wilbur Wright in uncertain flight 31 years ago at Kitty Hawk, N. C., has developed until now it is measured in tons, carries man around the world in eight days, spans the continent in ten hours and flies 300 miles an hour.

"So broad has been the stride taken in the field of aviation since its inception in America," Orville Wright said today, "that no one person possibly could be familiar with its every phase of development, especially during the last ten years.

"My belief that it is impossible for any one to have a complete grasp of all of these developments is heightened when I reflect upon what has been achieved from the viewpoint of scientific advancement and in the fields of engineering and mechanics."

IDENTICAL TWIN SISTERS TO BE 83 TOMORROW

Two little sisters dressed in blue, as spry as two little crickets and as identical as two peas, sat down in their apartment home at 7856 Eberhart avenue yesterday and nodded their curly gray heads in confirmation of the fact that they will celebrate tomorrow their 83d birthday anniversary.

"We were born in 1851," said Mrs. Elizabeth Scott Howell—or was she Mrs. Martha Scott Loucks? "It was right outside of Pittsburgh."

"And we've spent nearly every birthday together since then," added Mrs. Loucks—or was she Mrs. Howell?

"We'll be 83, but we can get around as well as ever," boasted one.

"Are you going to have a birthday party?" they were asked.

"Why, no," replied one. "We're just going to be alone."

Admiral's Son Dies in Crash of Army Plane

Burlingame, Cal., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Two army aviators, one of them Lieut. William C. Reeves, son of Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, were killed when their plane plunged nose down onto a highway and burned near here today.

Sergt. Everett Peterson was the other victim. The plane was from Crissy field, San Francisco.

Flying Low Because of Fog.

Witnesses of the accident said the pilot apparently was flying low because of mist and seemed to lose control of the plane when one wing brushed against a tree.

The plane bounced once after striking the highway and flying parts sheered off a telephone pole.

Another plane, flying close to the one that was wrecked, swung around in a wide circle, then roared away to a landing field at Redwood City.

Burn with Their Plane.

The flyers' bodies were burned beyond recognition in the shattered wreck. Trafic from both directions was blocked for more than an hour as police and firemen fought back a gathering crowd and struggled to extinguish the flames.

Transport Pilot Killed.

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Hudson Chadwick, 27, a transport pilot of four years' experience, was killed today in a crash near Jackson airport. Chadwick fell from 150 feet in an unexplained "wingover" crash.

CAR TAKES DIVE IN RIVER; DRIVER FIGHTS WAY OUT

Russell Ramge, 35 years old, 3526 Washington street, Gary, escaped with his life last night when his automobile plunged through a wooden guard rail on a bridge over the Grand Calumet river in East Chicago, Ind., and dropped into eight feet of water.

Ramge kicked out a window in the car and clambered on top, where he stood knee deep in water. Half an hour later a passing motorist, attracted by the lights of his machine, notified the East Chicago fire department. Firemen stretched ladders from the bank to Ramge's car and brought him ashore. He was taken to St. Catherine's hospital, suffering from severe chills and cuts.

Ramge was hurrying home from the Union Carbide company plant at Whiting, Ind., where he is employed as an electrician, when the accident occurred. His automobile skidded as he attempted to pass another machine.

Huey's 35 Bills Railroaded on Way to Pass

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Seated like a potentate on the speaker's dais, Senator Huey P. Long tonight tossed 35 bills to the Louisiana legislature, assembled at his summons, and had the measures speeded to his controled ways and means committee before any one had any idea what they provided.

The whole thing took only 35 minutes, mostly consumed by routine formalities. It was a case of a bundle of "mystery" bills being introduced and cleared out of the house to committee at the rate of one a minute.

Copies of the bills were not immediately obtainable. From what Long said and from excerpts the house clerk chose to read it was impossible to tell what they provided.

Suspend Rules for Speed.

They were rushed to the ways and means committee under rule suspension, moved by Representative Isom J. Guillory, an administration floor leader, and ordered printed immediately and laid on the members' desks. The house then adjourned until 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Chairman E. G. Burke of the committee announced the legislation would be considered at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Grinning and joking after watching his legislation, which he said was "not important," but which he described very meagerly, flash through the preliminary legislative stages, Long left the statehouse 45 minutes after the general assembly met. His corps of bodyguards was with him.

SEVEN AIDS ACCUSED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Followers of Huey P. Long in Louisiana have sought to hide approximately a million and a quarter dollars of their incomes in an effort "to defeat and evade payment of income tax," according to evidence collected by treasury agents.

Seven of the kingfish's political henchmen, including Seymour Weiss, who was identified by a senate investigating committee as Long's payoff man, are already under federal income tax indictments.

These indictments, all of which are by-products of the current federal investigation of Long himself, already involve $157,800 in tax claims which are based on the government's allegation that Long's seven allies failed to report income aggregating $1,235,900.

Amounts Claimed by U. S.

Those against whom the government has obtained indictments, the amount of the alleged concealed incomes, and the tax which the government is claiming are:

	Alleged hidden income.	Tax evaded.
Seymour Weiss	$176,972.00	$26,389.00
State Senator Jules Fisher	326,793.32	42,528.48
State Representative Joe Fisher	122,224.55	5,727.80
Abe L. Shushan	377,477.28	53,919.34
Totals	$1,235,946.71	$157,843.72

In addition the grand jury has indicted Courtney A. Kenney, a professional gambler, for concealing $89,859.88 and evading payment of a tax amounting to $8,076.84.

OUTLAW GIVES UP MEEKLY IN ARMED HIDEOUT

Joseph Burns, 53 years old, one of the last of the Dillinger gang of ten convicts who escaped from the Michigan City, Ind., penitentiary Sept. 26, 1933, was captured yesterday morning in a flat at 700 West 69th street. Not a shot was fired in the capture, although Burns had at hand two machine guns, three rifles, and two automatic pistols, with 300 rounds of ammunition.

Supervising Captain John Stege and Postal Inspectors John McWhorter and John McCarthy, with a combined force of thirty policemen and federal men, surrounded the building at 2 a. m. Then Stege and McWhorter, with two picked men, went to the door of the flat on the second floor. Stege pounded on the door and shouted:

"We're police officers and we'll kill you if you resist."

Surrenders Without Struggle.

Burns had taken a lock out of the door, leaving an aperture which would serve as a peekhole or a gun porthole. He was in his pajamas and barefoot when he opened the door and stood with his hands raised, saying:

"Come in. I guess the jig is up."

The raiding party immediately ransacked the flat, bound Burns' wrists with handcuffs, made him doubly secure with leg irons, and hurried him away from the scene. A woman of about 42 years and believed to be his sister was seized in the flat with him. She was held incommunicado throughout the day at the Hyde Park police station under the name of Mrs. Jean Borland, while Burns was undergoing questioning at some secret address chosen by the authorities.

Clew to $427,000 Holdup.

With the guns taken in the flat, authorities came upon what was considered an important clew to Burns' multifold criminal activities. This was the discovery of a set of figures scribbled on the back of an old magazine, suggesting that Burns had been one of a dozen bandits who last Aug. 21 in Brooklyn staged the spectacular robbery of an armored car owned by the United States Trucking corporation, escaping with $427,000. The figures divided the amount of the loot into twelve parts, indicating each robber's share.

It was believed another important arrest was imminent, and that some information had been obtained from Burns during many hours of questioning. For several weeks Deputy Attorney General Edward Barce of Indiana had been in Chicago, working with Capt. Stege in the relentless campaign to round up the few remaining members of the Dillinger gang. They had known where Burns was living for several days, it was learned, and his home was under constant surveillance.

Squads Held in Readiness.

Capt. Stege mentioned that Burns was a government prisoner, making it possible for him to be taken into Indiana without the necessity of instituting extradition proceedings. Whether he was rushed into that state could not be learned last night, but at the detective bureau there were several squads waiting to be called into action on a second's notice from Stege.

A telegram came from William F. Geoghan, district attorney of Kings county, New York, reading:

"Received radio about arrest one Burns, armored car robbery. Wire me at once if correct."

New York Development.

Meantime, New York police had arrested Thomas Quinn, owner of speedboats which were rented to the bandits who robbed the armored truck, unaware of their intended use as a means of escape after the robbery, and yesterday they said something new had developed in regard to the robbery. After a further interexchange of telegrams, however, Geoghan was quoted as saying early this morning that he doubted that Burns participated in the Brooklyn robbery.

Capt. Stege said Burns had been identified as the man who robbed Jacob Kinstler, a jewelry salesman, of $10,000 in jewels in a room at the Hotel La Salle Friday. In Burns' flat Stege found $625 in cash, and the serial numbers were taken to be checked with those on the money taken in the Brooklyn holdup.

The machine guns and other weapons taken from the Burns flat were sent to police headquarters and the machine guns were identified as those taken in a raid on the Warsaw, Ind., police station by the Dillinger gang. This was shortly after the escape of the ten convicts from the Michigan City prison through the use of revolvers smuggled into them by John Dillinger, who had been paroled a few months earlier.

Of the ten, only John Hamilton, who since that escape killed Police Sergeant William Shanley in Chicago, and Joseph Fox, one of the minor figures, remain at large. The others have been captured, killed or executed. These ten, with Dillinger and recruits, made criminal history during the last year.

Burns Convicted in 1921.

Burns, who was convicted of murder on May 27, 1921, in Indianapolis, was serving a life term when Dillinger furnished the means of escape. The break was one of the most daring on record, and the men who escaped earned the reputation of being the nation's most desperate outlaws. Their spectacular careers, however, rapidly were terminated by various brushes with the law.

Joseph Jenkins, one of them, was killed Oct. 1 by a posse at Beanblossom, Ind. James Clark was recaptured at about the same time in Hammond. Charles Makely and Harry Pierpont raided the Lima, O., county jail and freed Dillinger, who had been arrested and held there for bank robbery, and later all were seized at Tucson, Ariz. Makely was killed in an attempted prison break and Pierpont was executed shortly after Dillinger was slain in Chicago.

The "Wooden Gun" Episode.

It was after the capture of Dillinger, Makely, Pierpont and Russell Clark at Tucson that Dillinger effected his dramatic "wooden gun" escape from the Crown Point, Ind., county jail, on March 3, climaxing a spectacular series of raids and robberies. Between that day and the day of his death, July 22, at the hands of government agents in Chicago, Dillinger and his gang left a trail of dead men. Burns had been with Dillinger until a short time prior to the Tucson capture, but whether he joined Dillinger after the "wooden gun" escape, was not learned.

Edward Shouse was captured at Paris, Ill., and is back in prison for life. Walter Dietrick was caught in Chicago and gave Capt. Stege considerable information about those still at large, including Burns, before he was returned to Michigan City. And with the seizure yesterday of Burns only Hamilton and Fox are unaccounted for. Fox had been serving a life sentence for a bank robbery at Metamora, Ind.

HUNT HAMILTON IN KANSAS

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 16.—(AP)—State highway patrolmen hunted a motor car theft suspect tentatively identified as John Hamilton, fugitive member of the John Dillinger gang, in the flint hills of Kansas tonight.

Wint Smith, head of the patrol, said three persons had pointed to Hamilton's picture as the likeness of a man who abandoned a bloodstained auto after failing in an attempt to drive it into the Cottonwood river.

Extra officers were rushed to guard the highways about Strong City and Cottonwood and a detail was dispatched to photograph fingerprints on the car. Several .45 shells were found in the machine, which was stolen in Topeka Wednesday.

RUSSIA ACCUSES POWERS OF PLOT TO SEIZE UKRAINE

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Dec. 16.—Charges that "gentlemen attached to intelligence services of several western powers and one eastern power are not above undertaking subversive activities in soviet Ukraine" were made editorially today in Izvestia, the government organ.

The occasion was the 15th anniversary of the defeat of Gen. Anton Denikin and occupation by Red troops of Kiev, which recently regained its ancient distinction as Ukraine's capital.

"The Ukraine remains now as then an object of the predatory desires of many pretenders who see in this great area of economic riches a source of income," said the Izvestia.

It went on to imply the opposition by the kulaks [wealthy peasants] to collectivization was incited and organized by bourgeoise Ukrainian émigrés and imperialist agents willing to sell their fatherland to Polish landlords and German Fascists.

Increase in Army Personnel Is Urged by Secretary Dern

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Measures to strengthen the army and increase its efficiency were recommended by Secretary of War Dern in his annual report to President Roosevelt today for the fiscal year which ended June 20, 1934.

SECRETARY DERN.

The recommendations included increasing the officer and enlisted strength to 14,000 commissioned officers and 165,000 enlisted men, or by approximately 2,000 officers and 50,000 enlisted men.

Urges Purchase of Planes.

Recommendations included:

Purchase of 600 airplanes over a period of three years to give the air corps 2,320 serviceable planes, as urged by the board headed by Newton D. Baker, which investigated the air corps and its needs.

Allocation of sufficient funds to complete the army housing program at home and abroad. Construction without undue delay of a war department building to house all its activities under one roof instead of in 17 buildings, as at present. Enactment by congress of legislation to improve the promotion system, so as to give a more uniform and satisfactory flow of promotion without necessitating heavy additional expense.

Higher Pay for Officers.

Increasing the pay of officers, particularly in the lower grades, when the condition of the treasury warrants.

The report was in several sections, the first which, dealing with the army organization and its needs, was made public today. Other sections will be given out later.

Secretary Dern defended the air corps in its operation of air mail service last winter and said some critics of the corps on this score were unjust. He admitted, however, the experience had exposed certain defects which were being corrected.

The efficiency and morale of the army, as well as of the national guard and the organized reserves, were praised, but Secretary Dern contended that an increase in the strength of the regular forces was necessary.

Police Watch Gun in Auto; Close In.

Six youths, members of a robber band which has been operating on the north side for weeks, are under arrest at the Rogers Park police station. Five have confessed their share in more than fifty holdups.

The capture of the gang grew out of the forgetfulness of one of their number, Harold Kein, 20 years old, 1406 Cleveland street, Evanston, and his belated effort to atone for his lapse of memory.

Kein and two of his companions, having robbed Thomas J. Maloney, 2117 Arthur avenue, of $40 and his automobile, drove on Saturday night in the car to Hillside avenue and Pratt boulevard. There they left the car and drove away in another machine which they had parked nearby. Kein carelessly left a sawed off shotgun, part of the gang arsenal, in the Maloney car.

Gives Names of Allies.

After reaching his home, he decided to risk going back to retrieve the weapon. But when he arrived there Policemen Thomas Leddy and Anthony Murray of the Rogers Park district were waiting in the vicinity, already having discovered the shotgun. They seized the youth.

He named his confederates, Alfred Young, 18 years old, 3242 Osgood street; William Kaywood, 18, of 630 Briar place; Howard Bruno, 23, of 1100 South boulevard, Evanston; Kenneth Hess, 22, of 425 Lee street, Evanston, and George Stein, 22, of 3106 Sheffield avenue. All were arrested at their homes. Kein, Kaywood and Bruno were the trio who held up Maloney. The other three had been in previous robberies, but were resting Saturday.

Girl Helps in Cleanup.

Young was said by the police to be a minister's son, and Bruno boasted that he had taken the examinations to become an Evanston policeman, adding that he had passed and was fourth on the list of those eligible for appointment. All but Stein confessed engaging in robberies, and victims of fifteen stickups identified various members of the band. Two other alleged members, known to the police only as Iggy and George, are being sought.

Miss Maxine McConnell, 1634 Howard street, a former Northwestern university student, now a telephone operator in a north side hotel, assisted the police in their investigation. She told Lieut. Romaine Goudie that Bruno, a friend of hers, asked her Saturday to keep several pieces of jewelry for him. She took the jewelry to the father of the police force candidate, she said, and told the elder Bruno of her suspicions that the valuables were not honestly acquired.

Hess, the police said, has served a term in Pontiac reformatory.

3 FACE JURY TODAY CHARGED WITH AIDING DILLINGER GANGSTER

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The federal government moves tomorrow to bring to justice three persons it charges with harboring the Dillinger gangster, Homer Van Meter, before he was shot to death at St. Paul last Aug. 24.

Charged with aiding Van Meter elude federal agents in St. Paul and at a Leech lake resort after his escape with John Dillinger from the Little Bohemia resort in northern Wisconsin are Thomas F. Xirwin of Chicago and William A. Gray and Mrs. Marie McCarthy of St. Paul.

The trial, starting tomorrow in Federal District court here, will center around alleged activities of the three defendants in connection with Van Meter's flight from several hideouts in Minnesota.

Arrested in St. Paul last September, the three subsequently were indicted by a fedral grand jury. Thy pleaded not guilty here Oct. 9 and have been held under heavy bond in the county jail.

GUARDS KEEP OUT FOOD SENT TO 370 GREEK STRIKERS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

SALONIKA, Greece, Dec. 16.—Three hundred and seventy workers who barricaded themselves in a tobacco factory here face an involuntary hunger strike.

They refuse to leave the building until their employers grant them wage increases. Local authorities have been instructed by Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris to find a peaceable solution.

A cordon of the constabulary around the factory has prevented the strikers, among whom are a number of women, from receiving food and water. The electrical current and water supply also have been cut off. Guards have dispersed crowds which gathered and were being excited by bulletins posted by the strikers in the factory windows.

Incident Stirs Germans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—Feeling ran high in Germany today over the radio and press reports of the shooting of a civilian in Saarbruecken by Capt. James Justice, a British member of the Saar international police force. The Germans claim four persons were injured when the police officer drove his automobile into a crowd.

According to the German version, the driver was intoxicated.

"We kept discipline for fourteen years, and will continue to do so provided those who always tell us we must preserve discipline do the same."

In his speech Nietmann referred to the "drunken foreigner."

"We want to draw attention to the methods used," he concluded. "Accidents can happen to anybody if he is not fully sober, but if a person involved thinks he can shoot down German citizens as if they were wild animals, we protest. We still are ready to show our faith in the authorities providing they choose people of a type precluding accidents of this sort."

5,000 CRIPPLED FRENCH WAR VETS BATTLE POLICE

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Five thousand crippled French war veterans, mostly from the provinces, swung crutches and canes again today in a clash with police in which several of both police and veterans were injured.

Women and children, wives and daughters of the former war heroes, were among the demonstrators, whose numbers today exceeded those of any previous demonstration. Each Sunday the veterans assemble on the streets of Paris to protest against government pension cuts.

The crowds gathered today at Avenue George V. and tried to march down the center of the great boulevard in defiance of police orders. Two tricolor banners fell to the pavement during the ensuing scuffle and were trampled underfoot.

CALLS ELECTRIC POWER PLANS OF U. S. SCANDALOUS

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The administration's national water power development plan was called "a scandalous purchase of political power" tonight by Elon H. Hooker, chemical manufacturer with plants at Niagara Falls and Tacoma, Wash.

His statement, released by the chamber of commerce of the state of New York as part of a movement against the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project and government production of power along the river, characterized administration water power projects in the northwest and south as "hundreds of millions of dollars wasted."

"That political cleverness can postpone the day of reckoning until the administration perpetuating it is out of office does not excuse this scandalous purchase of political power of the supineness of a citizenship and newspaper editorship which allows it to proceed," Hooker asserted.

Drop Chiefly in Nonfamily Group, Census Shows.

Chicago's population shrank 117,920 between April 1, 1930, and Jan. 9, 1934. The shrinkage was chiefly among the nonfamily group, more men than women leaving the city.

This was one of the facts developed from a special census taken this year by the Chicago census commission, of which Mayor Kelly is chairman. CWA workers gathered the statistics, which will be published today by the University of Chicago Press. The data was edited and analyzed by Charles Newcomb and Richard O. Lang, research students at the university who directed the census.

Much Useful Data.

New information which the university thinks will be useful to federal and local housing authorities, to sociologists and real estate dealers is contained in the 734 page volume which is entitled Census Data of the City of Chicago: 1934."

New figures on mobility of the population of Chicago are given much space in the book. For the city as a whole it was found that 230,041 families lived in one place less than one year. This represents 27.7 per cent of the 832,219 families within the city limits. Families which lived in their residences from one to two years comprised 22.1 per cent of the total, while 38.8 per cent lived in their homes five years or more.

Areas of high mobility included a strip north from the Chicago river to the city limits, approximately half a mile wide—although wider from Irving Park boulevard to Foster avenue—and another strip from Kinzie to Harrison streets and from the river west to the city limits.

Mobility by Areas.

In the first area more than 35 per cent of the families had lived at their residences less than one year; in the second, the figure was between 25 and 35 per cent. The area from 31st to 63d street, which has a large Negro population, showed a mobility of more than 40 per cent.

Low mobility was noted on the far northwest and far southwest sides.

The population on April 1, 1930, as determined by the federal census, was 3,376,438. The 1934 figures was 3,258,518. The number of males had declined by 79,482.

Average rentals for the city decreased from $51.30 in 1930 to $32.10 in 1934. In 1930 there were 66,829 homes in the city with rental of more than $100 per month. In 1934, there were only 20,850 homes in this class.

GIRL DANCES FOR CONGREGATION IN BOSTON CHURCH

Boston, Mass., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Religion was interpreted by a dancing girl for the first time in a Boston church tonight.

Introduced by Rev. Dr. Dwight J. Bradley, Miss Eleanor Schirmer, daugher of a Boston banker, presented a program of esthetic dances in Union Congregational church.

Dr. Bradley, who told the congregation that true art was best expressed in religion and that one may worship God while painting a picture, dancing, or doing anything in life worth while, said he was quite emotionally affected by the rhythm, the motions and the music while Miss Schirmer danced.

Accompanied by the church choir and organ the dancer, barefooted and clad in a long flowing gown of pale ivory, performed her first dance. She moved slowly in the dimly lighted edifice as the organ played Schubert's "Great Is Jehovah," interpreting mostly with gestures of her arms. Five dances were performed to the more religious music of Beethoven and other composers.

INDUSTRY FINDS NRA HAS SOLVED FEW PROBLEMS

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—The National Industrial Conference Board, Inc., announced today the results of a survey among 226 industrial executives which showed that 60 per cent of them have discovered no change in employer-employé relations since NIRA became effective.

The companies which participated in the survey employ more than 500,000 workers, the average pay roll being 2,300. Fifteen per cent of the executives who answered the questionnaire said they considered relations with their employés to have improved under the recovery act, and 25 per cent said they were less satisfactory.

The subjects of the survey were asked to set forth the most serious problem facing their respective companies. Wages and hours headed the list. Other problems, in the order of their selection, were collective bargaining, scarcity of skilled workers, old age pensions, and unemployment insurance.

Miniature Rooms Become Permanent Exhibit

MINIATURE ROOM EXHIBIT OPENED BY MRS. THORNE

Collector Tells Secret of Unusual Hobby.

Several hundred interested Chicagoans were initiated into the glamorous world of miniature yesterday when Mrs. James Ward Thorne, speaking in the auditorium of the Chicago Historical society as a preface to the formal opening of her miniature room exhibit, told them how she collected the tiny furnishings of the 27 rooms.

"In my collecting," she said, "I adhere to only one rule. When I see something I want, I buy it then and there. If I don't, it's always gone when I go back."

This rule was learned, she said, in an arduous tour of many European countries, including Italy, where on the banks of the Tiber she purchased the tiny Venetian chandeliers which started her on what she termed "the road to exhaustion."

A Microscopic World.

The world of miniatures, she explained, is one of fastidious microscopic detail. "For instance," she said, "did you know there was a difference in English and American cats? There is. The American cat is soft and fluffy, and lies on the hearth. The English cat is a round, hard ball, and sits on the window seat. You'll find such distinction in miniature cats in my kitchens."

In the course of her lecture she imparted some of her secrets. In her 1885 kitchen, for instance, what appear to be golden brown doughnuts in the cooky jars were once toy automobile tires, and their coating is not sugar, but soda. An entrancing bust in the Louis XVI salon is really a chess queen. The back of a carved Spanish bed is a Spanish comb. The convex mirror in the federal dining room was made from a watch crystal, and the white fur rug in the modernistic salon once was part of an ermine collar.

Many Genuine Pieces.

Most of the miniature furnishings, however, are genuine pieces, such as exquisite Staffordshire and Chelsea china, hall marked silver, Chinese porcelains and antique pewter and brasses.

From the lecture the spectators proceeded to the hall housing the miniature rooms, emerging some hours later in a daze, for, like Alice in Wonderland, they had lost all sense of size.

Publishers Fly to Miami Today Along New Route

A pre-inaugural flight over the Chicago-Miami direct air route on which operations ar eto open Thursday, will be made today by a group of Chicago newspaper publishers, as guests of Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker and Eastern Air lines. The flight will be made in the twin motored fourteen passenger Douglas airliner Capt. Rickenbacker commanded recently when the ship set a new record for planes of its type with an average speed of 217 miles an hour flying from Los Angeles to New York.

No effort will be made on today's flight to set a speed record between Chicago and Miami. Capt. Rickenbacker and his guests are to take part in ceremonies celebrating national aviation day, the anniversary of the Wright brothers' first flight in 1903, and the opening of the new passenger, mail, and express service, at five cities along the airline.

Craft to Rise at 1,400 Ports.

Airplanes are to take off at 10:30 a. m. today from 1,400 airports of the United States as a salute to the epochal feat of Wilbur and Orville Wright, according to Elliott Roosevelt, chairman of the national aviation day committee. The city council has authorized observance of the day in Chicago.

The first brief ceremony of the publishers' air voyage will be held at Chicago airport at 8 o'clock this morning, just before the departure. A fifteen minute stop will be made at Louisville, where another celebration is planned. At Atlanta the war ace and his guests will be honored at a civic luncheon. Jacksonville will hold a fifteen minute ceremony and Capt. Rickenbacker is to speak at a reception in Miami after his arrival about 6 p. m.

Although the Douglas is capable of flying the whole journey in slightly more than six hours, the frequent stops today undoubtedly will cut down the average flying time. With its highly supercharged engines, the Douglas cruises at 210 miles an hour in still air at between 12,000 and 14,000 feet.

Plan Tentative Record Flight.

At each stop, however, the plane loses a great deal of time in circling the landing fields, and, upon resumption of the flight, in climbing back to the optimum altitude. During the climb the airspeed is cut down to between 130 and 150 miles an hour, depending upon the angle of ascent.

Eastern Air lines officials are making tentative plans for an attempt at a speed record when Capt. Rickenbacker is ready to return to Chicago from Miami. In case such an attempt is made only one stop, Atlanta, will be made.

Schedules on the regular service were announced yesterday by Malcomb Boss, division traffic manager, shortly after Capt. Rickenbacker arrived from New York. The regular south bound trip will be made in 8 hours 50 minutes, and the northbound flight in 8 hours 40 minutes. Planes will leave Chicago daily at 1:15 p. m. and arrive in Miami at 11:05 p. m. [eastern standard time].

SKIDDING AUTO HITS TREE; BOY, 3, MAN, 60, KILLED

Herbert Dozier, 3 years old, 10831 Glenroy avenue, and Quin Donegan, 60 years old, 5736 South Park avenue, both colored, were killed yesterday when the automobile in which they were passengers skidded on the snow covered pavement at 107th street near Aberdeen street, hurtled over a curb, and crashed into a tree. The driver of the car, Sanders Campbell, 42 years old, 10831 Glenroy avenue, an uncle of the boy, incurred several broken ribs and lacerations of the head and face.

Glen Peters, 36 years old, of Bensenville, was fatally injured last night when he was struck in Franklin avenue, Franklin Park, by an automobile. He died soon afterward in the Oak Park hospital. Charles Peterson, 3819 Hirsch street, driver of the car, attempted to flee, police said, but was caught two blocks away.

These three deaths and one other raised the trafic toll in Cook county for 1934 to 1,201. The other victims:

Frank Rakowski, 57 years old, 6339 Roscoe street, unemployed. Fatally injured when he was struck by an auto while crossing Central avenue at Roscoe street. Roy Wilson, 37 years old, 1454 Highland avenue, was the driver of the car.

Merrill B. Jackson, 28 years old, 4145 Broadway, was killed yesterday when his automobile struck a bridge abutment on route 88, three miles north of Bradford, Ill.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

START CAMPAIGN TO UPHOLD CITY'S RECORD AS HOST

A campaign to keep Chicago in its position as "America's Host City" will get under way Wednesday at a luncheon in the Palmer House. Intended to be a major factor in offsetting the decline in the number of out of town visitors to Chicago since the closing of the Fair, the campaign is sponsored by the Association of Commerce, working in coöperation with the Greater Chicago Hotel association.

Attending the meeting will be Mayor Kelly, and other political and business leaders in city, county and state.

At the present time, officials said, Chicago outranks any city in the United States in the number of national, commercial and fraternal conventions it entertains. To amplify this already established supremacy is the aim of the new campaign.

In 1933, the year of the first Fair, Chicago entertained 1,527 such meetings with a combined attendance of 1,596,000 persons. This year the conventions are expected to total slightly more than 800 with 500,000 delegates.

JAPAN SEES U. S. CANAL PLAN AS MILITARY THREAT

TOKIO, Dec. 17.—[Monday.]—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman today said that from the standpoint of Japanese-American friendship the plan of Chairman Vinson for a Nicaraguan canal "is most untimely."

[Chairman Vinson of the house naval committee Saturday announced at Washington a move to get congress to authorize construction of a $723,000,000 canal across Nicaragua for commercial and defense purposes.]

The spokesman recalled that Chairman Vinson recently declared the United States must build five ships to Japan's three, and continued, "Mr. Vinson apparently thinks that by threatening Japan with such positive steps America can make Japan yield in the London naval conversations. However, an entirely opposite result is most probable."

The spokesman said the Panama canal still is sufficient for commercial need, hence the Nicaraguan project is obviously for military purposes.

SPECULATION ON NEW DEAL FATE STIRS CAPITAL

Action of Supreme Court Is Awaited.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—With business improving, with business men getting more and more intolerant of regimentation and with the Supreme court evincing disquietude over various aspects of the NRA, there is much speculation in official Washington on the fate of the New Deal.

Laughter from the august bench of the United States Supreme court made news last week, perhaps made history. At least, numerous New Dealers are apprehensive, and numerous anti-New Dealers are hopeful that the merriment bubbling from that row of dignified, black robed old men bodes no good for the Roosevelt experimentation in planned economy and regimentation of business. It takes a good deal to make a Supreme court justice laugh amid the solemnity of the law's holy of holies; in fact, laughter had not been heard in those sacred precincts within the memory of the most venerable court attaché. Some of the attachés were horrified.

First Case in Court.

What evoked the risibilities of the members of our Supreme tribunal was the attempt of the department of justice to justify cracking down on some oil producers in pursuance of edicts limiting the production of oil under the provisions of the National Industrial Recovery act. It was the first New Deal case involving the constitutionality of federal laws to come before the court.

Associate Justice Stone, one of the members of the court relied upon by the New Dealers to sustain the new dispensation, subjected Assistant Attorney General Harold Stephens to a searching interrogation that illuminated the high handed and casual operations of the new burocracy in the technique of cracking down. Under this questioning the assistant attorney general was compelled to admit that in another case the government procured the indictment of four Texas oil producers for conspiracy to violate a provision that was not in the oil code at the time.

F. W. Fischer, counsel for the oil companies at bar, told the court that the defendant in the case to which Justice Stone had called attention "was arrested, indicted, and held in jail for several days and then had to put up a bond for violating a law that did not exist but nobody knew it."

Questioned by Brandeis.

"Are the facts recited in connection with this code applicable in general to other codes?" asked Associate Justice Louis Brandeis, leading liberal member of the court, also relied upon by the New Dealers for opinions favorable to their cause.

"You'll have to ask the attorney general," Mr. Fischer replied. The assistant attorney general admitted that the circumstances are no different in the case of other codes.

"Is there any official or general publication of these executive orders?" Justice Brandeis persisted. "Not that I know of," replied the assistant attorney general, who added that, though it would be rather difficult, it would be possible to get certified copies from the NRA.

Unbounded Power Given.

The Supreme court justices by their inquiries revealed that the passage of emergency laws of vast scope and untried character has resulted in giving well nigh unbounded power into the hands of hundreds of inexperienced officials and has encouraged irresponsible practices in the issuance of decrees now more than 3,000 in number. To many critics of the New Deal the ease with which the administration had been able to incarcerate citizens for violation of a nonexistent law seemed to smack of the practices of dictatorship.

The President was quick to sense this vulnerability of the New Deal. He directed the establishment of a government gazette in which all executive orders will be published. Even publication of the thousands of decrees may not make much less bewildering the multitudinous institutions of regimentation. The 3,000 NRA edicts make unlawful from 4,000 to 5,000 methods of business conduct. The Agricultural Adjustment administration is another maze. One law firm has issued a 340 page law book setting forth the law involved in the processing and other taxes imposed by the AAA. There's so much law in Washington these days that even Philadelphia lawyers are confused. But it's great pickings for the lawyers. A business man doesn't dare do anything or say anything without legal advice.

Labor Conducts Survey.

The American Federation of Labor recently conducted a survey and reported that nonobservance of the codes is general. Every few weeks the NRA announces a reorganization or a new system of code enforcement, but nothing much ever comes of it. A few more prosecutions are started, but, taken by and large, the effort to enforce the codes is about as successful as the effort to enforce prohibition.

Gen. Johnson says the NRA is as dead as the dodo, but the pay roll is very much alive. Not only have no jobs been abolished but almost every week room is found for a few more deserving Democrats. The administration announced a while ago that there was to be no more price fixing, but price fixing goes right on under the blessing of the codes. While the President was saying that prices must go up, Gen. Johnson was imploring industry to keep prices down. The superior authority prevailed.

For Economic Planning.

Economic planning is the salvation of the country, according to the New Dealers. Muddled planning, the anti-New Dealers call it. While the AAA is subsidizing farmers to take land out of cultivation the Public Works administration is carrying out vast reclamation projects to bring other lands into cultivation. While jobless urban families are being moved to rural subsistence homesteads at colossal expense to the taxpayers, farmers who are unable to make a living without government aid continue to produce a surplus of staple crops. Critics of the New Deal urge that it would be wiser planning and less expensive to move the submarginal farmers to the subsistence homesteads.

CANDIDATES FOR U. OF ILLINOIS PROM QUEEN

Expect 1,000 Couples

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Nearly a thousand couples are expected to attend the junior prom, outstanding social event of the year for junior students which will be held on the University of Illinois campus Thursday night. Twenty-three co-eds were entered in the queen of the junior prom contest and the number reduced to five finalists as the result of voting during the prom queen dance held Saturday night. The queen will be named by popular vote of those attending the prom and her identity will be made known shortly before midnight.

Student Is Killed by Engine on Elevated Right of Way

Marcel Siegfried, 14 years old, 5425 Crystal street, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a switch engine while walking on the elevated right of way of the Chicago and North Western railroad near Lake street and Parkside avenue. The boy was a student at the Austin High school.

FALLS DEAD IN DOORWAY.

Apparently stricken by a heart attack, Max Brooks, 63 years old, 937 Roosevelt road, owner of a newspaper stand at Maxwell and Halsted streets, fell dead early yesterday in the doorway of a drug store at 1315 South Halsted street.

LONELY GRAVE HERE RECALLS BOSTON REVOLT

Yesterday was the 163d anniversary of the Boston tea party, that bold night maneuver of the early colonists which was the spark igniting the fires of the revolution for independence. In Chicago no ceremony marked the occasion, but a bronze tablet in Lincoln park is Chicago's tie to the seaboard revolt against the taxes of England.

The tablet was erected as a memorial for David Kennison, who died here in 1852 at the age of 115. His body lies near by, in an unmarked grave, in an area of the park which once was a cemetery.

Kennison was born in Old Kingston, N. H., Nov. 17, 1736. He participated in the tea party and fought in the revolutionary war and the war of 1812. He came to Chicago in 1845. The memorial tablet was placed on a boulder at Clark and Wisconsin streets in December, 1903, by the Chicago chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution, and allied patriotic organizations.

Ex-Wife of Frank J. Gould Loses Gems in Paris Theft

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Several hundred thousand dollars' worth of jewels and antique furniture were stolen today from the home of Mrs. Helen Margaret Kelly, former wife of Frank Jay Gould. The police expressed belief the burglary was the work of a former servant. They also saw possible connection with a similar burglary at Gould's home Nov. 12.

DEMOCRAT VOTE SHOWS DROP IN PUBLIC'S FAVOR

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Despite the unprecedented Democratic strength in congress voted last month, an Associated Press compilation today showed candidates of that party for the house of representatives polled a slightly lower percentage of the major party vote than in 1932.

The practically complete and mostly official tabulation of the ballots for the house gave a 32,279,792 total for all parties.

A fractional diminution of the Democratic percentages in the midwest farm country was more than offset in the industrial east and mining west.

The Democrats had a numerical margin of 3,927,689 over the Republican tally of 13,512,749.

Loss 1.6 Per Thousand.

Of each thousand votes cast for candidates of those parties this year, however, a loss of 1.6 votes for the Democrats was indicated. The figures were 563.1 Democratic and 436.9 Republican.

This compared with the count two years ago of 564.7 in a thousand for the Democrats and 435.3 Republican.

Democrats	17,440,438	20,386,334
Republicans	13,512,749	15,715,010
Others	1,326,605	1,379,747
Totals	32,279,792	37,481,091

The figures told a paradoxical tale of Democratic fortune in two of the states where the party organization exerted itself, Pennsylvania and New Mexico.

11.3 Above in Pennsylvania.

Accompanying the toppling of the veteran Senator Reed in the Keystone state, nominees for the house on the Guffey-for-Senate ticket polled 11.3 per cent more of the total than their predecessors of 1932. The vote for house members exceeded the 1932 presidential vote by 156,000.

At the same time in New Mexico, where the Democratic machine was belatedly and fruitlessly geared to oust Senator Cutting, its favorites for the house aggregated 12.1 per cent less of the house total than two years previous.

In lifting their strength from 314 to 322 representatives the Democrats accounted for 56.32 per cent of the total vote involved to 43.69 for the Republicans. The latter, with 116 seats last session, came out with 103 and the Farmer-Labor party retained only three of its five.

Loss Low in Middle West.

Six-tenths of 1 per cent was the measure of loss in Democratic popularity in the midwest, as evidenced in this tabulation:

State, year.	Democrat.	Pct.	Republican.	Pct.	Dem. gain or loss.
Illinois—
1932.	1,728,587	55.8	1,369,666	44.2	...
Indiana—
1934.	759,795	52.5	686,598	47.5	—2.9
Iowa—
1934.	440,740	56.9	331,799	43.1	3.9
1932.	495,782	53.0	439,783	47.0	...
Michigan—
1934.	501,250	49.8	594,777	50.2	—0.9
Wisconsin—
1932.	500,710	51.6	466,131	48.4	...

The industrial and eastern seaboard states accorded President Roosevelt's party 2.4 per cent more, and the far west 4.2 per cent more of the total than in 1932. The south, where Democratic primaries so frequently provide the only real contest, gave that party's nominees 78.1 per cent of the total, or 1.1 per cent less than two years ago.

DIES AFTER SHOVELING SNOW.

A heart attack apparently induced from shoveling snow yesterday caused the death of John Swingenberg, 47 years old, 4313 Wentworth avenue.

PORTUGAL ELECTS GOVERNING BODY OF CORPORATIVE STATE

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Peace and order were maintained throughout the country today as elections were held for one of the two chambers in the new corporate state modeled after Benito Mussolini's system in Italy.

The result was a foregone conclusion as there was but one list of candidates. Officially it was said more than 90 per cent of those eligible voted. Republican and Socialist parties, not represented, urged their followers to refrain from voting.

The nine year long dictatorship of President Oscar de Fragoso Carmona was assured new support. The new constitution will replace that promulgated in 1933, which restored in some measure representative government.

Three women were elected to the new national assembly which has ninety members. The other chamber of seventy-nine members is appointive.

SMALL COLLEGES HIT IN REPORT OF CARNEGIE CHIEF

Many Not Worth While, Keppel Holds.

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Frederick P. Keppel, president of the Carnegie corporation, today questioned the value of much of the predominant type of college education in America reckoned both in time and money. In his annual report he predicted that if the separate college of limited endowment is to survive it must change to meet changing conditions.

President Keppel stated that pressure upon foundations generally for grants for emergencies created by the depression had been greatly reduced during the last year because of federal, state, and municipal support. Of the 5 million dollars voted from the corporation's income during the year 1933-'34 only $40,000 was appropriated for emergency and other grants outside the normal program, as against nearly a million last year.

U. S. Alone in World.

"The United States is the only country in the world in which it has been assumed that four years of post-secondary nonvocational training," stated the report, "in a word, a college education, should be the rule instead of the rare exception for its young men and women.

"But there is a growing conviction that our country cannot continue to pay the price of the results it is obtaining, a price to be reckoned not only in money but in the years of youth. Every year thousands of young people profit, and profit richly, from the opportunities the colleges now offer, but taking into consideration all the colleges and all the students, it is a question whether the game has proved to be worth the candle."

The colleges, Mr. Keppel continued, had not been blind to the situation, but, "generally speaking, had sought to improve conditions by tinkering with the curricula rather than by concentrating their attention upon the student himself as contrasted with his program of study."

Many Must Cut Costs.

Curriculum changes, Mr. Keppel pointed out, cost little or no money, and many colleges might retort to criticism of their policies that they are facing a condition of drastic reduction in their financial resources making costly proposals for "improvement of the outfit little short of an impertinence."

"It requires no great courage to predict that if it is to survive as a characteristic feature of American education and American life," Mr. Keppel continued, "the independent college must become a very different place from the conventional type which prevailed in the first quarter of the century."

'BLACK WIDOW' SPIDER BITES HIM, BUT HE IMPROVES

Bedford, N. Y., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Dr. Clarence W. Lieb, a New York specialist, has been confined to his home since Tuesday, when he was bitten by a deadly black widow spider.

Although a serum arrived today by airplane from Denver, Col., it will not be used if Dr. Lieb continues to improve.

The spider, which is readily identified by a peculiar red hour glass marking on its black, bulbous body, has caused a score of deaths throughout the country during the last year. Its venom in some cases has been as devastating in effect as that of a rattlesnake.

The mysterious assailant and a woman companion fled in a taxicab, whose driver took them to a tavern operated by Mrs. Anna Hanahan, 2503 Lincoln avenue. Mrs. Hanahan denied knowledge of the couple.

3 MARINES HURT AS 700 LEAVE SHANGHAI FOR U.S.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Seven hundred United States marines sailed for home today, completing a tour of service at Shanghai, but three of their fellows who expected to depart with them were left behind in Shanghai hospitals. They were injured in an accident while being transferred from a tender to the transport Chaumont.

The tender, carrying 50 marines, had drawn alongside the Chaumont when a hatchway cover on which 20 men were standing gave way, plunging the entire group into the hold, where they landed in a tangled, struggling mass. The drop was not a great one. Three on the bottom of the pile, however, suffered broken legs. They were Sergt. H. N. Hountis of Shanghai, Corporal J. Fitzgerald of Worcester, Mass., and Private A. Miller of Fort Des Moines, Ia.

REVEALS CHICAGO COUPLE KILLED BY SWORDSMAN

Chinese Eyewitness Tells Story of Executions.

WUHU, Anhwei Province, China, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Mothers of this little missionary community were lavishing care and attention today upon little Helen Pricilla stam, 2 month old daughter of the murdered Chicago missionaries, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stam.

The infant's escape from the cruel fate that befell her father and mother was regarded as little short of miraculous.

The discovery of clean extra napkins and $10 wrapped in the child's clothing was taken here to mean that the mother's last thoughts before her public execution at the hands of Chinese brigands were of her child.

Killed with Swords.

A Chinese eyewitness of the Stams' execution last week near Tsingteh arrived today and revealed that the Stams were killed with swords in the ancient Chinese manner. Modern executionists in China have turned from the use of swords to pistols, but the brigands who captured the Stams chose the more barbaric method.

During the night before the execution, according to this witness, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Stam were tightly bound with cord and were not permitted to lie down.

In the morning the outer clothing was removed from the young missionaries and they were paraded through the streets of the village of Miaosheo while their captors shouted to the populace to come and see the foreigners killed.

Townspeople Intercede.

At the execution grounds the brigand leaders addressed the crowd, telling them that foreigners were aiding the Nanking government and helping to build roads, and that therefore they must die.

Several townspeople, according to this Chinese, interceded for the Stams, but unsuccessfully. One Chinese of Christian faith, a storekeeper, knelt before the executioners and was taken into custody. He has not been seen since.

The following day a Chinese pastor who fled to the mountains returned to Miaosheo to place the bodies of the slain missionaries in a coffin. He found that their heads had been partly severed by blows from an executioner's sword.

The fate of little Helen Priscilla Stam has not been settled, pending the arrival here of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Scott, who are en route from Tsinan. They are the mother and father of Mrs. Stam. Many, however, have offered their homes to the orphaned baby.

BLOOD TESTS HINT CAUSE OF WOMAN'S SEIZURE WITH YAWNS

Round Grove, Ill., Dec. 16.—(AP)—As Mrs. Harold McKee commenced her second week of continuous yawning at 4 p. m. today, blood chemistry tests gave a hint of possible disturbance in the central nervous system.

Dr. H. L. Pettit, in attendance at the McKee farm home since the odd affliction came upon the woman a week ago, said his laboratory tests of her blood showed increased sugar content.

The Morrison, Ill., physician said increasing sugar may mean a central nervous disturbance is causing the endless yawns. At first it was feared Mrs. McKee had developed diabetes, but further analysis satisfied the doctor that diabetes, known to cause unnatural yawning, is not a factor.

Dr. Pettit prepared tonight to conduct further blood tests on Mrs. McKee. He said she is bearing her affliction stoically, although puzzled over the nation-wide interest in her case has aroused. She has ceased attempts to suppress the regularly recurring yawns to conserve her strength.

SCOUTS TO HELP IN GOOD FELLOWS' CHRISTMAS DRIVE

Troop Leaders to Draft Plans Today.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

Boy Scouts, attention!

This is your invitation from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to join the great army of Good Fellows and take a basket of food, toys, candy and nuts [or whatever else you might choose] to a needy home either on Christmas eve or Christmas morning.

In a bulletin sent to all troops, Alfred C. Nichols Jr., assistant Scout executive, says concerning the Good Fellow work:

"No more practical education of Scouts to be good neighbors and interested in their less fortunate fellows can be suggested."

There's going to be a Scout meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Mr. Nichols' office in the Chicago Council headquarters, 9 West Washington street, and it is to be hoped that your troop will be represented. Among the Scoutmasters who have already signified the intention of boys in their troops to become Good Fellows are: Kenneth H. Davis [Parkwood chapel], Robert Linden [Mont Clare Congregational church], Edward Kinkead [Austin M. E. church], Charles Perrin [Edgewater Presbyterian church], R. E. Boehme [South Shore post, American Legion], and Emerson D. Jones [Church of Good Shepherd].

Other Large Groups to Help.

Mr. Nichols emphasized in his bulletin to troop, ship, nad pack leaders that if the individual units already have other charitable plans arranged for Christmas they should not substitute the Good Fellow plan.

Other large groups enrolled for active participation in the Good Fellow work are members of the air pilots' association who fly in and out of the Chicago airport, and the president of each of the nearly 300 Achievement clups o fthe country's grade schools.

Many are the evidences of Chicagoans' desire to help the unfortunate at Christmas time being noted daily by the Good Fellows staf at 1 South Dearborn street. An official of a well known commercial concern on South Michigan boulevard called the bureau last Saturday afternoon and asked for the names of 20 large families to which employés of the firm will take baskets on Christmas eve. The representative who came for the names left with this request: "We do not want any mention of this made in THE TRIBUNE, please."

Many Good Fellows Yet Needed.

Such is the spirit of the Good Fellows. Several large checks, one for $100, came to the Good Fellow fund, signed Anonymous.

But, with the hundreds of Good Fellows already enrolled, there still remain thousands of anxious homes as yet not likely to be visited by a Good Fellow, where parents are praying that some one will play Santa Claus to their families.

The joy of becoming a Good Fellow is nay one's privilege. It's an easy way to make your own Christmas more enjoyable while you're scattering the shadows in a home that otherwise will have no reason to remember the significance of the day.

The name of a deserving family will be given to you if you call the Good Fellow department after 9 o'clock this morning. The telephone number is Superior 0100. These families have been thoroughly investigated by the Christmas Clearing House of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies. It is maintained by THE TRIBUNE to ascertain the definit needs of deserving families and to help you become a Good Fellow.

Bullets Hit Mansions in Fast Battle.

After a short gun fight, which endangered residents in the exclusive River Forest homes district yesterday afternoon, a paroled convict was shot three times and captured. His arrest resulted from quick thinking by a gasoline filling station attendant he had robbed, and fast work by two suburban policemen.

The wounded bandit was Joseph Gall, 25 years old, 4211 Ottawa street. He was taken to the Oak Park hospital and then removed to the Bridewell hospital. Gall was shot in both legs, and one bullet grazed his scalp.

At 2:05 o'clock Gall drove into a Shell Petroleum station at Park avenue and Lake street, River Forest. After R. H. Zinkel, the attendant, filled Gall's gasoline tank, Gall prodded him with a revolver and took $40 from his wallet. Then the bandit ordered Zinkel to "start walking."

"Starts Walking" for Police.

"Which way?" asked Zinkel, having in mind the fact that the police station was a block away.

"Any way," answered Gall, and Zinkel made for the police station at a smart pace. At 2:08 he entered the station, and in a few words informed Lieut. Ray Rheingruber of the robbery. Ordering one squad car to scour the south end of town, Lieut. Rheingruber, Zinkel, and Policeman Edwin Petersen in another car left the station two minutes later, headed north.

At Thatcher avenue and Division street, Zinkel saw Gall driving slowly ahead of them. As the police car pulled alongside, its radio suddenly blared an order from headquarters.

Mansions' Windows Shattered.

Gall darted a swift glance at the car, shoved his own machine into high gear, but in his haste to escape, swung his car in a circle on the slippery pavement.

Policeman Petersen effectively blocked Gall's machine with the police car. He and Lieut. Rheingruber leaped out. Gall ran across the yard of a palatial home at the intersection, and opened fire on the policeman. As they replied with their revolvers several bullets from the fugitive's pistol shattered windows in two houses. A moment later Gall fell wounded.

Records at the bureau of identification show that Gall was sentenced to the Joliet penitentiary for robbery on Feb. 6, 1929, and was paroled on Feb. 25, 1933.

Ex-Police Operator at Lincoln Park Ends Life

Clifford C. Wheeler, 43 years old, who resigned as a Lincoln Park police operator two months ago, shot and killed himself early today in the squad room in the basement of the police station. He walked into the station shortly after 2 o'clock and went on to the basement. A few minutes later a shot rang out and he was found dead on the floor with a bullet in his temple. He had been with the Lincoln Park police 13 years. He lived at the Clayton hotel, 2026 North Clark street. Recently he was divorced from his wife, Ruth, and that with financial trouble is supposed to have been the cause of his suicide.

SUMMONED TO BLAZE, FIREMEN STAND BY WHILE HOUSE BURNS

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 16.—(AP)—A brick residence lay in ruins today, mute evidence of a strange situation wherein a fire department, called to the scene, refused to go into action to save the building.

The house, that of Capt. Ade Orrill, in one of the city's best residential sections, caught fire yesterday.

The Druid Hills fire department, incorporated, was called to the scene, but the firemen said their rules prevented them from fighting the blaze. The home is outside the city limits, and Atlanta's fire department could not, under its regulations, answer the alarm. So the house burned.

LONDON EXPERT SAYS WE DON'T EAT PROPERLY

Andre Simon of London, connoisseur of good foods, was the guest at an all-American dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Byfield in the bungalow on the roof of the Hotel Sherman last evening. Mr. Simon, a Frenchman by birth, who is touring this country for the purpose of examining American culinary dishes, said Americans do not know how to eat properly.

"The people in your country," he said, "either use hard liquor before or during the meal, which dulls the senses so the good food is not appreciated, or they abstain from the use of any liquor. Light wines should be used with a meal because they stimulate the digestive processes and the senses, making food more delectable."

The 100 guests were served first with Tom and Jerrys, followed by various cocktails and wines, with varied courses of fish and meats.

"SPEAKLESS" AD CLINIC.

The newly formed Advertising Managers' club will hold a "speakless clinic" on planning advertising appropriations tomorrow evening at the Hotel La Salle.

REFUGEES RETURN SLOWLY TO HOMES IN SO. HUNGARY

Fled Szeged Fearing Attack by Jugo-Slavs.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SZEGED, Hungary, Dec. 16.—Hundreds of people who left this frontier town last week fearing invasion by the Jugo-Slavs during the critical moments of the negotiations at Geneva over the Hungarian-Jugo-Slav situation are now returning to their homes here.

Szeged is the largest town of southern Hungary and it was widely believed here that the Serbs would occupy it unless their demands were met.

The frontier is fifteen minutes away and beyond it lies the rich agricultural district which formerly was Hungarian and on which the first fighting of the last world war broke out.

Exploration of the frontier posts revealed there were no concentrations of troops on either the Hungarian or Jugo-Slav side, but frontier guards remain strictly behind their own lines and the ordinary Hungarian-Serb courtesies have been suspended.

At Kiszombor, directly east of Szeged, the frontiers of Rumania, Hungary, and Jugo-Slavia meet. Hungarian soldiers on guard there work in the fields, but buckle on their revolvers and ammunition belts and grab their rifles at the approach of visitors. The Rumanian troops are on guard a couple of hundred yards away, and the Jugo-Slavs are at another post with an intervening strip of no man's land between them.

Trains Halted at Border.

Hungarian chauffeurs are not allowed to cross into either of the other countries. Tempers are plainly unpleasant. The Hungarians say one Hungarian can lick ten Rumanians and five Czechs, but, they respectfully add, only one Serb.

At Roszke, just south of Szeged, there is another frontier post and the road leading from Hungary to Subotica in Jugo-Slavia. The same conditions exist here. The road is barred with a long pole, and international trafic has ceased.

A good many Jugo-Slavs who were expelled last week came from Horgos, just across the frontier from Roszke. Twenty-five miles farther west from Szeged is another frontier post at the village of Kelebia. International trains cross from Hungary into Jugo-Slavia at this point. Under normal circumstances the Jugo-Slav customs and passport men would be stationed here to get on the train and proceed to Subotica, which is eight minutes away on the other side. But feeling apparently is so bad that the train comes to a standstill in the open country, exactly at the frontier line, and customs and passport men get on there.

Poor People Near Border.

Along the frontier on a stretch between Kiszombor and Kelebia, the country is flat, unforested, and open. At intervals of a mile or two are concrete machine gun emplacements and pillboxes on the Serbian side. These constitute a grim reminder to the Hungarians.

All the southern section of Hungary is poor and dilapidated. The people look miserable and the living standard is low. These are the people who would bear the brunt of any occupation by the Jugo-Slavs, should the latter feel that Hungary does not give them satisfaction as ordered by the league of nations.

The Hungarians here also seem to feel vividly that they are caught between the pincers of the little entente countries — Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania.

The Hungarians claim that in Vojvodina, that district which lies in Jugo-Slavia just south of Szeged, the Serbs possess 24,324 square miles of what is properly Hungarian territory. The district has 570,000 former Hungarians and as much Hungarian is spoken as Serbian.

FOR RENT: FRENCH APARTMENT SAFE AGAINST AIR RAID

Paris Want Ad Features Bombproof Cellar.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 16.—"FOR RENT—Sunday, five room apartment, five minutes from Bois de Boulogne, central heating, bombproof shelter."

This unconscious but revealing symptom of the war phobia prevalent in France today appeared yesterday in the form of a want ad in the classified section of one of the big Paris newspapers. It was inconspicuously wedged in among dozens of other apartment ads couched in more conventional form.

Wine Cellars Used as Shelters.

Suspicions that it might be a practical joke were dissipated when an investigation showed that a bombproof shelter really exists—a particularly fine one made by transforming wine cellars of an old monastery on the site of which the building stands.

While this, as far as is known, is the first time a want ad in a French paper has listed a bombproof shelter against air raids among the principal attractions of an apartment for rent, police for some time have been quietly checking over the cellars in Paris apartment houses and classifying the ones suitable for public refuges in case of air raids.

Only a few days ago a brochure appeared on the newsstands giving official instructions of the Paris police department to the population in the case of air raids. Among many practical hints is the advice to householders to fit cellars as bombproof shelter places and to equip families with gas masks in time of peace.

Civil War Is Feared.

Besides being nervous over the danger of war, the people are considerably preoccupied with the menace of a civil war—at least to judge from the newspapers—despite the era of public tranquility ushered in by the government of Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

At the moment a violent controversy is raging in the press over a bill introduced in the chamber of deputies which would take away the revolvers of army reserve officers. The measure seems to have some chance of being passed.

According to the regulations, every reserve officer is allowed his own service revolver and sword or saber, but some nervous deputies apparently feel that this is a menace to the security of the state.

Nationalist and military circles are indignant over this attempt to disarm the reserve officers. The National Association of Reserve Officers has issued questionnaires to members asking them whether they will allow themselves to be disarmed if the law is voted, and if so whether they intend to keep their commissions.

Officer Voices Defiance.

Henry de Kerillis, a reserve officer who is a well known political figure and brilliant propagandist for the nationalist cause, publicly answered the questionnaire on his own account this morning.

He flatly declares that if the bill is passed he will defy the civil authority and refuse to give up his revolver.

In the Echo de Paris Kerillis adds: "And if the revolutionary hordes in the pay of foreign enemies throw up barricades and attack the state I will strap it on and I will not forget to load it either. That is precisely why they want to disarm us."

SINGAPORE LAND SKIRMISHES END WAR MANEUVERS

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Dec. 17 [Monday].—(AP)—Sharp land skirmishes at dawn today brought Great Britain's maneuvers at her eastern Gibraltar to a close, and while it was said valuable lessons were learned, their nature and extent remained an official secret.

Early risers were able to witness the infantry's defense against swarming bluejackets on the south coast, but what happened "somewhere in the China sea," was not revealed. The part played by the royal air force was particularly mysterious, as flying boats left the air base yesterday afternoon and returned two and a half hours before they were expected. This led to the assumption the flyers outdid themselves in the task of locating the invading fleet.

Bombers roared away at intervals during the night, but even the officials will have to guess at their effectiveness. Dummy torpedoes were not carried because of a last minute decision to reduce battle risks.

ITALY DEMANDS APOLOGY IN ROW WITH ETHIOPIA

Mussolini Refuses to Arbitrate Quarrel.

ROME, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini, personally championing his native African troops in the Ualual affair, today flatly refused arbitration of the bitter quarrel with Ethiopia, and in a report to the league of nations insisted upon an apology from the Ethiopian government.

Mussolini said in the report, which was phrased in the first person singular, that Ethiopian charges of Italian culpability in the attack were false.

In his own vigorous style he characterized the battle as a "sudden unprovoked aggression against Italy's native garrison," and said that Italy would press for apologies and indemnities.

Claims Troops Were Insulted.

Mussolini's answer was telegraphed to the league secretariat at Geneva. It stated Ethiopian soldiers in the Ualual region had hurled challenging insults at troops in the Italian garrison, then attacked at a given signal despite all efforts of Italian officers to preserve peace.

The report was confined to seven paragraphs. It said the Ethiopian statement filed with the league concerning the affray "was destitute of any foundation; on the other hand, it is clear that the aggression came from the Ethiopians and that the responsibility falls upon them."

Concerning the alleged situation leading up to the battle, Mussolini said an Anglo-Ethiopian command was surveying pasturage and arrived at Ualual Nov. 23, where British, Ethiopian, and Italian officers established contact.

The Ethiopian commissary maintained that Ualual belonged to Ethiopia, and therefore that the African kingdom's troops, numbering 1,000, had a right to advance.

Refuses Permit to Advance.

The Italian commander refused to permit an advance into Italian Somaliland, according to the Italian version, saying the question of Ualual ownership must be decided by the two governments. After this the Anglo-Ethiopian command retired, while Ethiopian troops remained drawn up in front of the Italian forces.

The two lines of troops remained face to face for several days while Ethiopian soldiers "tried to provoke desertion," said the report, "of Italian soldiers, and attempted to induce them into combat with warlike fantasies according to Ethiopian custom."

The report charged that Ethiopians finally opened a concerted attack at a rifle shot signal given by one of their number who was clearly visible from the Italian position. It said the Italians were able to repel the attack only after the arrival of reinforcements, the use of airplanes, and the employment of an armored car.

INJURED IN AUTO CRASH, LIMP TO THEIR WEDDING

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 16.—(AP)—A plunge over a thirty foot embankment near Millard, Neb., today failed to prevent the wedding of Robert Barkley, 20, and Miss Dorothy Miks, 21, of Lincoln.

After the bride-to-be received treatment at a hospital for a possible leg fracture and the prospective bridegroom was attended for bruises and chest injuries the couple limped to the home of a minister, where they were married, the bride wearing bandages instead of gardenias.

Deputy Sheriff Walt Young, who chopped in the top of the couple's auto to liberate them from the wreckage, proved a handy man for Cupid by locating a minister.

Barkley is a nephew of W. E. Barkley, President of the Joint Land Bank of Lincoln, in which the bridegroom is employed.

2 MILLION SERB RESERVES SWEAR OATH TO BOY KING

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Two million reserve soldiers of Jugo-Slavia—men between 21 and 55—took a solemn oath of loyalty today to little King Peter II.

All the villages, cities, and towns of the nation were deserted for several hours while the ceremony was in progress. Village lanes and city streets were completely denuded of able bodied men.

Clergymen Read Oath.

Even taxicabs and automobiles were absent in Belgrade, where all available vehicles were pressed into service to get men to the parade grounds, where six clergymen representing Jugo-Slavia's six religious groups administered the oath. These represented various branches of the Catholic faith, Jews, Mohammedans, and Protestants.

When the commanding general gave a signal the priests read the oath and 6,000 voices repeated it. At the same time a forest of hands arose in affirmation.

Loyalty to their king until death was the tenor of the oath. Although the reservists wore no uniforms and carried no arms, the ceremony was majestically impressive.

Boy King Absent.

The boy king himself was not present. He remained under close guard at the Dedinje palace, where attendants keep constant watch on him to avoid any risk of attempted assassination.

Prince Paul, however, the chief regent, appeared in public at another ceremony—the cutting of a ribbon formally opening the Alexander bridge at Zemun, which is an important link in the Paris to Istanbul international highway.

Mayor Talks at Banquet of Italo-American Union

Mayor Kelly spoke before the Italo-American National union last night in the Morrison hotel at a banquet commemorating the 39th anniversary of the society's founding. Vincent E. Ferrara, treasurer of the society, presided and Joseph Imburgio, president, talked. Among those at the speakers' table were State Representative A. J. Prignano, Sanitary Trustee Paul V. Colliani, City Prosecutor M. L. Rosinia, Attorney Stephen A. Malato, and former Judge John A. Sbarbaro.

THE STORE FOR MEN

Make his Christmas a FIELD Christmas!

Regardless of who "he" is on your list you can't go wrong if you select every masculine gift you have to get from The Store for Men. For here in this store that is actually for men, you'll find the largest selection of fine merchandise in town. And don't forget no matter who "he" is—this is "his" store!

For the biggest problem—pajamas

Somewhere on your list there is one name that probably puzzles you above all others. "What shall I give him," you've asked yourself over and over again. Here is a gift, princely in its quality and smart in its colors and styling—beautiful striped pajamas tailored of the finest imported broadcloth you've ever seen. In a lustrous, colorful assortment $10

For the man who likes fine things

—we sincerely recommend this marvelous imported madras shirt that has two matching collars. It's conservatively patterned, yet you'll find shades that are rich and unusual; the designs and weaves for the most part are exclusively our own. Each garment is meticulously tailored with great attention paid to every slight detail . . $5

For all the cousins—pigskin gloves

This will solve the second, third and fourth blood-relationship problem very nicely; and inexpensively, too. For here are sturdy, natural pigskin gloves that will wear and wear—and yet they're trimly tailored and unusually warm. Slip-on or snap styles . . $3.50

For the younger man—this tie set

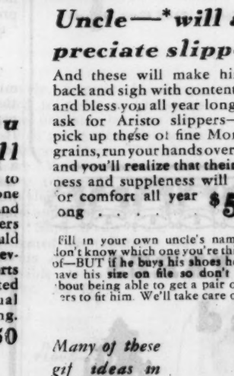
Don't be misled. These tie sets with harmonizing handkerchiefs aren't all like the ones you may have seen in the past few years. (Note the box on the table above.) What we've done has been to take rich, hand-tailored, all-silk neckwear and match each individual cravat with a fine handkerchief of a similar shade. $1.50

For the university man—a stud set

With dress clothes being as important as they are you can't go wrong by giving one of these Swank dress stud sets. Authentic in their styling, made with white gold (plated) front and plain gold backs. In either jet black or smoked pearl, for dinner jacket wear. $3.50

Shorts—if you know him well

Underwear is a hard thing to give a man other than someone who is "one of the family." And yet there are plenty of brothers or uncles or cousins who would be pleased as punch with several pair of these superfine shorts tailored of marvelous imported shirting materials. Unusual shadings, French back styling. A shirt of imported tisle is $1. The shorts, $2.50



Uncle—* will appreciate slippers

And these will make him sit back and sigh with contentment and bless you all year long. Just ask for Aristo slippers—then pick up these of fine Morocco grains, run your hands over them and you'll realize that their softness and suppleness will make for comfort all year long $5.50 fill in your own uncle's name—we don't know which one you're thinking of—BUT if he buys his shoes here we have his size on file so don't worry about being able to get a pair of slippers to fit him. We'll take care of . .

Many of these gift ideas in Evanston and Oak Park

For the "forgotten man" reserve a tie

Sure as shooting there's going to be a man somewhere that you forgot—and Christmas day you're going to be mighty embarrased if he turns up and you haven't something to give him. For just such an occasion we suggest three or four of these fine, imported silk cravats $2.50

Grandpa will go for "Pigskin"

That's no fooling. Away with the pinnacle deck. No more dodging out the front door when Grandpa is looking for a cribbage partner. Here's a new football game that has all the thrills and action of the actual game. Worked out by Tom Hamilton, famous Navy coach, it is the game sensation of the season $3.75

For that younger brother—a reefer

Here's color, dash, smartness and warmth all wrapped up in one gift . . . a reefer style muffler of all-wool, designed in gay plaids that are just what nine out of ten young men all over the country are sponsoring right now. You can't go wrong . . . plenty of color, plenty of patterns, a great collection —and one low price . . $3

IMPORTANT

Because of a change in the regulations governing the Illinois Retailers' Occupation Tax, announced December 10th by the Illinois State Department of Finance, substantially 2% will be added to the prices of merchandise in this advertisement, and to the prices marked on all our merchandise.

MY HAT

Well, not yours, exactly, but your gift of a hat to him will be mightily appreciated, no matter who he may be. For we've created a neat little hat box, in correct proportions, into which we insert for you a gift certificate for whatever price hat you might want to give him and attached to it is a clever little verse that wishes him a "hat-ty" Christmas.

HIS SHOES

Probably present a problem if you'd really like to give him a pair of Field shoes. If he buys them here ordinarily, we have his size. But if he doesn't simply give him a certificate in a cute little shoe box and he'll have a comfortable understanding of your Christmas gift for months to come.

NEW YORKERS ON RELIEF LOSE DESIRE TO WORK

Why Worry? Is Inquiry as Stork Nears.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—The portly master of a squalid household in an east side tenement puffed his pipe complacently amidst the noisy disorder occasioned by the yelling, playing and fighting of his five small children.

The furniture in the three room apartment was mean; the floors and walls dirty. But it was warm and neither parents nor children were hungry.

It was a typical family on relief. There was not much comfort but there was the feeling of security built up over two years of continuous support as public wards that there was fear of neither hunger nor cold.

In one room, the mother of the children moved languidly about some domestic tasks. It was obvious that a sixth child soon was due to arrive.

Another Child to Support.

"Aren't you worried about having another child to support?" the apathetic father was asked.

"Why worry?" he inquired, shrugging his shoulders. "The relief take care of him."

Couples on public relief don't bother to practice birth control, it was obvious. According to a survey recently completed by a University of Wisconsin professor, Dr. S. A. Stouffer, there are 35 per cent more births among families on relief than among their neighbors who still work.

To such family heads as the man described above, the coming of another mouth to feed merely means that his monthly allowance will be increased by a few dollars.

No Call for His Services.

Moreover, the desire to work has completely expired in this man. During the first few months after he began receiving relief, he constantly sought a job. He had been a skilled wood worker but there was no call for his services.

For another few months he was employed on a work relief project. Then he was transferred back to the home relief rolls. "Inability to perform manual labor" was written on his card although he insisted that his services apparently had been satisfactory and he still was in good health.

He no longer looks for work, he admitted readily, and is content to sit at home when the weather is cold or lounge about the streets when it is pleasant outside. He is not ashamed of this attitude. There are hundreds of others like him in the same block.

Those On Relief Lose Morale.

Edward Corsi, head of the work relief division, admits that there is a widespread loss of morale among men on relief.

"Unless men who have been on relief two or three years or more are reëmployed very soon, they can never be made to work, he said. "They will continue on relief indefinitely and most of them were originally industrious men."

It is upon such subjects that the professional communists, more powerful in New York City by far than anywhere else in the United States, center their attention. Such men inevitably become discontented. Unwilling to work, careless of the future, they listen with attention to the glowing promises aired by the proponents of "the revolution."

No Communists On Rolls.

This reporter found no avowed communists among the relief workers themselves. There was, instead, a gentle socialistic doctrine displayed. It was apparent in conversations the feeling that the relief organization is a fine step forward in the "share the wealth" program. The bourgeoisie were being forced to split their earnings with the poor in the form of taxes to support the relief organization.

This undoubtedly helped to account for the zeal with which the relief workers and investigators enlist new soldiers in the relief army and why the cost of relief in the city is now near the $20,000,000 a month mark. But the communist is not satisfied with the relief organization. It is not doing enough for the unemployed, he declares.

Among the principal agitators in New York are David Lasser of the "National Action committee"; James Gaynor of the United Action conference on work, relief and unemployment; Richard Sullivan of the "Unemployed councils of greater New York," and Emanuel Levin, organizer of the "United action conference."

Agitators Demand $10 a Week.

These men organize demonstrations and parades upon the city hall. They announce "hunger marches" upon the state capital. They exhort mass meetings in Union square. The theme upon which they harp is the one that not half enough is being done for the idle.

"Ten dollars a week cash until the government can give us jobs at $30 up per week!" is a typical communist demand. It sounds very attractive to the lounging listeners.

Mayor F. H. La Guardia is in agreement with these agitators in the belief that the government should take over all relief, relieving the municipality of the burden. He admits that the increasing financial demands of relief are slowly strangling New York City. Hastily imposed taxes, such as the new city sales and a city income tax are merely postponing the final reckoning.

New York officials, in general, look hopefully towards Washington where reports frequently are circulated that the President has decided upon a great self-sustaining works program as the answer to the relief dilemma. Unless these somewhat vague reports gain more substance in the near future, New York will be involved inextricably in financial difficulties, they agree.

Attitude of Suspicion.

Communist demonstrations are frequently directed against the headquarters of the relief organization which are located in a large building on Broadway near Union Square, after numerous near riots in front of and in this building the officials have set up a system of guards which makes the place a veritable fortress. No one is admitted without submitting to questions, proving his identity, and obtaining a pass.

Because of the attacks being leveled against the organization, there is an attitude of suspicion toward the press. A request to be permitted to accompany an investigator on his rounds was curtly refused with the explanation that "it is against the law." No answer was given to a query concerning the nature of this law.

There are several reasons for the extent of unemployment in New York city. Perhaps the most important of these is the enormous increase in real estate taxation which has caused a cessation in building and the consequent idleness of thousands engaged in the building trades.

Real Estate Tax Burden Heavy.

So heavy has the real estate tax burden become that the bankers, who have kept the city government afloat for years by heavy loans, finally drew up an agreement that the levy upon real estate could not exceed $450,000,000 a year. This agreement was made a part of the state law.

Despite this law, the present La Guardia budget calls for a real estate tax levy of $496,000,000, according to a report by the citizens' budget commission. How this excess taxation is to be legally levied is one of the problems confronting the city administration.

The new securities and stock exchange legislation threw thousands more out of work in this financial center and the national decrease in exports caused by the agricultural administration's plowing under program hurt the shipping industry.

Strikes Becoming Popular.

But, in summing up the situation, the curious attitude of the relief organization itself toward the unemployed must be considered as one of the main reasons for the extent and the continuance of unemployment in this city.

Strikes in all trades are increasingly popular here because the strikers are immediately put on relief. Many of these strikers find it so easy to exist without work that their strike becomes a permanent one. Especially is this true of the workers in the lower wage classes. In Harlem, for example, the great proportion of the Negroes on the relief rolls are living as well on the dole as they ever did when they could get jobs. There is small inclination, as a result, to seek employment, and the relief legion becomes ever mightier.

SLAYER OF GIRL NEARBY WHEN BOY VANISHED

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Albert H. Fish, senile house painter who confessed last week to the kidnaping and murder of Grace Budd during 1928, has been placed within seven blocks of the neighborhood in which William Gaffney, 4 year old Brooklyn boy, disappeared in February, 1927, detectives announced today.

Fish was employed at the time as a painter by the Brooklyn real estate firm of Wood, Harmon & Co., said Detective William King of the missing persons bureau.

On the day that the Gaffney child vanished from a point near his home Fish was at work on a job nearby, Detective King said, refusing, however, to reveal the exact address. The prisoner has been questioned about it but has insisted that he had nothing to do with the Gaffney abduction.

6 years old . . . and 60 years young!

. . . they both drink milk for health

● You know, of course, that children should have milk to help them grow, to give them energy. But did you know that milk also helps grown-ups stay young? In the words of the medical profession, pure, clean, rich milk actually helps adults "retain the characteristics of youth!"

So your whole family should have milk regularly—a quart a day for the children, a pint a day for adults. It's wise to use plenty of milk in cooking . . . in cream sauces and custards, for instance.

And—it's wise, too, to know the dairy you patronize!

The Bowman Dairy Company has built its reputation on sixty years of dependable service. And for a distributor of milk, those words dependable service include so many things! Constant precautions . . . constant tests for cleanliness, for purity, for richness . . . in addition to reliable delivery service, 365 days a year!

TWO IN ILLINOIS HAVE '32 INCOME OF OVER MILLION

New York in Lead with 8; New Jersey, 4.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Two persons in Illinois had net incomes between a million and a million and a half dollars in 1932, the low year of the depression, the treasury department announced today.

The treasury's announcement was contained in its final report on the nation's income for 1932 as reflected in the 3,877,430 individual income taxes filed during 1933. A week ago the treasury made public a preliminary report on 1933 incomes, based on 1934 returns, but the final 1933 report will not be made until this time next year.

Michigan Has One.

Illinois is one of the seven states which could boast citizens making more than a million dollars in 1932, the treasury's report disclosed. The other states and the number of million dollar or larger incomes which they showed were New York, eight; New Jersey, four; Pennsylvania, two; North Carolina, two; Michigan, one; and Delaware, one.

No identifying information about the two Illinois millionaires was given by the treasury. The identity of the other millionaires was also cloaked by the treasury, even to the extent of suppressing certain items of their income in order not to give any clews.

It was assumed here, however, that one of the North Carolina millionaires was S. Clay Williams, president R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, who is now head of the national industrial recovery board. One of the Pennsylvania millionaires similarly was assumed to be a member of the Mellon family. The Michigan millionaire was believed to be either Henry or Edsel Ford or the multimillionaire Michigan senator, James Couzens.

The treasury reported that Illinois' income tax payers fell into the following net income groups:

Net incomes—	Number.
$5,000 and less	258,650
$5,000 to $10,000	20,056
$10,000 to $20,000	5,367
$20,000 to $40,000	1,963
$40,000 to $60,000	499
$60,000 to $80,000	161
$80,000 to $100,000	81
$100,000 to $150,000	54
$150,000 to $200,000	26
$200,000 to $250,000	8
$250,000 to $300,000	6
$300,000 to $400,000	6
$400,000 to $500,000	1
$500,000 to $750,000	7
$750,000 to $1,000,000	1
$1,000,000 to $1,500,000	2

In its analysis of the Illinois incomes the treasury reported that there were 286,888 federal income tax returns filed from the state showing a net income of $872,941,170 on which the government assessed a tax of $23,914,230.

PATMAN VISIONS EARLY APPROVAL OF CASH BONUS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Early approval of the cash bonus bill by majorities, in both house and senate, larger than necessary to override a presidential veto was forecast today by leaders of the veteran bloc.

"At least 300 house members and 70 senators are pledged," Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], said.

Patman's bill provides for payment by issuance of United States treasury notes. No additional taxes, he contended, would be necessary.

He said that in the event the President vetoed the bill "at least 290, or two-thirds of the house will vote to override, while 63 senators will do it."

U. S. SOVEREIGNTY AND THE CANADIAN SEAWAY.

At its sixteenth annual meeting held in St. Louis recently the Mississippi Valley association voted unanimously to reaffirm its opposition to the St. Lawrence treaty with Canada. This action was taken despite the appeal of Secretary Dern that this attitude be reversed. The emissary of President Roosevelt told the association that ample water diversion from Lake Michigan for the Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterway had been provided for in the treaty. Gen. Markham had said so and his decision should not be questioned, even if two of his predecessors and several staf officers had either disagreed with him or qualified their approval. Mr. Dern finally stated that he had been authorized by the President to say that a reservation would be made by the United States in the final draft of the treaty to cover disputed labor features. Under the terms of this "reservation" American engineers and labor would be employed and American materials used in any construction work undertaken on either side of the border for which American funds were supplied.

Some way we cannot visualize Canadian citizens at such points as Brockville, Cornwall, and other Canadian river towns giving favorable consideration to this reservation. Under its terms they would be expected to organize greeting committees to extend a hearty welcome to a horde of New York engineers and laborers bringing their own picks and shovels to dig up the Canadian scenery. Again we must contend that even this is a minor point of injustice in the treaty. It took Senator Dieterich of Illinois, who followed Dern on the platform, to inform him that the real rub was the surrender of sovereignty over Lake Michigan to Canada, and at the same time permitting that country to establish Georgian bay, undeniably a part of international Lake Huron, as a new and separate Canadian lake.

The great difficulty with these gentlemen of the east, so willing to sacrifice the vital welfare of the midwest for the grandiose project of a superpower area in northern New York, is their inability to regard the midwest as anything but a national granary and domestic market for eastern manufactured products. They wanted the Panama canal to facilitate far east and Pacific coast commercial contacts. They got it and the midwest paid its share of the construction cost willingly because of national defense aspects. There is nothing of that sort involved in the St. Lawrence treaty—in fact, if national advantage is to accrue the beneficiary will be the British empire.

It is perhaps true that the manufacturing east has developed its natural resources and water powers to saturation, and for future development must do something desperate. A Gov. Roosevelt of New York would take that view. President Roosevelt of the United States, however, should consider the midwest claims for industrial development and its attendant facilities.

A proposal was made some time ago that the entire River St. Lawrence, including the ports of Montreal and Quebec, should be internationalized; that Canada should surrender a measure of control over the Gulf of St. Lawrence as far as Newfoundland. Such a suggestion is no more preposterous than a treaty whereby Canada will dictate in perpetuity what shall and shall not be done with the waters of Lake Michigan. "In perpetuity" is a long time.

MILITARY CENSORSHIP.

The American public got its news of the proposed trans-Pacific flight of army planes by way of the British press. Official censorship at Washington shut off the American press.

That is the way censorship frequently works. It is not a peculiar incident in American military affairs. The same policy of official suppression protected the British command from a prompt accounting for the ghastly fiasco of Passchendaele, and the British people, who had a right to know what their generals were doing or failing to do, have only now discovered through Lloyd-George's publication of his reminiscences where responsibility lay. War exacts terrible sacrifices, and many of them are unnecessary, the fruit of incompetence which ought to be exposed in time for correction. No military chief could have survived an exposure of the sanguinary blundering of Haig in the Passchendaele offensive, but censorship dropped the curtain, he remained in command, and at the end of the war was showered with honors. If he had been removed he might at least have been succeeded by a more competent commander with a great saving of life and an increased efficiency in British operations. But personalities aside, a lesson in inefficient generalship would have been driven home when it needed to be—not twenty years too late.

The theory that censorship preserves public morale and protects commanders from unjust criticism is very thin. In our civil war Lincoln repeatedly removed incompetent generals, and finally found Grant. Lincoln knew all about public morale, but he also knew that the war must be won by competent generalship, and would be lost by incompetents. Censorship is the shield of incompetence.

THE AUTO SHOW.

It is good news that Chicago automobile dealers will put on an automobile show. A Century of Progress Exposition proved for all time the attractions industrial exhibits have for the public, and deservedly. A visit to the Ford, General Motors, Chrysler, and other exhibits was an education in the marvels of applied science and the meaning of modern organization. It brought us all a greater realization of what our material progress and advantages cost in effort of brains and character. That is a lesson the people of civilized society must learn if civilization is to be protected from the assaults of ignorance or the slow decay of indifference.

But apart from our need of education, these skilful and brilliant displays of industrial achievement are delightful in themselves. They are good shows. The American automobile is a thing of beauty. It is not only a symbol and exposition of complicated intelligence, but also a work of art.

Americans are lovers of machinery, and the automobile is machinery of the highest order, and it shows us how real beauty of line and material, color and form is a true handmaiden of efficient use. Every one enjoys an automobile show, for every one wants one and hopes to have one some day.

THE PROFESSORS ALSO BY THEIR FRUITS?

Hanley has been coach at Northwestern since 1927 and under him the team has had its big years and also its disappointments. A general observation would be that the coach has done the best he could with the players available and that the players have given him and the game the best they had. They have played well against stronger teams and have looked well even in defeat when the opposing partisans were relieved to hear the closing gun.

It may be that circuit riding is good for both coach and college. Two of the country's best known teachers of the game, Stagg of Chicago and Warner of Stanford, both well in the autumn of their days, went to unpretentious schools and had a spring blooming, one at the College of the Pacific and the other at Temple in Pennsylvania. Change may be a good thing, but it does not occur to the alumni as such until the sophomores do not yield just the right passer and receiver, just the right punter and blocking backs. Then the coach knows that he will be blamed.

In Hanley's case as in the case of many other coaches the team cannot lose games and the alumni lose bets and peace of mind without trouble starting. Players and undergraduates evidently do not count much in the problem. They are not supposed to be spiritually upset until they are out of school.

A faculty committee at Northwestern sat on the coach's case, teachers with the contract of another teacher before them for decision. Here is where an interesting educational theory enters. It concedes at the beginning that the football teacher has a financial responsibility to the institution. He must be good at the box office, a requirement not insisted upon elsewhere in the faculty. A geologist would not be expected to draw a gate of $250,000 or more in six or seven weeks. The theory goes further.

Admitting that the other professors are not to be held responsible for red figures, are they to be brought to book for classroom qualifications regardless of the material with which they work?

The inference is that the teacher must be judged not by his own ability but by that of his students. If a boy flunks the professor is to blame. Should he then resign? It is a Spartan code, but apparently teacher has to meet it on the football field. He's to blame if the line and back field fail when four more yards would be touchdown and game.

If Brown Jr. and Smith Jr. fail to make the grade should the entire faculty be fired or merely the president and the board of trustees? The theory which confronts the coach is that the championship team is in the undergraduate body. That theory can be extended further into higher education, but the faculty might be expected to take the other side even, if necessary, as to the coach.

Editorial of the Day

THE ACADEMY SCANDAL.

[The Baltimore Sun.]

The National Academy of Design has had the worst shock it has known in 108 years and an expulsion from its ranks has followed. An Australian painter, winner in 1933 of the Ellin Speyer prize, has been accused of copying the work of another Australian and passing it off as his own.

Forgery and fakery in the arts have a long and interesting if not honorable history. The great literary fakes make up a whole curious underworld of letters, peopled with not only such shadowy, curious figures as George Psalmanazar and William Ireland, but occasionally creatures of real and tragic genius, Chatterton, for example.

Painting has supplied the material for elaborate learned quarrels over attributions and authenticity, and for reversals and rereversals of connoisseurish opinion. On another and lower level is the extensive and profitable manufacture of Corots, Courbets, etc., to which a whole school of needy, unscrupulous and often clever painters have lent themselves. But a certain amount of originality characterizes many of these productions. Generally, too, the crooked gamble has been for stakes of some splendor. The models chosen have some magnificence.

The unfortunate Australian painter appears, from the charges against him and the photographic evidence in New York papers, to have succumbed to the mere copying of a dull picture for a National academy show. In this his ambition as well as his honesty and cleverness is called into question. Above all else, though, one wonders what must be the feelings of the original painter of the copied canvas—the Australian who is thus thrust obliquely into an American fame. He did not win the Speyer prize; he was not chosen a member of the academy. The other's expulsion is not his election. He wins no honor because another loses it.

He is in danger of being remembered only as an unwilling contributor to a scandalous cause célèbre.

AND BE QUICK ABOUT IT!

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

I'M NOT GOING TO LAUGH any more when somebody says: "How do I know? Oh, a little bird told me." I'm going to listen myself after this to what the little birdie says. For last fall the birds up in Lincoln park packed up and got out early, saying something about there going to be lots of cold and plenty of snow. But no! I paid no attention to the birdies and kept my car in the garage instead of putting it in storage until next spring. And oh the difference in cost between an auto loafing around in a garage and one stowed away in moth balls in a warehouse. Next time I hear a little bird say even "Tweet, tweet" I'm going to pay particular attention and do what he says.

THE ANTI-CRIME WAR is a grand thing, but I want to include in the list of public enemies the people who eat onions and sit next to you at the movie shows. And what about those jovial acquaintances who sneak up on you from behind and give you a terrible whack on the back by way of announcing their presence. Hunt 'em down! Hunt 'em down with bloodhounds if necessary. But, anyhow, hunt 'em down, and then—to the wall! To the wall!

"ALL ON A MONDAY MORNING."

Lines of Monday laundry
Bellied by the breeze,
Village rags and linens
Strung among the trees.

Shirt and sheet and pillow-case
And swollen overall—
Every sunny Monday,
Summer, Spring or Fall.

Lilac and forsythia
With iris on the lawn,
Japonica, then peony
And the iris gone;

Robin listening for a worm
Or crying loud for rain—
Any April Monday,
Sheets all sails again!

Gardens growing ragged,
Flowering lettuce stalk,
Lazy sweet alyssum
Sprawled across the walk;

Phlox and August zinnia
Blazing in the sun—
Sultry summer morning,
Monday washing done.

Leaves like wind-swept sparrows
Brushing through the grass;
Busy women pausing
To watch the summer pass.

Boys like holly berries
Bright against the snow;
Little girls who notice
Clothes frozen in a row.

A SECOND PRIZE I'm going to offer for the person who has enough strength of will to abstain from buying the 1934 Linebook the longest. I am doing this, as I have before mentioned, so as to keep the books from being all sold out before I can get over this bab colb and thread my perilous way through the crowds of Christmas shoppers down to a book store and get the copies I'm obligated to send away myself. The first prize, you remember, is a handsome leather medal edged with velvet and an appropriate inscription engraved in gold letters. The second prize is a beautiful gent's or lady's wrist watch in platinum studded with forty or fifty diamonds (or sixty or seventy, I don't care). The prizes will go to those sturdy Spartan souls who refrain from buying the 1934 Linebook the longest. I had a letter from Hortense the Haughty only yesterday claiming the first prize on the ground that she had held herself in check and stubbornly refused to buy a 1934 Linebook. Then she fell, and fell hard, buying a dozen. Oh, Hortense, dearie, six days is hardly a starter. Why, some people may refrain for years and years. It hardly seems possible, but they might. We must wait.

IMPERFECT TEETH.

HIPPOCRATES says in his Aphorisms: "At teething there are itchings of the gums, convulsions, and diarrhea, especially when cutting the canine teeth. This is particularly observed in fat, constipated infants."

It is now rather generally believed that diarrhea, convulsions, fever, and other symptoms that occur during the teething period are manifestations of nutritional or other disturbances and are not the result of the teething process itself.

There are, however, many hereditary factors that have to do not only with the development of the teeth but of the jaw bones. As early as 1890 Eugene Talbot showed that the development of the bony system of the jaw had its beginning in inherited tendencies and that health habits, climate, water, and food influenced the shape of the jaw and the size and contour of the head. We have added much to our knowledge of bone development since 1890 and now recognize that the endocrine glands, such as the pituitary, thyroid, and adrenals, play an important part in shaping the bones and in determining their size and strength. Should a child lack in thyroid secretion, the temporary teeth may come in as late as the third year and the permanent teeth may not appear until the tenth year.

The disease known as rickets—which is much more common than is generally believed—has an influence on the formation of the teeth. Rickets, plus an insufficient amount of secretion from the parathyroid glands, may be responsible for teeth that are not properly filled out; that is, teeth that are mere shells. The permanent teeth are more frequently affected than the temporary and there are often observed cup-shaped depressions in the enamel, or occasionally the enamel presents a pitted appearance.

The condition known as tetany in children [absence of parathyroid] often occurs when the teeth are forming and when the deposit of enamel is being laid down. An examination of the blood will usually show a deficient supply of calcium.

Now and then infantile scurvy due to lack of vitamin C will affect the teeth. The enamel becomes discolored [usually yellowish] and fragile, and there is hemorrhage into the pulp.

Congenital syphilis is also manifested in the teeth. In this condition there are delays in the eruption of teeth, changes in the structure, and sometimes the peg appearance so clearly described by Jonathan Hutchinson [Hutchinson's teeth].

Proper food and nutrition will in most cases solve the problem of sound teeth. This must begin before the child is born with an adequate diet for the mother, as tooth development begins in the unborn child about the 16th or 17th week. Unfortunately the body cannot store vitamins over any appreciable length of time, and experience has shown that the lack of vitamins A, C, and D is responsible for more defective teeth than the lack of calcium.

A set of good teeth is the birthright of every child. With our present day knowledge of foods and vitamins there would seem to be no reasonable excuse for permitting the development of poor teeth. Breast fed infants have a better start in life, and if the period of breast feeding can be followed by vitamin containing foods, particularly vitamin D, the problem becomes relatively simple.

The average child does not need vitamin concentrates. Some children, however, will require this reenforcement, and the careful mother will observe in imperfect development of teeth the first sign that her child, though apparently fat and healthy, lacks one or more of these important food elements. Should the teeth be much delayed or appear imperfect or discolored, the feeding of bone meal may produce excellent results. Ordinarily good cow's milk, fresh vegetables, fresh air, and sunshine will insure strong, sound teeth.

T. B. EXAMINATION.

H. M. writes: Is it possible to have tuberculosis of the lungs if a fluoroscopic X-ray examination did not reveal the disease?

REPLY.

Not if the examination was made by an expert. The safest procedure is to have stereoscopic plates of the chest made. These may be studied at leisure and any slight lesion detected.

WEN ON FOREHEAD.

G. R. O. writes: What is the cause of a wen on the forehead, and what can be done to remove it?

REPLY.

It depends on the kind of wen. It may be an insect bite, a tumor growth, or a sebaceous cyst. Consult a good surgeon.

ALIEN VISITOR.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—[Friend of the People.]—1. If some one comes here for a visit from Europe, is such person given a limited time to stay? If so, how long? 2. If he doesn't go back when his time is up is he subject to deportation? 3. Should a person commit a murder in Europe, say, twenty years ago, and come to this country by being smuggled in, stowaway, or where there is no record of such person entering this country, can he be deported? T. R.

1. The period for which an alien visitor may remain in the United States is fixed by the immigration officers at the time of admission, and a stay in the United States by such visitor beyond the period so fixed makes his continued residence here illegal.

2. Such an alien may be deported, unless the time of temporary stay is extended. Application for such extension is required to be made to the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival and forms for making such request may be secured at this office, room 718, New Postoffice building.

3. The immigration act of 1917 provides that, among others, "Any alien who was convicted or who admits the commission, prior to entry, of a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude . . . shall, upon the warant of the secretary of labor, be taken into custody and deported." An alien falling within the class referred to is deportable at any time after entry. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

PROBATE.

Brookfield, Ill., Dec. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My sister died without making a will. I am the last of our family. She left some vacant property which hasn't much value at this time. She is the original purchaser and the title is clear. Does this have to go through probate and would I have to hire a lawyer? How much would it cost and how soon should it be done? H. O. W.

Probate would be necessary in order to produce a merchantable title to the real estate, but if the value is comparatively small or you are going to hold it for a long time before selling, you may be able to induce a purchaser to waive probate.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a will is not contested is it ever set aside by the court? 2. If so, at what hearing? When the will is probated, or when inventory is filed? 3. What commission does an attorney receive for representing an heir? A. R.

1. The Probate court may refuse to admit it to probate in absence of proof that the will was executed in accordance with the statute.

2. The hearing as to the execution of a will would be at the commencement of the probate proceedings.

3. It is a matter for negotiation and agreement between the attorney and client.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The government has completed its plans for defense of Britain in the event of air attack. Police, fire brigades, hospitals, doctors, nursing associations, gas and water companies, and public officials are to take charge of the gas defense services. The officer in command in each area will be the chief constable.

In each area gas-proof shelters will be provided in large cellars, warehouses, and factories. The shelters will be used mainly as casualty dressing stations. They will not be available for the general population. In London the underground railways will also be taken over as shelters.

Instruction will be given all householders explaining how they can make their own houses gas-proof. The use of chloride of lime blankets and sheets is the chief proposal. Fire brigades will turn out as soon as a gas attack is over, and will use their hoses to spray all streets and buildings where gas deposits may be lurking.

To prevent panic, gas and electrical services will be kept working. Water companies are to keep supplies of chemical purifiers on hand so that reservoirs on which gas has descended may be treated at once.

As a first step toward rendering the scheme effective, officers of the Royal Army Medical corps, who have been trained in gas warfare, will give courses of instruction to the key people on whom the work in the different localities will depend. There is no suggestion for giving gas training or providing gas helmets for the general population. Their responsibility will be to make their homes gas-proof and stay indoors.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

The American Red Cross textbook of first aid says that there is nothing about a rusty nail that is more dangerous than any other nail. The rust on the nail is a simple substance called "iron oxide," and is perfectly harmless. The thing that makes a nail dangerous is the presence of germs—particularly tetanus or lockjaw germs—and since these germs live chiefly in the soil, any nail or other object on the ground is always dangerous, whether it is rusty or not.

FROM A BAPTIST MINISTER.

North English, Ia., Dec. 13.—I am a Baptist minister of the gospel. It is easy to see whom you are aiming at in your editorial on "Church and State." It is none less than the Rev. Charles Coughlin of Detroit, a fearless exponent of much needed truth in our day. Like others, I do not see all things eye to to eye as he, nor do I agree with him in all statements he makes, but it is a privilege these days to hear one fearless as he, like a voice crying in the wilderness, echoing facts and history that the greedy and power seeking of today would like to have forgotten.

In THE TRIBUNE you have a statement, just above the "Church and State" editorial, as to what a newspaper is and what it is for. There is a degree of fact in this, but not final authority, and here is where the church comes in.

The church is an institution of God, developed through humanity for all civilizations, to present the gospel as recorded by Scripture, to foster honesty and decency, to inform and lead civilization in personal and national character building, and to furnish that check upon every phase of living and human advancement which no government or other institution has ever or ever will be able to provide. R. O. WINE.

THE TRUE ROLE OF THE CHURCH.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 14.—I have been noting with regret too many utterances of church conventions, church publications, preachers and priests, in effect, that a profit from capital is wrong; that economic injustice bears down on the mass of people. Strange doctrine this, when we study the high wage scales of those employed. [I am thinking that a lower wage scale would solve the unemployment, the great evil.] Millions of well meaning, but not well informed, are made discontented by the unwise pronouncements we hear from church sources. Of course, the church, in this matter, is moved by the heart, rather than by its head, for it is not equipped to enter the economic arena. The church [all denominations] is the greatest institution in this world, and has as its task to give conscience to men as between the two extremes, sordid capital and lawless labor. R. H. J.

PERSUASION VS. FORCE.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 14.—Your correspondent, the Rev. H. Oscar Stevens, seems to forget that the glorious adventure of Christian living may be experienced in any economic or political system.

It doesn't require some Utopia from which all temptation has been removed. When he resorts to political force to attain his better world he denies the irresistible power of persuasion, as exemplified by the Founder of Christianity. The ends which he desires would be nearer attainment if he, and others in his position, were not deluded by an inferior substitute. No political or economic system ever made a Christian.

W. E. WAHLMAN.

A CONTRAST.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—It doesn't seem right to house money and securities in fireproof vaults and permit hotels of seemingly straw and paper construction to harbor human values. There should be a wrecking of all hostelries that are not fireproof. Lansing's loss of lives should loosen a powerful stream of public sentiment and legislation. A. J. GLICKSON.

LOTS OF SNOW BUT NO SHOVELERS.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Chicago's streets, aside from the boulevards, are almost impassable with rutted snow well on to a foot deep. Even the boulevards have a lot of snow on them. What cleaning has been done there has been the work of the bus company or the street car lines. The city has done little or nothing.

Now snow removal is a pleasant, wholesome exercise in the tingling winter air. There are some half million idle in the city being maintained by the federal relief. Couldn't a few thousand of the able bodied men among them be persuaded to earn their dole for a few days by cleaning the snow off the city's streets? Or has work gone entirely out of fashion? X.

ABOUT A LIQUOR LICENSE.

Ottawa, Ill., Dec. 11.—My attention has been called to the article in the Dec. 11 issue of THE TRIBUNE captioned "Liquor License Test Decision Interests Bar."

I wish to state that the ground for the refusal of a retail liquor license to L. R. Jones of this city was not as stated. There was not at any time the question as to the cleanliness of the premises.

One of the reasons for the refusal was that Mr. Jones refused to construct his premises so that a clear and unobstructed view could be had of same, as is clearly shown by a photograph now on file in the office of the secretary of the state liquor commission.

Mr. Jones then took an appeal to the liquor commission, and a few days prior to the hearing before the commission his premises were reconstructed so as to comply with our local law and the statutes of the state of Illinois, as will more fully appear from another photograph taken subsequent to the reconstruction of the premises and which is also on file in the office of the secretary of the state liquor commission.

A license could not then be granted after the reconstruction of the premises because of a section in our local ordinance which prohibits the granting of any further licenses subsequent to Feb. 26, 1934, until by revocation or relinquishment the number of licenses within the city shall have been reduced to less than twenty-five, and at that time the number of licenses granted was in excess of twenty-five.

As mayor of the city of Ottawa, and a resident of this city for many years, I feel that the appointment by the governor of two members from Cook county on the liquor commission, which consists of but three members, such commission to pass upon the granting of likes as in downstate communities, is most unfair.

Mayor, City of Ottawa.

N. Y. BANK BUYS MILLION IN CITY SCHOOL WARANTS

Sale Marks Upturn of System's Credit.

The sale of $1,000,000 of 1934 school tax warants to the Bank of Manhattan in New York will be completed this morning, James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, announced yesterday.

The transaction marks the first time in four years that Chicago school tax warants have been sought outside the city, and it will provide sufficient funds to assure a pay day for teachers and school employés before the Christmas holiday.

The warant sale was completed through the A. C. Allyn company of Chicago at the 5 per cent interest rate which the board of education has been paying since its improved credit position reduced the charge from 6 per cent last summer.

Officials Here Pleased.

"We are very pleased with this sale to New York interests," Mr. McCahey said. "It demonstrates that the confidence of the investing public in Chicago city and school securities has been reawakened. We consider that this warant sale demonstrates the improved credit standing of the Chicago schools which has resulted from the economy program adopted by the board last summer. This sale insures a Christmas pay day for the teachers and employés."

The last sale of warants outside Chicago was completed in 1930 when a banking syndicate sold an issue totaling $40,000,000 to investors throughout the country.

Expenses Cut by Economy.

After that time, until board members appointed by Mayor Kelly swung their economy policy into action, the schools found it extremely difficult to dispose of sufficient warants to meet the pay rolls, even to banks and investors here. Last spring, although economies had reduced the operating costs and cut the amount of pay in arrears, the board still owed $26,300,000 in back salaries.

A $22,300,000 loan grant from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, made, according to Jesse Jones, chairman, because of the then improving credit of the board and the sale of $4,000,000 in warants to private interests, enabled the board to close the salary gap and to meet subsequent pay rolls on time.

Since the August pay day Mr. McCahey has reported warant sales to Chicago banks, trusts, and utility firms at the 5 per cent interest rate.

The New York sale today will climax the upward drive of school credit and place the board of education in the position of having actual demand for once spurned securities.

MOTHER SHOOTS DAUGHTER OF 18, ENDS OWN LIFE

Fresno, Cal., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Miss Frances G. Hughett, 18, was shot and critically wounded here today by her mother, Mrs. Gertrude M. Hughett, who then killed herself, District Attorney Devore said.

The girl was shot through the neck, chest, and abdomen. Mrs. Hughett, wife of Clarence W. Hughett, a power corporation credit manager, was found dead in the breakfast room of the home, a bullet through her temple.

Devore said he had been unable to learn any motive for the shooting.

FIND 18TH BODY IN HOTEL RUINS; TOLL IS NOW 31

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Recovery of another body from the ruins of the Hotel Kerns here today brought the known death toll in last Tuesday's fire to 31. Addition of this body, identified as that of R. E. Horney, Detroit salesman, also forced authorities to the conclusion that one of the six remaining unidentified bodies is that of a victim not previously reported as having been in the holocaust.

Horney's body was the eighteenth recovered from the ruins.

A blood transfusion was made today at St. Lawrence hospital in an effort, probably vain, to save the life of Dr. F. C. Thiede of Grand Rapids, one of the three injury victims. It is feared Dr. Thiede will not live through the night. The others in grave condition are Mrs. Georgia Ball and Miss Nancy Parker, state employés.

The city public works department was arranging late today to start a more systematic search of the river at the rear of the hotel, where, it is believed, several bodies are concealed in the stream. A large dredging machine has been borrowed for the work, which is scheduled to start tonight with a diver assisting. Several divers have explored the bottom of the river and at least two bodies were reported as seen but were not raised.

4 CCC YOUTHS DIE AS TRUCK CRASHES POST

Great Barrington, Mass., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Four members of the Civilian Conservation corps were killed today and several others were injured, one probably fatally, as a truck carrying them to church skidded into a concrete post. All were Massachusetts youths.

The accident occurred as the truck was descending a hill near here. Hail and snow had made the road slippery.

PERSONALTY TAX MODERNIZATION BEGUN BY CLARK

Announces New Schedule of Depreciation.

Assessor John S. Clark took yesterday the first step in his reorganization of the personal property assessment system in Cook county by announcing a new schedule of depreciation allowances for household goods.

ASSESSOR J. S. CLARK.

The allowances are much more generous than those allowed by J. L. Jacobs, Mr. Clark's predecessor in office, who made the first attempt to put personal property assessments on a scientific basis comparable to the real estate assessment system.

Under the new rule the householder scheduling his furniture may list its value for the first year after purchase at 60 per cent of cost price. Additional deductions of 10 per cent of the cost price are to be allowed for each of the next two years, and of 5 per cent for each of the fourth to eighth years, inclusive.

Limit on Allowances.

Thus furniture eight or more years old may be listed at 15 per cent of its original cost. This is the full valuation, which is subject to further reduction to 5.55 per cent assessed value by application of the 37 per cent factor authorized by the state tax commission for equalizing Cook county assessments with those in other counties of Illinois. The only limitation on application of the depreciation allowances is that they must not lower the owner's full valuation below the present fair cash price at a voluntary sale.

The new rules will apply for the first time to the 1934 personal property schedules, which Mr. Clark expects to send out shortly after the first of the year. Under them, assuming a $7 tax rate for 1934, the householder who paid $2,000 for his furniture within the last year will have a tax bill for 1934 of $20.72, while the tax on furniture which cost $2,000 eight or more years ago would be $7.77.

Studies Legal Changes.

Assessor Clark said that his staf had been instructed to investigate and make a thorough report to him on a proposal for effecting a legal classification of all personal property for assessment purposes, which was drawn up last summer by Hayden N. Bell, head of the civil department of the state's attorney's office, and Harry S. Cutmore, former chief deputy assessor.

It is a fairly general contention of taxation experts that intangible personal property, such as stocks and bonds, money, mortgages, and bank credits, cannot be taxed successfully at so high a rate as is applied to real estate and tangible personal property, for the reason that it is too easy for the owners of such property either to conceal it, dodging all taxes, or to remove it entirely from the state in which such high taxes are levied.

Successful in Other States.

As a remedy for this situation, classification of property is advocated, under which different classes of property are taxed at different rates. In some states and cities, classification, with a low rate limitation for intangibles, has been successful, actually increasing the tax revenue from intangibles.

The Illinois constitution forbids direct classification, through the section providing that all property shall be taxed uniformly.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

Move Trees in Ice.

A DAY spent at THE TRIBUNE Auxiliary Experimental farm near Wheaton, Ill., will take the amateur through all the steps followed by Carl Henderson, manager, and his men in moving trees. Approximately 100 catalpa trees are being moved from a fence row of an abandoned road to an avenue extending across the farm, a distance of more than a mile.

The trees, seven years old and from 10 to 15 feet in height, are being moved with large frozen balls of earth attached to the roots. By digging a trench 2 feet wide, 3½ to 4 feet deep, with the inside line of the trench about 3 to 4 feet away from the tree, Mr. Henderson says he is able to get most of the roots. The tree soon becomes established in its new location.

In moving good sized trees the first step under the plan followed at the auxiliary farm is to mulch the ground around the tree and also the surface of ground at the new location before heavy freezes occur in the new location. Up to the present time this winter the ground has not needed mulching to prevent deep freezing, especially where there is natural mulching material growing on the surface and where the soil is covered with snow, as it has been recently at the farm. The trees are being moved from a fence row carpeted with grass and covered with a blanket of snow. They are being set along the edge of a field covered with a fair growth of alfalfa, which is also covered with snow. The ground is frozen to a depth of not more than four inches. Digging up the trees and digging holes in the new locations have been comparatively easy. Where there is not a natural mulch, straw, leaves, grass, weeds, manure, or similar mulching material should be used to prevent deep freezing, which greatly adds to the labor cost in moving trees.

The second step is to dig the trench around the tree and allow the ball of earth to freeze hard so that the soil will not be disturbed around the roots in moving. This may take a day or a week, depending upon the temperature. The next step is to tilt the tree from side to side, using a tractor or a team or both. As the tree is tilted back and forth from side to side soil is packed under it. The tilting and packing is continued until the bottom of the ball of earth is elevated to the point where it is level with the surface.

Mr. Henderson says that by digging the trench so that the ball of earth is from 6 to 8 feet in diameter he moves from 2 to 2½ tons of earth with each tree. With a little practice in fastening the chains and handling the tractor or team one can shift the huge balls of earth with ease into almost any position. Before moving the tree from its old location Mr. Henderson marks it so that the south side will be exposed to the sun again in the new location.

[Other steps in tree moving, including the method of hauling trees, will be discussed later under the Experimental Farm heading.]

SEMINOLES VIE FOR PORTION OF TOURIST TRADE

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Myers, Fla., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—The Seminoles, said to be America's only unconquered Indian tribe, are making friendly overtures to the tourist trade. Families are quartered on platforms of logs under roofs of palmetto thatch along the Tamiami trail, 143 miles of first class highway between here and Miami.

Early white explorers of this peninsula sought to make friends with the natives with gifts of beads and bright colored cloth. They were rebuffed with spears and arrows.

Today it's the Indians who are offering the beads and the bright colored clothes to the pale-faces touring the south to acquire a winter tan. In return, the Seminoles are receiving silver and paper currency of the government they so long and so successfully defied in the vastness of the Everglades.

THE TRIBUNE roadster drove across the Everglades on the Tamiami trail today in a trafic of automobiles from northern states reflecting the boom in Florida's resort business this winter.

Signs advise motorists on the approach to an Indian village. Ten or twenty men, women, and children live in each camp. Women and children wear hand made dresses with full skirts consisting of many stripes of brilliantly colored cloth.

TULSA EAGER TO HEAR KENNAMER EVIDENCE TODAY

City Horror Stricken by Youthful Crime.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—A city, horror-stricken by the deaths of two socially prominent youths and the revelation of a vast network of adolescent intrigue, tonight awaited eagerly the first official disclosure of some of the evidence on which the state hopes to convict Philip Kennamer on a charge of murder.

Tomorrow morning at a preliminary hearing before Judge Bradford Williams, County Attorney Holly Anderson and J. Berry King, attorney general of Oklahoma, will introduce the testimony of witnesses to establish a prima facie case against Kennamer for the slaying of John F. Gorrell Jr. on Thanksgiving night.

Confesses to Killing.

Kennamer, son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, has confessed to killing Gorrell, a dental student and son of a leading Tulsa physician.

It was a dismal Sabbath today with a minimum of preparation for the coming holidays. Ministers denounced the vice conditions among the younger set brought to light in the slaying of Gorrell and the mysterious death of Sidney Born Jr. a week ago.

There is a persistent demand for a sweeping inquiry into all the reports of planned blackmail schemes, narcotic smuggling and wild parties in which the heirs and heiresses of many millionaires are said to be involved. A special grand jury for the investigation probably will be called Jan. 14.

Seven Witnesses in Hiding.

Seven of the state's star witnesses, purported to have received death threats, have been in hiding, but will appear at the hearing tomorrow. But most of the youths and the debutantest drawn into the exposé will not be there. They are under guard in their homes.

The state is not expected to show its full hand tomorrow but will endeavor to prove enough to hold Kennamer over to the county court for trial next month. One of the witnesses probably will be Floyd Huff, the Kansas City aviator, who first pointed suspicion to Kennamer after the Tulsa City police had been inclined to believe Gorrell committed suicide. Huff said that Kennamer had told him ten days before the slaying he planned to kill Gorrell.

At the district court trial Kennamer's plea will be that he acted in self-defense to block an extortion plot he alleges Gorrell planned against Virginia Wilcox, daughter of Homer Wilcox, oil magnate.

The death of Born followed by 11 days that of Gorrell. Born was found shot to death in his automobile in the southwest side district where Gorrell was slain.

Famous Artist Guesses Wrong

"Estimated New 1935 Dodge to be Worth Many Dollars Over Actual Price," says Russell Patterson; "So Much Style and Smartness Fooled Me."

"I know good looks when I see them," says Russell Patterson, famous artist, illustrator and beauty authority, "so it's no wonder that I guessed the price of the new 1935 Dodge too high.

"It's so smartly designed, has such trim modern lines that I guessed it would be a pretty high-priced car. I'll admit I never dreamed a car so good looking could be sold at such a low price."

Value authorities, style experts, purchasing agents—all have been fooled trying to guess the price of the new 1935 Dodge. They say it is so packed with value they cannot believe their own ears when they hear how little it costs. Watch for this new Dodge!

Clubs Send Out Invitations for Holiday Events

Plan Open Houses, Sports, Children's Parties.

BY JUDITH CASS.

NOT a little of the oncoming Christmas and New Year festivity centers in the clubs in town and in the country where grown ups and young folks find much of their entertainment throughout the year. Garlands of holly and mistletoe will be hung this week and several entertainment committees have already issued invitations for open houses, children's parties, and winter sports events.

Cards from the Racquet club announce an open house from 12:30 to 7 on Dec. 29 with a buffet luncheon as a noonday attraction. Throughout the afternoon a huge eggnog bowl will give merriment.

There's to be eggnog on Christmas day in the afternoon at the Tavern club. Christmas open house is one of the Tavern's annual customs, but it will have especial significance this year, since the club has just been redecorated in subtle shades of brown, yellow, and white, and the party will also be a housewarming. Knight C. Cowles as the Tavern's house chairman is responsible for the redecoration.

Christmas Dinner Dance at Saddle and Cycle.

Invitations will be going out this week to members of the Saddle and Cycle club for a Christmas dinner dance under its low roof the evening of Dec. 28.

Down at the conservative Chicago club, into whose portals a lady has never entered, discussion of the annual New Year's luncheon is now under way. It is almost a certainty that it will be repeated this Jan. 1, since it is one of the favorite customs practiced by the exclusive membership.

The officers and directors of the Union League club will appear in cutaways on New Year's day for their annual at home and they will have gardenia boutonnieres for each one of their ladies. Entertainment will consist of a swimming exhibition at 1 o'clock and dancing in the late afternoon.

The Union League is also preparing for its annual children's holiday party to be held next Saturday afternoon. Some of the young citizens who will be there to enjoy the magic of Eugene Laurant and Santa Claus' pack are James Houston McBain, Stanley Dixon Zaring, George Amos Poole IV., Ellen, Anne, and Mary Ryerson, whose parents are the Joseph T. Ryersons; Peter, Edwin, Nancy, and John Krupp, and Nancy, Anne, and Billy Jacobs, children of Mr. and Mrs. Whipple Jacobs.

Three Holiday Parties Planned at Indian Hill.

Of all the clubs in the country Indian Hill probably provides the most in the way of holiday festivity. The Indian Hill Christmas sing, to be held next Sunday, has become one of the most cherished traditions on the north shore. This time it will start at 5:30 during the afternoon tea hour.

Next Saturday night there is to be a young people's dance and breakfast at the club and on Dec. 28 a dancing party for sixth, seventh, and eighth graders between 4 and 7 o'clock in the afternoon. New Year's day at Indian Hill will be observed with an open house, dancing, and a buffet supper.

At both the Chicago Golf club in Wheaton and Knollwood in Lake Forest there are to be Christmas dinner dances next Saturday night. In Wheaton there will be skeet shooting and ice skating for those who can get out from town in the afternoon. Knollwood also announces that it will have a New Year's eve supper dance. Onwentsia is to have a dinner dance watch party Dec. 31 and Exmoor a New Year's eve party beginning with winter sports and winding up with dancing and supper indoors.

It's good news for all Winnetka youngsters who like to slide and coast that Mrs. Hermon Beardsley Butler and the Lawrence Houghtelings have opened the hills back of their homes to the children who play at the Winnetka Community house. This does not mean that the hills are open to the public, but at specified hours Community house officials will take groups skiing and sliding.

Hutchinses to Have New Year's at Home.

A number of personal invitations are in the mail for first of the year "at homes." President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago will be host and hostess at the largest of these parties. Since the university opened in 1892 it has been the custom of the president to have a New Year's day reception for all members of the faculty and the

New Opera Company Makes Gilbert and Sullivan Debut

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Chicago Comic Opera company, an outgrowth of the Sinai Light Opera company, made its debut in the Goodman theater last night with a revival of "Ruddigore," one of the rarer items in the Gilbert and Sullivan repertory. This organization is amateur of background, but has been exercising itself in Gilbert and Sullivan operettas long enough to be fairly proficient. It now seeks to establish itself on a basis which may be called semi-professional, and plans a series of productions which should be of interest to the Gilbert and Sullivan "fans" of Chicago, who are a numerous body of folk, firmly fixed in their cult for the lyric classics of the so-called Savoyard tradition.

"Ruddigore" is neatly staged, carefully costumed, and conscientiously interpreted. Careful study is manifest throughout the performance. Fixing the standard of judgment for this production at high grade amateurism, I should say that the singing is fair, but leaves something to be desired in the communication of the lyrics; and that the spirit of Gilbert's comedy has been zealously pursued but seldom captured.

This piece is a Gilbertian burlesque on the melodramas of his period, and many of its sly touches of satire might apply to the blood curdlers current on the showboat Dixiana. Opportunities to see it have been scarce during the last twenty years.

The fact that the D'Oyly Carte Opera company of London, now in this country, has decided to omit Chicago from the itinerary of its tour should attract play going attention to this staging of "Ruddigore."

The performance will be repeated tonight, tomorrow night and Wednesday night. The second production in this series will be "The Gondoliers," scheduled for Jan. 20, 21, 22, and 23 at the Goodman.

Art Institute to Try New Display Methods in a Model Gallery

A model experimental art gallery, in which may be tested the most recent methods of displaying works of art, will be erected at the Art institute within the next few weeks, Dr. Robert B. Harshe, director, announced yesterday.

The gallery, a skeleton room mounted on a turn-table, will serve as a laboratory for innovations to be introduced in the new $600,000 addition to the institute.

Although work on the addition, a unit in a proposed $10,000,000 building extension of the institute, will not be started for several months, many of the building problems will be solved before they are encountered by means of this model gallery, Dr. Harshe said. Side lighting, never before tried in the museum, vista lighting and other means of artificial illumination, as well as hangings, will be tested in it.

'Answer Shop' Provides Gifts for Men Only

Masculine Minds Ready to Help Shopper.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Not a tie, a pair of socks or slippers in sight—that's the "answer shop" a haven for frenzied females and a port for missing men these days. Just another brilliant idea to help shoppers spend their money with the best results. It's a slick place to spend both your time and money, for some of the best gift ideas for any man on your list can be found, all grouped together, planned by men, selected by men, and ready for the last rush.

Outside of the glass tanks with tropic fish, and the fish a breed of fighters that have to have a slide of glass between them or chew one another into fish hash, the place is delightfully normal, especially if you have spent your impressionable years with four or five brothers.

Everything in it is masculine, from the swanky lether chairs in all colors [and are they comfortable?] to the pipes and cigarets. The best excitements are the office barometers, storm warners and thermometers done up in chromium, copper, and silver. Watch the man of the house grin about these. Next the whopper sized desk blotters, at least large enough to blanket the biggest half of the widest of office desks.

Bachelor lads are provided for, with the very popular, highly varnished wooden salad bowls, long spoons, and cheese scoops, riotously colored salad plates, and of course all the latest ideas in shakers, glasses, and bottles. Other things for the bachelor lairs are the trick radios, a radio with poker attachments [chips and such in the top compartment], and bottles and glasses packed in pantries on either end—and the radio really sings and works.

Know any sea dogs? The navy department functions smoothly in this shop. Everything from metal door stops in the shape of an anchor carefully aged in sea water to make it green, navy books filled with navy yarns, barometers, sea going clocks, lantern lamps, and bookends. And the best of the loot is the hurricane pipe, real English model with a trick top that slides back. It was designed especially for windy and rough weather. One pipe you can smoke without smoke getting in the eyes. No good reason why the thing can't be a big success on land as well as sea. A good find for open car driving, too.

Real he-man luggage, made so that shirts can be packed without folding, and fitted with zippers and good handles. Or the new square airplane luggage as flat as a dime, designed for airplane rules and regulations where every inch counts. Pigskin is the best buy, whether it's bags, brief cases, Gladstones, or small travel trunks.

Among the novelties the Bacardi bottle lamps, with portions of the wicker work cut open to show the clipper ship, the lighthouse and seascape artfully inserted by a real old sailor, the fool proof cork screws, huge boat books for future sailors with a page of sails to be cut out and fastened in correct formation on a ship, on still another page.

Books on polo, dogs, and all sports, as well as "mixing" tales. And etchings of dogs, horses, colored prints, and even nudes all framed and ready for the Christmas boxing rites!

Wagner, Mozart Linked in Great Day of Opera

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Following the great genius, Wagner, at the Civic Opera house Saturday afternoon came the great genius, Mozart, in the evening, and the sum of the two made up the biggest day of this season, or, for that matter, almost any season in memory.

"Don Giovanni" was the Mozart work, a score of abiding joy, and it had a cast that will be remembered as long as that of "Tristan and Isolde" in the afternoon. Ezio Pinza made his first Chicago appearance in the name part, a magnificent singer who is at the same time a distinctive personality. The three women concerned in his adventures were Anna Turkel, Hilda Burke, and Edith Mason, and there was more lovely singing, particularly in the cases of Miss Burke and Miss Mason, whose voices sounded as if Mozart might have written expressly for them. Charles Hackett returned to the Chicago Opera to sing Don Ottavio as only a distinguished lyric tenor who is a student of Mozart could sing the part. Virgilio Lazzari likewise returned for a single appearance as Leporello, a fine singer and notable comedian the last time he sang the part here and a better one Saturday. Pompilio Malatesta accomplished some notable results with the other comic part. And Isaac Van Grove conducted like the fine, sympathetic musician and director that he is.

The operatic concert at the Civic Opera house last night had both disappointments and high spots in its course, disappointments because four of the announced and programmed stars failed to appear, high spots because those that remained did some remarkably attractive things.

Of the four absentees, Hope Hampton was recovering from an attack of laryngitis and lacking the full use of her voice. Hilda Burke sprained her ankle during the "Don Giovanni" performance the night before. Coe Glade was in Detroit. Edith Mason was reported tied up with a last minute rehersal in preparation for tonight's performance.

These were serious losses to the artistic glamor of the performance. What was left was enough to make two hours of pleasant, and at times gleaming performance. There were some sixteen singers, six conductors, and the full chorus and orchestra of the company. Mildred Gerber sang "The Last Rose of Summer" in place of Miss Mason, and literally stopped the show. Anna Turkel did her best singing of the season in an aria from "La Forza del Destino." Janet Fairbank made a great success of Micaela's aria from "Carmen." And there were a number of talented men, Claudio Frigerio with an item from "The Barber of Seville," Guido Guidi with another solo from the same work, Carlo Morelli in "La Traviata," Myron Duncan in "Carmen," John Pane-Gasser in the tenor high spot of "Pagliacci" and Mario Fiorella in its baritone equivalent. And there were also the quartet from "Rigoletto" and the sextet from "Lucia" in which again Miss Gerber's voice shone through with high radiance.

Of the conductors, Frank Laird Waller, Gennaro Papi, and Henry Weber conducted overtures, added thereto by Paul Longone, who is usually the artistic director, but last night proved that he is a good conductor, too. Dino Bigalli and Leo Kopp were competent accompanying conductors for the singers.

The Southernaires, a Negro male quartet, was presented under the auspices of Wilberforce university at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. It is an extraordinarily able group, possessed of voices whose quality stays in the memory long after the song is finished, smooth, flexible, depending greatly upon suavity and only a little on power, with a highly expert projection of words. Most of the program consisted of spirituals and secular work songs, some traditional, though with at least one group credited to a composer of talent, Will Marion Cook.

Saul Dorfman, Chicago pianist, appeared at the Studebaker theater yesterday afternoon in the first Chicago recital he has given since he became known as a prize winning contestant

SURMISE as to whether the marriage of the duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece was really a love match and as to whether Marina is really as lovely as her pictures has been frequent. A charming Chicago visitor, Miss Meryl Grayson, yesterday received a letter from her mother, Dora, Lady Grayson, of Sutton Park house, quoting another daughter, Monica, as to the new duchess of Kent, an opinion given entirely for the benefit of the family circle.

Private Opinion—
Clew—
Communique—
Fire—
Radio Rooms.

"Monica was in the thick of it all, of course," wrote Lady Grayson. "She helped arrange the presents, went to the afternoon party and met Marina, who she says is really lovely, with the most perfect figure. . . . Rumor now says the prince of Wales was green with envy, and if only he had met her first, he might have been the lucky man! Anyway it added to it all that she is really lovely and that it is a true love match."

MANY problems are put to the hard-pressed salespeople in the stores during the Christmas shopping season. Among them was that offered by the nice old lady who wanted to buy woolen pajamas for a child.

"What size?" inquired the saleswoman.

The old lady knitted her brow for a moment and said she didn't know, really. Brightening hopefully she added:

"But he goes to bed every night at 9 o'clock."

* *

IN the morning mail: "The friend who observed the uniformed attendant at the revolving door at the Palmer house does not realize that he is there to prevent the door from being turned too fast, a fact much appreciated by us who, while willing to take our punishment, object to being spanked by a revolving door. HELEN SOMERVILLE."

* *

UPON getting a wrong number, with a strange voice answering the telephone the other day, Fred Seaberg was reminded of an occasion years ago when he rang up a young woman, only to have a strange, gruff, and tough voice answer. The following conversation took place:

"Is Miss Joan there, please?"

"No, she ain't."

"Is this R—— 1234?"

"Yes"—after a long pause.

"Well who is this speaking, please?"

"Dis is a fireman. The place is burnin'!"

He learned later that at that moment the young woman was standing on the sidewalk with her family watching the house burn.

* *

A FAVORITE true story about a fireman and a telephone call concerns a south side family and the maid of the household. She had been brought from the backwoods of Kentucky and was being trained for her new duties. Her mistress stressed economy and was continually cautioning her about waste and unnecessary expense. One day when the family was away a steam boiler burst, and although there was no fire, the maid thought the steam was smoke. Hurrying to the telephone she called the fire department number, and when it answered inquired cautiously:

"Do you charge anything to come to a fire?"

* *

Good Morning!

Ah—men are s'false!

For an outstanding example of male virtue—MINUS!—behold that smooth article ycleped Jack Howard, with whom the heroine of this picture, Miss Ann Duncan, has the ill fortune to become acquainted.

In his so modern way Mr. Howard is quite as totally reprehensible as Abou Hassan, head master of the Forty Thieves.

Does he think anything of getting a poor working girl fired from her job—so that she will fly to his arms? He DOES not! Does he hesitate to complicate her in a jewel theft of which she is as innocent as an unborn babe? Far from it. Does he CARE if she is tried—and sentenced to the Big House? O, indeed! Does he weep when he hears she's been killed in the wreck of the train which was speeding her to jail? Not this low lifer!

BUT—you see—Ann WASN'T killed. No. Really this tragedy is the beginning of a new life for her. Case of mistaken identity. . . . Ann wakes up as a certain Mrs. Donald Brooks in the luxurious home of her supposed husband, his mother, and his Aunt Margaret. . . .

I'll let the picture take you on from here—going only so far as to qualify my opening gasp with the remark that ALL men are NOT—so false. Take, for example, Mr. Brooks . . . !

This is an entertaining little crook drama with a heroine who captures your liking from the start. Florence Rice, she is, daughter of Grantland Rice, sports authority. She's pretty, appealing, and a smart little actress.

Donald Cook qualifies expertly as the evil Howard. Neil Hamilton is nice as Brooks. His mother and aunt are neatly portrayed by Nella Walker and Clara Blandick.

The photoplay has a curiosity stimulating opening—and manages to hold your interest throughout.

A CHANCE MEETING.

The man turned at the end of the bridge and walked back. That he was committing an act of pure folly was, of course, perfectly plain to him, but at the moment that did not matter at all.

He turned and walked back slowly in the teeth of the bitter wind. Overhead the sky hung low and dark, and the clouds were heavy with snow. It wanted half an hour to sunset, but the light was failing rapidly. It had not been really light all day, but he could still see the leaden flow of the river, with the ice clinging to its banks and a black mass of buildings rising up on either side like cliffs to meet the arch of the sky. The parapet of the bridge showed dark against the shadowed river. The woman's figure, bent above the parapet, showed darker still. She had not moved. He came slowly up the slight incline and saw that she had not moved at all. She stood as if she had been frozen there, a dark slender figure with bent head and drooping shoulders.

The man looked at her, frowning. He wore a rough sheepskin coat and cap, and the wind cut through them. The woman was thinly dressed. How much longer was she going to stand there? Till she froze where she stood? Perhaps that was what she was doing it for. In Russia nowadays no one cared what became of you. You helped to pull the car of the revolution, or you crawled away out of its path to die.

He walked very slowly past her and then turned to look back. The act of folly was becoming more outrageous every moment. At a time when it was all important that he should melt inconspicuously into the background, here he was concerning himself with the affairs of a stranger. If he went on loitering like this, somebody would be tolerably sure to come along and notice him—and the one thing he could not afford was to attract notice.

He walked to the parapet and stood there a dozen feet away from the dark bowed figure. He could now see the line of her cheek and chin. She had a round cloth cap on her head. It hid her hair and her ears. Her eyes were open. The thin cheek and temple might have been cut from marble.

It was she.

He had, of course, known it all along. His heart gave an involuntary jerk. Talk of folly—what folly was there like this?—to be unable to pass a chance-met stranger seen half a dozen times in the streets of this Russian town, and, what was more, to be unable to think of her as a stranger. She bore the stamp and strain of utter poverty. He neither knew her name nor who she was. And the least turn of her head, the least movement of her hands were as dearly familiar as if he had known her always. Well, there was no movement now. The stillness tugged at his heart.

She stood as if she had been frozen there.

"Why do you stand here in this freezing wind? It's too cold for you."

He spoke in Russian, and it was in Russian that she answered him. Without any turn of the head or change of expression she said:

"Yes, it is cold."

His heart jerked again. It was the first time that he had heard her voice. Drained and faint as it was, it could yet touch something in him which no sound had touched before. He stood looking at her, but she did not look at him. She looked at the snow-clouds and the river, but she did not seem to see them. He could see her eyes, and there was an awful patience in them. No one looks like that who has not grown used to pain. With a hot anger in his heart he said gently:

"It is much too cold for you. You should not stand here."

She turned her head a little then and gave him a tired, appraising look. Seen full face like this in the dusk, her face was all shadows. They lay heavily under the fine arch of the brow and in the hollows of the cheeks. She said, with a little more tone in her voice as if she were making an effort:

"Why do you speak to me?"

If he had been looking for adventure, her look would have checked him, it was so remote. He said, almost roughly:

"You'll freeze if you go on standing here."

The faintest flicker of something that was not quite a smile touched the pale lips. He had a quick enchanted thought of what it would be to see her smile at him in joy.

"It would not matter in the least. Please do not trouble yourself about me." The words were Russian, but they came haltingly. The accent was not Russian at all.

He completed his act of folly by stepping to her side and saying abruptly: "You're English, aren't you?"

The voice and the English words struck against her numbness like a blow. They woke her to faint tingling consciousness.

She said, "Who are you?" and spoke in English too.

"My name is Stephen Enderby."

"English?"

"Of course."

"Is that why you spoke to me? Do you know me?"

"No, I don't know you—at least I don't know who you are. I've seen you. Does one have to know a woman to try and stop her freezing herself to death?"

If he had not been so near, he would have missed that second flicker of a smile.

She said, "I think so. It is very much one's own affair." And then, "How did you know I was English?"

He laughed. There was warmth and assurance in his tone.

"You don't speak very good Russian, and—I chanced it. And now that we are introduced, may I see you home, because you really oughtn't to be standing here in this wind."

For a moment she really smiled.

"Are we introduced, Mr. Enderby?"

He laughed. The sound had a queer careless gayety.

"Stefan Ivanovitch, if you don't mind. The other would probably mean a firing-squad if any one heard you"

He saw her face change. It was as if all the shadows had deepened and frozen there. She swayed a little, and he put his hand on her to steady her.

"Then why did you tell me?" she said. "I'm a stranger. Why do you tell a thing like that to a stranger?"

His hand was on her arm. He felt it thrill as she spoke. She was very cold to touch, but it was not the coldness of death. Pain thrilled through her. He felt it under his hand. He said:

"No—you're not a stranger. I've watched you. Won't you tell me your name?"

She released herself and leaned against the parapet. The wind went past her. She said:

"My name is Elizabeth Radin."

Stephen laughed again.

"Now we're really introduced! Please may I see you home?"

"No, I don't think so, Stefan Ivanovitch." Her fingers lay on the cold stone and traced some pattern there. They were only half hidden by a tattered glove.

"Why?" said Stephen. He too leaned on the parapet. The river below them was unseen and the darkness had begun to close them in.

There was no answer. Her cold thin fingers moved upon the stone.

"Why?" said Stephen very insistently.

Elizabeth looked across the dark river. The black houses which stood over it like cliffs showed here and there a lighted pane. The wind went by. She said in a sweet, quiet voice:

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The girls know that the fat tummy has an old age association. Nevertheless, some of them just go on letting the tummy get fatter and fatter. I see young women who it takes no fortune teller to predict will be plump tummied old women in their forties if they don't watch out. They walk now with their stomachs projected and the general shoulder slump that exaggerates the lumpish line below the waist.

Try this on your tummies, girls, just to prove to yourself what standing up straight will do. Stand tall, with chest up, head stretched high and tall. Get a profile view of yourself now in this position. Yes, well you may ask: "Where has my stomach gone?" It flattens when you get yourself in proper upright position. Please walk that way all the time, so some grouchy old granddad can't point a cane disparagingly at your figure shortcomings.

Pulling themselves up smartly may be all the young ones need to get rid of the abdomen bulge. The older ones will have to get down to exercising, however. If they've been eating overmuch they'll have to cut down on the diet, of course. But even with dieting they'll need to exercise to put tone in those flabby muscles that have been loafing on the job for years.

Here's one exercise for you: Lie on floor, face down, hands and legs up off the floor. Now rock on abdomen and stretch from toe to finger tips as you rock. It's a swell abdomen flattener, this!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A fine fragrant dusting powder in a box that can be described only as magnificent is an unbeatable Christmas gift for any woman on your list who appreciates beautiful things.

If you'd any idea that there just couldn't be glamor about anything as practical as bath powder we urge you to look at the de luxe presentation one of the great French houses brought out for the holidays.

The pondre de toilette is feathery light and in the most delectable fragrances—airy and sweet and a little bit spicy. Any fastidious woman would love the powder for itself, but the beauty of the box in which it comes will send her into ecstasies.

The suave round box is more than eight inches in diameter and close to five in height. In the center of the lid is a bronze knob from which hangs a luxurious brown silk tassel. The accompanying puff is scaled accordingly.

This isn't an inexpensive little trifle; the price is consistent with its elegance. But it's one of the most beautiful choices you could make.

trustees. Yesterday's invitations were mailed to more than 1,500 persons.

In the mail last week there were also cardboards from Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Andrews. They will be at home in the late afternoon on Jan. 1 in their new apartment at 1235 Astor street.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Rosenthal, who recently returned from abroad, will be at home informally New Year's day from 4 to 8 o'clock at the Ambassador West.

Smith-Manget Wedding Plans Made Known.

Either by train on the 27th or plane on the 28th Miss Helen Dawes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, will take off for Dallas, Tex., to attend her friend, Miss Elizabeth Manget, as maid of honor at her wedding on Dec. 29. Miss Dawes has had no more pleasant duty in many a day, for this means that Miss Manget, with whom she roomed for four years at Vassar, will be coming to Chicago to make her home after she is married to Cyrus R. Smith of Chicago, president of the American Air lines.

The engagement of Miss Manget and Mr. Smith was announced last Sunday and now plans are almost completed for their marriage, which will be an 8 o'clock ceremony at the home of Miss Manget's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Manget, at 4225 Fairfax avenue, Dallas. As well as being a graduate of Vassar Miss Manget is a member of the Junior league and the Slipper club in Dallas.

Preceding her to the altar besides Miss Dawes will be Miss Betty Edwards of Dallas and Miss Maidee Williams of Fort Worth. Dr. Hodges McKnight of Fort Worth will be Mr. Smith's best man and ushering will be Elliott Roosevelt, son of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and William Smith of El Paso, a brother of the bridegroom.

One of the many prenuptial parties for the young couple will be a supper dance Christmas eve at the Rivercrest Country club, at which Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt will be host and hostess. Fort Worth was Mrs. Roosevelt's former home.

After a short honeymoon Mr. Smith and his bride will be back here to find an apartment. One of the parties for them here will be the dinner Miss Dawes will have the evening of Jan. 5 at the Vassar cabaret party in the Michigan Square building. Miss Dawes, who is one of those working hard for the success of the cabaret, reports that Mary Cook's interpretation of the rumba and Continental and a fashion show during dinner will be two interesting entertainment features. The party is to be a benefit for the Vassar scholarship fund.

Clarita Martin to Give Dance Recital Tonight.

The Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness is to benefit by a dance recital Clarita Martin will give tonight in the New Trier High school auditorium, Winnetka. Mrs. Martin, who in private life is Mrs. Mellen C. Martin of Winnetka, has made a great success in Spain and on the west and east coasts of this country as a Spanish dancer, and there undoubtedly will be a large audience to see the program of modern, flamenco, and gitano dances she will give tonight. Many dinner parties are to be given on the north shore preceding the recital, among them those of the Gilbert Crowders, the Frederick Burnhams, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Gillies, the Ernest Ballards, the Henry Macfarlands, and the Eugene Howards.

Mrs. Mabel P. Simpson and Dr. Newton Edwards will be the principal speakers at the round table luncheon of the Lake Shore League of Women Voters at 12:30 o'clock today at the Arts club. Education in public schools will be the theme for each speaker.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Gale Taylor III. are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter Saturday at Passavant hospital. The baby, who has been named Constance, is the first child of the former Jane Willett and young Dr. Taylor.

The board of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children will meet for luncheon today at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Worcester, 1323 North State street. Mrs. Worcester and Mrs. Homer Guck will be hostesses.

The British consul general, Lewis Bernays, announced that there is to be an exact reproduction of Princess Marina's wedding gown on exhibit today at the downtown store of Charles A. Stevens and Brothers. The Daughters of the British Empire are sponsoring the showing and are making a small charge to benefit their charity work.

Young Girls Like This Dress

GIRL'S DRESS.

Taffeta is one of the prettiest materials to choose for a youthful party dress, and the quaint sophistication of this model will make any young girl look adorable. The swish of the ruffled flounce and the rustle of the taffeta will be sure to delight her. If you like this design for a school dress, choose a navy blue wool challis dotted in tiny red dots.

The pattern, No. 3037, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SOMETIMES YOU MUST BID YOUR PARTNER'S HAND.

In certain bidding situations you may feel absolutely certain that you have a slam in the hand—in fact, your only doubt may be whether it is a question of small or grand slam—yet you are not justified in making an immediate forcing bid yourself, and you also know that your partner is bound to slow up because you yourself hold certain cards, lack of which must necessarily prevent him from visualizing the hand's tremendous possibilities. A hand came up the other day which illustrated this situation very well. I will not bother you with the East and West hands, as naturally they never bid, and they never took a trick.

NORTH HAND.

Sp.—A 10 6 2	Di.—K 8
Ht.—K Q J	Cl.—K Q 8 5

SOUTH HAND.

Sp.—K 3	Di.—A Q 6
Ht.—A 10 6 5 4	Cl.—A 9 4

North dealt, and rightly bid a no trump. He has three and a half primary tricks and fine protection throughout; moreover, the lead should come up to the king of diamonds, not through it, and a club bid might cause South to be declarer in no trumps, and thus place that declaration in the wrong hand.

South, two hearts. Though he has four primary tricks, there is no need to jump at this stage, as North must bid again. South cannot bid three hearts, as he does not hold two of the top three honors in that suit. The length of the heart suit is probably an important factor, so it would be wise to give a slam try in no trumps now and bid hearts later. Also, it is advisable to make it easy for North to bid spades in case his no trump is based chiefly on a five or six card spade suit. So South rightly bids two hearts.

North, two no trumps. Having only one ace, he cannot rebid constructively and he is still unwilling to give up the chance of being the declarer, in view of his diamond holding. Therefore, this rebid is better than three hearts, though he knows his partner's heart suit must consist of at least five cards, otherwise it would not be biddable.

South, five no trumps. Now is the time to reveal his real strength, since he has learned that North has an all-round no trump hand and not a hand with one long suit and outside protection. This bid shows three aces and all-round strength, as well as the biddable suit already mentioned. He realizes that North, with only one ace, would have to pass any less emphatic bid at the game level.

North, six hearts. Since his partner has bid in this manner, lacking king, queen, jack of his heart suit, he, too, must be informed that this suit is actually solid in the two hands. Otherwise he must naturally slow up and cannot bid the grand slam if it is there. He can otherwise at this stage not read North for more than K x x and ten in hearts. North also confirms his opening bid in so far as concerns its expected primary three and a half tricks.

South, seven no trumps. He knows that North cannot have three and a half primary tricks unless he has the ace of spades and all the other kings. He might have the queen of spades and not the queen of clubs; but he can now count thirteen top tricks. He prefers no trumps to hearts, not only because of the higher trick score [vital in match play, unimportant in rubber play], but because if there is, after all, any "if" or doubt about the hand, the opening lead is more likely to help North than to help South. The "if" can only concern a card lower than a king.

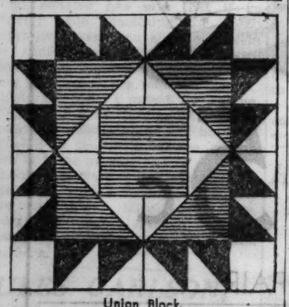
Union Block Uses Patriotic Colors of Red, White, Blue



Union Block.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Red, white, and blue were the accepted colors for all "Union" quilts at the time they first were made. This "Union Block," in fashion in 1840, is an example of the pieced block. There were also many lovely applique patterns of the same name. Recently the "Union Block" has been revived and received with much enthusiasm. It is easy to piece and is slightly reminiscent of "Barrister's Block," "Kansas Troubles," and "The Rocky Road to Dublin."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

BY MARY MEADE.

Are you one of those folks who smile reminiscently over the thought of great, puffy marshmallows toasting on green sticks, and sigh for summer to come? Then don't be that way. For marshmallows may be just as much an indoor sport and a winter delight as they have always been a picnic companion. And if you're mourning that your desserts never seem to have the sparkle and originality of Mrs. Smith's, then go her one better with a pre-showing at your house of a 1935 dessert:

PINEAPPLE MARSHMALLOW TORTE.
1-3 cup butter
½ cup sugar
4 egg yolks, well beaten
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2-3 cup flour
¼ cup pineapple juice
1 teaspoon lemon extract

Cream together the sugar and butter until fluffy. Add the egg yolks, beating well. Sift together three times the baking powder, salt, and flour. Add this alternately with the pineapple juice and lemon extract to the creamed mixture. Stir until well blended, then pour it into two greased layer pans and cover both with the following meringue:

MERINGUE FOR TORTE.
4 egg whites
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup moist shredded coconut

Beat the egg whites until partly stiff, then gradually fold in the sugar, beating lightly. Add the salt and lemon extract. Fold in half the coconut. Spread this mixture evenly over the two unbaked layers. Sprinkle with the rest of the coconut and bake in a slow oven [325 degrees F.] for 25 minutes. Keep the oven at just this point, to avoid overbaking the meringue or underbaking the cake.

Cool the layers after baking, and just before serving put them together with the following filling:

FILLING FOR TORTE.
1 cup whipping cream
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
1½ tablespoons powdered sugar
¼ teaspoon lemon extract
8 marshmallows, cut in quarters

Place the first layer of cake, meringue side down, on a cake plate. Whip the cream until stiff, then add to it the sugar, pineapple, lemon extract, and marshmallows. Mix well. Spread all of this over the first layer. Place the second layer of cake, meringue side up, on top of the filling. Cut the torte in wedge shaped pieces and serve.

Or are you stumped over the problem of a Christmas salad? Usually with our holiday feast we include quite enough raw and cooked vegetables to justify a departure to fruit on the salad plate. A temptingly fluffy offering, chilled but not frozen, is—

CHRISTMAS SALAD.
4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons sugar
1 No. 2 can white cherries, drained
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple, drained
1 No. 2½ can pears, drained
1 pound marshmallows
Juice of one lemon
1 pint whipping cream

Combine the beaten egg yolks, the milk, and the sugar in the top of a double boiler, cooking over hot water to form a thin custard. Cool. Meanwhile stone the cherries and combine them with the drained pineapple and cut up pears. Add the marshmallows cut into quarters and the lemon juice. Stir into these the custard and fold in the stiff-beaten cream. Pour the salad mixture into a large pan and let stand twenty-four hours in the refrigerator—not in the freezing unit. To serve, scoop out individual servings to represent snowballs and serve in lettuce cups for a salad, or in sherbet glasses as a dessert. Garnish with red and green cherries. This recipe serves twenty, but may be cut mathematically to serve a smaller group.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

INSTALMENT XLIX.
A HONEYMOON TO REMEMBER.

Colin looked at him hard and then:

"Jack—that's punk!" he asserted. "The plain truth is that after we pulled the stunt off and made a complete success of it—and not till then—you decided you were ashamed of having broken the rules. And you've figured it out that you're not fit to be a senior officer."

"What if I did!" retorted Jack. "It remains equally true that I had no idea I should be so depressed by a prison. I thought it would be like the army and it isn't. There's a sort of—hopelessness. And those beastly corridors. I'm going for an open air job. Of course, I can't get one in England. I shall try the colonies."

Rhoda promptly chimed in.

"What about a cattle ranch in Canada? I'm told it's one of the largest in the whole country. Or would you prefer a mine? I don't know anything about the mine except that it's too big for Leningway to put in his pocket."

Before he could answer Rhoda turned to her husband.

"Colin! We're rich. And we're just going to learn what fun it is. When Jack has done humming and hawing he'll accept. He said he wanted an open air job in the colonies. Or isn't Canada a colony? Must it be a colony, Jack?"

"And we'll go with him!" cried Colin. "There's not much doing in engineering in England now. And, anyway, it'll take me a long time to get started up again. We'll have a long holiday watching the others milk the cows or whatever one does on a ranch. And then perhaps I'll find something. I'm not going to live on your money, you know."

They made a lot of jokes about Jack and the cows—simple, childish jokes at which they all laughed inordinately. And in their laughter these three struggled out of the tragedy of the last eighteen months into the daylight of normal life.

Nothing could have been more adroit than Mrs. Cornboise's welcome of her son-in-law.

"Well, Colin—you really can't expect me to call you 'Mr. Briarley,' it would be too absurd now—I was going to say that I think that son of yours takes after you. We've had to have a special net put over his cot to prevent him pulling himself out of it."

Thus, with a magnificent gesture, she reduced Colin's escapes from prison to the level of a domestic triviality that nobody need make a fuss about.

"I fear my wife exaggerates," said 'the professor,' and nearly spoiled it all. "It is a comparatively common phenomenon for a young child——"

"Never mind, daddy darling!" said Rhoda. "He is a wonderful baby, isn't he?"

"I confess that he has impressed me as being perfectly normal—ah—perhaps remarkably so!" For once 'the professor' seemed to be getting a little muddled. "I admit that I receive certain novel pleasurable reactions from contemplating the fact that he is my grandson."

"You must let us keep him for a little, Rhoda, while you and Colin have a holiday—I'm sure you need one. Colin looks as if he hasn't had enough sleep."

Mrs. Cornboise was determined to be ordinary about it all, which, in the circumstances, was the most sensible thing to do.

Rhoda promptly accepted her offer. They went back to the little inn at the village in North Wales. And there their honeymoon came to life again, freed now from the ticking menace of the clock.

"Do you realize?" he asked her, as they lay side by side on the hot sand, "that we are about to become just a commonplace, everyday married couple?"

"Yes—it's what I've always wanted. Haven't you?"

"Yes, rath-er! We shall try to forget what has happened. But sometimes I feel as if I don't want to forget. We fought for each other like tiger cats, you and I."

"Yes. And we shall go on fighting for each other. O, not against the police and my mother and the hundred things we have fought against—and that hopeless feeling that we should never see each other again. I mean against all the things that upset marriage. I mean domestic routine and little irritations—all those trifles that make so many married people tired of each other."

"Splendid!" He put an arm round her and drew her to him. "Just try and make me thoroughly cross, will you?"

"Colin! You're laughing."

"I'm going to laugh for the rest of my life. And so are you."

"Yes, Colin. But we're still on a sort of honeymoon——"

"And that's where we're going to stay. On a sort of honeymoon—so long as we're together."

THE END.

Books on Religion Written for Child Are Excellent Gifts

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

There has been this past year an increasing demand for books about religion written for the child. Let me tell you of a few:

The most substantial is "A First Bible," a book of beauty and dignity for the not so young reader. The illustrations, by Helen Sewell, which are rich, traditional in feeling, but not remote, draw you first. Then you find in the text not a rewriting but selections from the King James version. The price is $2.50 and the publisher the Oxford University Press, New York.

"The Lord's Prayer: For Younger Children" is the next book on my list. This is really a picture book by the French artists Ingri and Edgar Parin d'Aulaire. Doubleday-Doran are the publishers and the price is $1.75.

Lauren Ford's "Little Book About God" is utterly refreshing, simple, and unique. The lovely color pictures make me think of Fra Angelico angels, and religion, too, become sweetly friendly and concrete. Do go to the book store and look at this book. Doubleday-Doran are its publishers and its price is $2.50.

"The Christ Child," with drawings in full color, by Maud and Miska Petersham, will delight the quite young child, especially certain pictures such as the one of the Baby lying in the manger and the scenes showing Christ as a little growing up boy. Doubleday-Doran are again the publishers and the price is $2.50.

Several Factors in Handwriting Show Intensity

GRAPHOLOGY COUPON
Your Handwriting Analyzed

Know your assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions. Obtain a personal graphology chart. Here are the rules:

1. Clip this coupon, attach a sample of handwriting, and mail to Muriel Stafford, box 1539, Chicago Tribune.
2. Enclose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Enclose a self-addressed STAMPED envelope, folded once.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

There are those of you who cannot do anything lightly. You cannot love lightly nor can you enter a happy-go-lucky friendship. You cannot think of anything you attempt as "just a job." You have to put yourself into it, heart and soul.

Whether the writer is inclined to put his intensity into business or affairs of the heart can be determined largely by the slant of the letters, though if he is intense enough it may reflect in everything he does.

The business man with a "one-track mind," completely absorbed by his business and governed by his analytical mind, will slope his letters to the left or make them vertical. Intensity will betray itself in the width and pressure of the writing.

The emotionally intense person will slope his letters far to the right, unless, of course, he is emotionally inhibited. When an intense nature is torn between a clever analytical mind and strong affections, the letters may go to the left at times and to the right at other times.

In determining the intensity of your nature, look first at the width of the letters. If you are extremely intense they will be both narrow and sharply pointed. The pressure should be dark.

Such persons write rapidly. If emotional to a high degree and very imaginative, the writing is apt to be somewhat illegible, as in today's specimen of writing. If only mentally intense, the writing will be clearcut in spite of the rapidity with which it is written.

Since all the letters are inclined to be compressed do not expect to find the u-shaped n or the w-shaped m. The writer's charm is evident in other ways, however, for he is usually very magnetic.

The writer of today's sample of handwriting is emotional to a high degree. As he is unusually intelligent, he has both the mental and emotional intensity that I have mentioned. An almost uncanny amount of intuition that makes him able to know what others are thinking makes up for any lack of adaptability.

These persons do not fit into patterns. They are extremely individualistic and will fight for the right to be so.

Mt. Sinai Children's Aid.

The Children's Aid of Mount Sinai hospital will meet at 2 o'clock today at the Palmer house. Dr. James M. Yard will speak.

HAWKS' STRONG FINISH BEATS MAROONS, 3-2

BIFF JONES CLASHES WITH HUEY LONG; MAY QUIT

COACH RESENTS MEDDLING WITH FOOTBALL TEAM

Puts Senator Out of Dressing Room.

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—For the second time in his career Senator Huey Long has been effectively, if only temporarily, silenced and as a result the Louisiana State football team, which Huey had made his personal hobby, appeared tonight to be without a coach.

It was Capt. Lawrence M. [Biff] Jones, Louisiana's coach, who muzzled the Kingfish this time to take rank with the anonymous hero of the Sands Point club who knocked Huey down with one punch on the nose when the senator grew even more obnoxious than usual in the washroom of the exclusive Long Island club, two summers ago.

Meddling Irritates Jones.

Reports that Capt. Jones had resigned his position as coach of the L. S. U. eleven as a result of Long's continual meddling with the team's affairs were unconfirmed tonight as both Long and Jones refused to comment, but friends of the former Army coach insisted that he was thoroughly fed up with both Huey and his educational institution and that his resignation would be offered in a short time.

"I have absolutely nothing to say," said Jones. "However, I am leaving town."

The climax of Huey's meddling with the L. S. U. eleven, which he had taken over as his private plaything and had utilized as an instrument for personal ballyhoo throughout the last season, came between the halves of yesterday's game with the University of Oregon. The senator earlier in the season had acclaimed the Tigers as the greatest football team in the country and had tossed challenges about indiscriminately, offering to let "his boys" meet any team in the country.

Huey Attempts to Dictate.

He had outfitted the R. O. T. C. unit and taken the student body of the state university to Nashville for the game with Vanderbilt, and after the publicity attendant upon that affair began to dictate, or tried to dictate to Jones and his coaching staf, telling them how to run the team.

Since L. S. U.'s defeats by Tulane and Tennessee, however, he has been loud in his criticism of the handling of the football squad. Yesterday when the Tigers trailed, 13 to 0, at the end of the first half, he invaded the dressing room.

"I'm going to give the boys a pep talk," he is said to have told Jones. "I'm going to tell 'em to go out and die for L. S. U. and Senator Long."

"What they need is arnica, not oratory," Jones protested, according to reports. "So you scram senator, and we'll do all right without your inspiring utterances."

Huey Escorted to Door.

Huey raved and ranted and grew apoplectic. Jones, tired of Huey and all his works, took the senator by the arm and with quiet dignity escorted him out the door.

"Good-by, senator," Jones is reported to have said. "I'll give you your football game and my resignation with it."

Louisiana went out in the second half and won from Oregon, 14 to 13.

Jones played golf today and refused to elaborate upon his statement that he intended to leave town. He usually goes on a duck hunting trip at the close of the football season and it is considered likely that he had gone to the Louisiana bayous for a week or two.

Jones, one-time Army coach who directed West Point teams in the late twenties, was brought to Louisiana State after the 1931 football season when Long was dissatisfied with L. S. U.'s consistently poor football showing and low rating in the Southeastern conference.

Teams Improve Under Jones.

The senator has said that if he "hadn't done something, L. S. U. might not have been able to stay in the conference." The state teams showed an immediate improvement from the time Jones took charge.

Until the Dec. 1 defeat by Tulane, L. S. U. had gone through 18 consecutive games unbeaten and had not been defeated in the Southeastern conference in three years.

Louisiana State went into the Tulane game with a record of victories over Arkansas, Mississippi State, George Washington, Auburn, and Mississippi, and ties with Rice and Southern.

JULES CARLSON, CHICAGO BEARS GUARD, MARRIES

Jules Carlson, guard on the Chicago Bears football team, and Miss Edith Iva Carlson, 1639 Winona avenue, were married by Justice of the Peace Howard Kemp at Crown Point, Ind., last night. Carlson said that he was 30 years old and resided at the Commonwealth hotel. The bride gave her age as 22. Mr. and Mrs. Carlson announced they would go to Memphis, Tenn., and later to Cuba on their wedding trip.

N. U. Surveys Prospects for Successor to Coach Hanley

With the resignation of Dick Hanley as head football coach of Northwestern university on Saturday, officials of the Evanston institution yesterday made plans to find his successor. Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, athletic director, said that no definite overtures had been made to any one man in the coaching field, however, and that a thorough survey of all those available would be made before any choice is announced.

It is likely that the appointment will be made some time this week, Wilson indicated.

Despite the fact that officials said that Ossie Solem, now head coach and athletic director at the University of Iowa, had not been approached, the big boss of the Hawkeyes still remained the favored candidate for the job at Evanston, and it is generally known that he would be the first choice of the Northwestern officials if he were available.

Other Coaches Mentioned.

He himself has refused to make any comments on the likelihood of his acceptance of the position, if it is offered to him.

Among others mentioned for the coaching job at Northwestern are George Veenker, head coach at Iowa State college; Gus Dorais, coach at Detroit university, and Waldo Fisher, former Northwestern star who is now coaching the Wildcat ends. Even though the latter is not chosen as head coach, which seems likely because of his comparative youth, he probably will be given a regular, full time position on the Wildcat coaching staf.

Wilson to Recommend Coach.

Although the faculty committee which makes recommendations for all athletic appointments at Northwestern will have the final say on the new coach at Evanston, it is understood that that group will abide by whatever recommendations Wilson may make. The committee is composed of Prof. O. F. Long, chairman, Profs. Walter K. Smart, E. J. Moulton, William G. Smith, Arthur Kendall, Franklin Bliss Snyder, and William J. Farquharson.

IOWA DENIES "TRADE"

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—Prof. Clarence M. Updegraff, chairman of the University of Iowa athletic board, today denied the rumor that Iowa and Northwestern will "trade" football coaches.

Prof. Updegraff asserted that "Coach Solem has never intimated that he would consider leaving Iowa. I have been given no reason to believe he will go elsewhere."

"Iowa and Northwestern have never entered into negotiations regarding football coaches," he declared.

No Friction with Solem.

Asked whether there was any basis of fact in the reports that the Hawkeye athletic director and board in control of athletics failed to agree on a request made by Solem recently, he said:

"Coach Solem had several requests regarding his department before the board at a recent meeting. And Coach Solem himself was given the authority to carry out his wishes."

Prof. Updegraff said that he believed Solem was satisfied with his present salary, although he assumed the position of athletic director last July without an increase in pay.

Solem himself maintained silence regarding the reports that he would succeed Dick Hanley.

HEAD PLAY STEPS THREE QUARTERS IN MUD IN 1:12.4

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 16.—(AP)—They let Head Play "go to town" today for three-quarters of a mile on the Santa Anita track and Mrs. Silas B. Mason's entry in the $100,000 handicap was clocked in 1:12 4-5.

The time would be good enough as a tuneup under any circumstances, but considering that the track was a little slow from heavy rains of last week, the performance of the Preakness winner of 1933 indicates that his comeback campaign may prove fruitful. His time for the mile was 1:43.

Twenty Grand, a winner of the Kentucky Derby, stepped the mile today in a time trial in 1:43. The Greentree stable entry was not let out by his handlers at any time.

TIME SUPPLY IS VICTOR IN $25,000 COAST HANDICAP

San Mateo, Cal., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Time Supply moved into the lead at the head of the stretch and won the $25,000 Bay Meadows handicap here today. Dark Winter was second, and Fleam finished third. The winner's time was 1:53 4-5 for the one and one-eighth miles.

Through mist and mud the winner ran with the field until the race was almost over. Then, carrying 123 pounds, he came out to cross the line a length ahead of Dark Winter. The second place horse led Fleam by half a length, and Top Row was fourth, a length behind Fleam.

Top Row Is 2-1 Choice.

The winning 3 year old colt, owned by Mrs. F. A. Carreaud, El Paso, had been more or less a favorite, but his showing in the face of track conditions was a surprise. Top Row had gone to the post a 2-1 favorite. Only a week ago Jocky Tommy Luther, the winning rider, piloted Top Row to a new record for a mile and one-sixteenth here.

The western hope in the event, Norman W. Church's Riskulus, finished fifth. On Rush, of the Jack Atkin Pasadena stable, was sixth, and Faireno, carrying top weight of 126 pounds, was last. Five were scratched.

The pari-mutuel take on the feature race alone was announced as $50,462, the largest for any race at the new Bay Meadows plant. Despite the weather, the wagering was heavy for the other events, and track officials said the total play for the day probably would reach about $250,000.

Takes Lead in Stretch.

Time Supply paid $12.80, $6.80, and $3.60. Dark Winter yielded $5 and $3, and Fleam $3.

Faireno was first to get away, with Riskulus not far behind. At the quarter, Dark Winter was two lengths in front, with Riskulus second. The latter began to tire there, and at the half Dark Winter led by a length and a half, with Faireno and Riskulus fighting for second and third places.

Dark Winter and Faireno were a length apart at the turn, when Top Row began moving up. The El Paso colt passed Riskulus. At the stretch Time Supply was a half length in the lead, Dark Winter second, a length and a half ahead of Fleam.

Time Supply, by Time Maker out of Surpluce, won the $25,000 Narragansett special last October, and was not supposed to be a mudder.

DIZZY DEAN JUST MISSES CRASH IN MOTOR BOAT RACE

Bradenton, Fla., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Jerome [Dizzy] Dean twitched a trifle nervously tonight after a wild mile a minute speed boat ride that nearly ended disastrously.

The ace pitcher of the champion St. Louis Cardinals and his wife were riding in one of the fastest boats entered in the Manatee river regatta, and were racing into the lead of their heat when an outboard motorboat darted across the course.

For a moment the tiny craft hung in front of the onrushing speedboat, then the driver of the Dean boat, a veteran pilot, swung the craft in a complete circle, avoiding a crash.

Despite the delay, the Dean boat swept back onto the course and finished in second place.

Dean and his wife appeared to be badly shaken up over the incident. Neither would discuss it. The pilot said it was the closest call he had ever had in a race.

Dizzy only last week announced he would not participate in the races today.

"No, sir," he said, "you ain't going to get ole Diz in one of those fast boats."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

GETAWAY.

FRIEND STEWART: Well, Stewart, by the time you receive this letter the Wakes, three of them, will be on their way toward the Rose Bowl at Pasadena and Arcadia race track near Los Angeles. I can't tell you who will be at the wheel of the family bus because that has precipitated another argument. It's really interwoven with the original argument whether the trip should take 14 days, as I maintain, or 7 days, as the ladies maintain.

You see, the ladies said: "We'll do most of the driving and then maybe you'll be rested enough to get up every morning at 6:30 o'clock," which sounded very fine, except the 6:30 o'clock, which as you know is four hours earlier than we newspaper chaps arise. Then a great light dawned on me and I said: "No, I'll do my share of the driving." So the way it's left is that they'll be grouching when I'm driving because we are not going over 35 miles an hour, and I'll be grouching when they're driving, asking them to slow down to 50 miles an hour.

Remember I told you I'd be a little short of money. Well, it's worse than that now. The day before we were ready to start, we went to the garage to rouse the old family bus. It just lay down in its stall with its ears back and refused to budge, like one of those balky horses in the rodeo.

So we called in some specialists and after the clinic, they decided to operate. The bus had infected tonsils, its duodenum was not functioning properly, there was whistling in its bronchial tubes, and it needed a new pair of sneakers. That surely was bad news, because before it could become an out patient, the hospitalization charges had to be paid for in cash. I felt as if I had been operated on myself and in fact was $97.35 lighter. You know how nervous I had been anyway. That left me almost a complete wreck.

So please tell Jimmy Segretti, who kindly agreed to forward my mail, not to send anything that looks like a bill—just to forward the first class letters.

We're going down Route 66 to Bloomington and then U. S. 51 through Centralia and Carbondale, through Arkansas, etc. Of course, Ed Burns said to go through St. Louis, but I think the young lady at the Evanston office of the Chicago Motor club must know what she's doing, because at several places on the route she wrote in blue pencil: "Dangerous if wet." I didn't think to ask her at the time whether she meant if the road was wet or if the driver was wet, and when I phoned back the office had closed. Anyway, we'll be careful.

Suppose you and Arch will want to hear something along the way and know where to reach me if necessary. Well, I'll drop you a few letters telling of road conditions and finances. I expect the former to be good and the latter to be bad, and I certainly hope the family bus displays no more mulish tendencies. I'd give you an itinerary with each night's stops, only one can't tell because our speed will depend so largely on who's driving.

Another thing, Dr. Pollard, our health commissioner, telephoned me just before we started that the Social Service something was giving a boxing show at the high school gym Wednesday night with a good card of C. Y. O. boxers who took part in the recent tourney, and I was to tell Frankie Mastro about it so he could give 'em a little notice, because Evanston people don't know much about boxing contests unless they read it in the newspapers. Anyway, I forgot to phone Frankie and Doc Pollard is a good scout, it's for charity and they do need the money—I mean the Social something, not the boxers, because they're amateurs—so will you please tell Frankie?

Well, Stewart, you'll be hearing from me again soon. Hoping you are the same.

Regards,
HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

Herrera Wins Technical Knockout Over Ruggirello

New York Rangers, 2; Boston, 1.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Detroit's Red Wings came from behind here tonight to gain a 2 to 2 tie with the New York Americans in a National Hocky league match featured by hard checking in all periods.

Lloyd Gross' goal, scored late in the third period on assists by Weiland and Goodfellow, sent the game into an overtime period in which the New Yorkers evidently were content to let the Detroit club vainly attempt to break through an efficient defense.

Schriner, assisted by Carr, put the visitors in the lead with a goal half way through the second period. Eleven seconds after the third period opened Lewis tied the score on a pretty backhand flip, while Aurie, Emms, Smith, and Boyd were serving penalties for roughing.

Hap Emms, a former Wing, put the Americans in the lead again on a pass from Conn, after which the teams battled evenly until Gross scored the tying goal. There were no penalties in the first, third, and overtime periods, but the game was a battle of hard body checking throughout.

RANGERS, 2; BRUINS, 1

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The New York Rangers presented their new goalie, Dave Kerr, with an almost airtight defense tonight and gave one of their best exhibitions of the National Hocky league season to defeat the Boston Bruins, 2 to 1. A near capacity crowd, drawn partly by Thursday's Bruin-American brawl, saw the game.

Kerr, a trifle jittery at the start, turned in a fine, steady performance, making 41 saves against 24 for Tiny Thompson in the Bruin net.

Dit Clapper scored Boston's only goal in the last minute of the first period after Barry and Kaminsky had recovered a rebound and fed him a double pass with Clapper in the penalty box.

A perfectly executed four-man play sent the puck to Bunny Cook for the tying shot in the second period. Another fine pass produced the winning tally less than two minutes before the finish when Butch Keeling shot the puck up the center alley and Cecil Dillon raced in to beat Thompson.

What Awaits Louis? Rise Stirs Interest

BY FRENCH LANE.

Somewhere away back in the ancestry of Joe Louis, most talked about prize fighter in the country today, there must have been a cigar store Indian, with the edge for emotional display going not to young Chief Pop-Em-on-the-Chin but to old Chief Rain-in-the-Face.

So far that stolid expression of Louis' has never changed, regardless of whether he is delivering or receiving a blow or whether the cheers or the jeers of a vast crowd are ringing in his ears.

It isn't a blank sheet of paper—this expression on the high yellow countenance of Louis; rather is it one on which has been written one firm purpose, even though cruel measures may have to be restorted to before that purpose has been accomplished.

How to Classify Him?

That expression, revealing nothing, is all that most people know about the character behind the mighty blows which have caused the name of this young Negro to be on every man's tongue.

What is to come? Which category will he fall into—that of the notorious Jack Johnson or that of the gambler faker, the dead Joe Gans?

These two were mighty black men of the prize ring, and once there was a future just as rosy ahead of them.

As yet Louis has made no mistake. In no instance has he carried himself in a way that would warrant adverse criticism.

The people of his race, hungry to find and idolize another man who can lift their banner high, will say this is due to the fact that so far no white man nor his money has had a chance to spoil him.

Own People Direct Him.

The fistic firm of which Louis is the "bar of gold" is strictly Negro. Men of his own race have directed him in his cometlike dash toward the heavyweight championship. Thus far he has indicated no desire to be advised by any person other than of his own color.

There isn't much background in the Louis history. He sort of "just growed" down in Alabama. About the time he learned to say "come you seven" and "eighter from Decatur" and "baby needs a new pair of shoes," he woke up one morning and found that his mother had taken him to Detroit to live.

During those first few years in Detroit—well, Louis was just another darky kid—there were patches on the seat of his breeches, big yellow toes protruded out of the front end of his shoes; he was usually hungry, and could take care of himself very capably in street corner and alley fights.

Roxborough Discovers Joe.

Along came John Roxborough, a Negro in his late thirties who has developed into quite a political figure, particularly among the Negroes, in Detroit. His letterheads show that he is in the insurance business, but some say the chief source of his income is from gambling and from Negro policy games.

Roxborough's hobby is athletics. In building his political machine, one of the moves he made was to establish and fit out a number of small gymnasiums in which Negro urchins of Detrot might engage in all forms of indoor exercises and competitive games.

It was in one of these gymnasiums he discovered Louis, a tall, fast growing kid, who within a short space of time had knocked out every Negro lad who chose him as an opponent in putting on the gloves.

The outcome of it all was that Roxborough took out guardianship papers for the young boxer. This guardianship will end in eight months when Louis becomes 21 years of age.

Wins Golden Gloves Titles.

Instead of rushing Louis into professional boxing, Roxborough sent him into the amateur ranks. He wound up with a Golden Gloves championship in the tournament conducted by the Detroit Free Press. He came to Chicago and reached amateur boxing's peak when he emerged from THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions with another title.

A few months later—it was last

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The world champion Blackhawks made their boss very happy last night by twice coming from behind and eventually licking Tommy Gorman's Montreal Maroons by a score of 3 to 2. Gorman managed the Hawks to their world title, then went away from here, and that was the reason that certain folks were especially anxious for the Hawks to beat the Maroons, even though Mr. Gorman is a very nice man.

Thirteen thousand customers also thought it was a swell spot for a victory, especially since it gave the Hawks unshared possession of first place in the American division of their league.

Hawk Lines Effective.

Although all the Chicago forwards and Goalie Chabot played a sterling game of hocky, all the scoring was confined to one line, the Gottselig-Morenz-March trio. Gottselig tied the score at 1 to 1 on a pass from March in the first period. Early in the second period the Maroons resumed the lead when Robinson, who had scored the first enemy goal, scored the second marker on a penalty shot, the first ever made at the Stadium.

Gottselig, on assists from Morenz and March, again tied it up early in the third period. And March effected the winning counter later in the final period on assists by Gottselig and Morenz.

The Maroons registered the first score of the evening in 3:45 of the first period. Conacher pounced on the puck in Hawk territory and slid the puck to Blinco, who passed to Robinson. Robinson rammed the disc into the nets.

The Hawks then tied the count in 11:40 of the first period on a very interesting effort. March had banged a shot off Connell's shin guards and the puck had dropped at his feet. Connell, Conacher, and Shields all tried to sit down on the rubber. Their aims were faulty and while the three Maroons sat and squirmed, trying to locate the puck, March hooked it from under their snowy shorts. Then followed a series of shoveling swipes which finally were rewarded when Gottselig succeeded in lifting the puck over the sprawled trio and into the cage.

Penalty Shot Scores.

At the half way point in the second period Trudel was locked up for tripping and the Maroons put on the usual five against four swarm. A minute later Conacher plopped on the ice and slid into the uprights of the Hawk goal. Lionel seemed to be suffering great pain until Referee Smith ruled that the Maroons were entitled to a penalty shot on the grounds that March had tripped Conacher while the latter was in a scoring position. He really was badly shaken up.

At 10:30 of the period the Chicago customers got to see the first penalty shot under the new National league rule. Robinson whizzed the puck from the penalty ring, waist high, and the score became 2 to 1 in favor of the visitors. March also drew two minutes in the penalty box for his offense, there joining Trudel. The Maroons laid down a terrific barrage while the Hawks had two men off, but Chabot was able to stand off the enemy with some miracle stops.

Hawks Tie Count.

Nice team work enabled the Hawks to knot the count in 2:35 of the third period. Morenz got the puck not far from his left boards and passed straight across the rink to March. Mush pushed several strokes toward the cage, then passed to Gottselig. Gottselig staged one of those swoops in front of the cage, angling his shot past Connell as he approached to set the count at 2 all.

The same trio put over the Hawks' third and winning goal in eleven minutes of the third period. Morenz took a shot pass from Gottselig. Howie did a spin like a ballet dancer in front of the Hawk bench, then loosed a bulletlike shot that seemed to stun Goalie Connell. Before the Maroon goalie could regain his poise March was on top of the rubber and had no difficulty in nudging it the inch or two it needed to fetch on the red scoring light.

Tonti Defeats St. Cyr; K. of C. Champion.

The victory of Aquinas over Perez for the first time in four years, 21 to 16, was one of the highlights, as was the victory by Loyola-Hyde Park, 30 to 24, over Santa Maria, in Santa Maria's first south division game. Lineups:

WEST DIVISION

After losing its first three games, Tonti entered the victory column in the west section with a surprising victory over St. Cyr, the league champion, 28 to 21. Beef, Ringhofer, with five baskets and a free throw, led the scoring for the winners. Setters and Damen moved into a tie for first place with victories over Carroll and Hughes to maintain their unbeaten slates: Lineups:

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—INTO THE DARKNESS

DICK TRACY—Air Express

What Next for Louis? His Rise Stirs Fight Fans

July—came Louis' debut among the professionals. His meteoric bombardment to fame has followed.

Promoters and matchmakers complain that Louis—as far as the welfare of his pocketbook is concerned—has made his dash to the top ranks in too big a hurry. They can show you that he could have dallied along among the third and fourth raters for another year and have earned some $25,000 or $30,000 in a dozen fights that would have been little more than pushovers for him.

Leading heavyweights already are beginning to find one excuse after another that will keep them out of a match with Louis. So the promoters and matchmakers may be right when they say they can vision only three or four "shots" at big money for Louis unless the attitude of his white rivals is different from that toward such fellows as Wills, Langford, and even Johnson in his day.

Perrone Agrees to Battle.

Patsy Perrone of Cleveland is one heavyweight who isn't convinced that Louis is such a man killer, for he agreed yesterday to fight Louis in Detroit on Jan. 4.

Then what else is in front of Louis? There, of course, will be a fight between Louis and Kingfish Levinsky. The Kingfish would fight the Broadway Limited if there was money enough in it. This bout, according to present plans, will not come up at least until April, since the fellows in charge of Louis believe he needs that much time to be ready for the hard pelting fish peddler.

Schmeling and Carnera more than likely will be willing to fight Louis. The Negro boy is a bit fortunate because the world's champion right now and for some time to come is Maxie Baer.

The champion has no intention of drawing the color line, he told friends in Chicago as late as yesterday, if, within a year or a year and a half, Louis bobs up as his most formidable challenger.

"I will fight him and whip him," Baer said.

Wonderbolts Defeat Ravenswood Hearts, 9 to 2

Led by Nellson, who scored five goals, the Wieboldt Wonderbolts defeated the Ravenswood Hearts, 9 to 2, yesterday afternoon in a Major league soccer game at De Paul stadium. Coutts also shared in the scoring for the Wonderbolts by registering two markers. J. Murray and D. Murray each scored a goal for the Hearts.

Rosenbloom and Shucco Battle Tops Ring Card

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Although the majority of bouts on this week's national boxing program will be held tomorrow night, the high spot will not be reached until Friday, when Maxie Rosenbloom, former light heavyweight champion, engages Tony Schucco, Boston, in a 10 round match at the Boston Garden.

Even then Jack Dempsey and Max Baer probably will take much interest away from the fight. Dempsey will referee the match, while the heavyweight champion will be on hand as a spectator.

THURSDAY: At Tacoma, Wash.—Andy Divodi vs. Freddie Steele, middleweights [10]. At Atlantic City—Benny Bass vs. Baby Kid Chocolate, lightweights [8].

Russell Scores Three Touchdowns.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 16. —[Special.]—A brilliant aerial attack, led by Phil Sarboe, former Washington State quarter, and Bill Smith, former Washington end, enabled the Chicago Cardinals to roll up a 41 to 7 victory over the Southern California Maroons, a local pro football squad composed mostly of former Trojans, before a crowd of 16,000 fans today at the Gilmore stadium.

Doug Russell, former Kansas State half back, led the Cardinal scorers by making three touchdowns, one on the end of a 19 yard pass from Sarboe and the other two on end runs of 8 and 15 yards, respectively. Bill Smith took passes from Sarboe for two touchdowns, one good for 54 yards and the other for 59 yards.

Tipton Goes 65 Yards.

The final Chicago score was made by Howard Tipton, a former Trojan playing guard for the Cards, who intercepted a Maroon pass and dashed 65 yards.

The Maroons made their lone touchdown march in the first quarter when they took the kickoff following the first Chicago score and marched 80 yards. Laraneta ran around end eight yards for the touchdown.

Cardinals Lead 14-7 at Half.

Half-time found the Cardinals holding a 14 to 7 lead, but the Maroons went to pieces in the third quarter when three Chicago touchdowns quickly turned the affair into a rout. The lineups:

MILWAUKEE TEAM WITH 3,151 LEADS CENTRAL MEET

Toledo, O., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Paced by the Heil Products of Milwaukee, the Central States Bowling association tournament contestants made a wholesale series of changes in the standings over the week-end. New leaders were elevated in two of the three events, only the 744 singles count of W. J. Mattison of Toledo standing the test.

Heil Products took first place in team standings with 3,151, mainly through the efforts of E. Koch, who shot 698, and Gil Zunker, who had 672. A 3,025 count by the Arcadian Waldorfs of Cleveland was good for fourth position in the team event.

Johnny Crimmins of Detroit shot 701 which with the 648 of J. Gilboe gave them a doubles leading score of 1,349. Billy Sixty and C. Daw of Milwaukee hit 662 and 654, respectively, to take third with 1,316.

The standings:

Heil Products, Milwaukee	3,151

Marquette and Chicago Fives Meet Tonight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 16.—Marquette's basketball squad, seeking to redeem itself for the mediocre showing made against Wisconsin last night, will face the University of Chicago in the Hilltop gymnasium here tomorrow night. The Hilltoppers are not expected to have any difficulty with the Maroons, who lack height. The game will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Coach Bill Chandler, dissatisfied with the manner in which his team performed against the Badgers, has called a meeting of players an hour in advance of the game. At that time, a report on the Maroons will be given by Chandler's assistant, Ed Mullen, who scouted the Chicagoans in their defeat at the hands of Armour Tech last night.

Chandler will employ the same starting lineup against Chicago as that which opened against Wisconsin with one exception, Elrich will replace Casterton at forward.

1933—Marquette, 44; Chicago, 16.
1934—Marquette, 33; Chicago, 25.

Bill Haarlow, an outstanding forward, is ineligible, and probably will not be available to Chicago until the first of the year. Coach Nels Norgren is expected to start Capt. Tommy Flinn and Wally Duvall, the latter a former Beloit college athlete, at forwards; Bob Eldred at center, and Bill Lang and Dave Le Fevre at guards.

MARQUETTE.		CHICAGO.
Elrich	L. F.	Duvall
Morstadt [c.]	R. F.	Flinn [c.]

Rubado	R. G.	Lang

PURDUE FACES WABASH

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—The Wabash basketball team will invade Jefferson High school gymnasium here tomorrow night to meet Purdue's reconstructed quintet in a battle of traditional rivals. The Little Giants, always a tough foe for the Boilermakers, demonstrated their potential power in games with Northwestern and Wisconsin, and will give the Boilermakers a hard fight.

Purdue will have to display a more consistent game than it did in defeating Western State and DePauw if it can hope to add another victory to its string. Coach Lambert's main worries in preparation for the battle are concentrated at the center and floor guard berths, for Bob Kessler seems to have clinched the berth as Norman Cotton's running mate at forward, while Ed Shaver has been showing his old finish at back guard.

The game tomorrow will mark the last home stand for Purdue until Jan. 12, when Chicago will invade the local court in a Big Ten battle. Following the Little Giant encounter, the Boilermakers face a strenuous road schedule of five games that will send the Big Ten title defenders against Butler, DePaul [Chicago], Marquette, Wisconsin, and Illinois in order. Lineup:

PURDUE.		WABASH.
Cotton	R. F.	Joyce
Kessler	F. F.	Ruventine
Seward	C.	Berns
Mead or White	R. G.	C. Mason
Shaver	L. G.	Chrisler

Referee—Feezle [Indianapolis]. Umpire—Schommer [Chicago].

RODAK, RITTER LEAD BUFFALO'S 6 DAY BIKE RACE

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Charles Ritter and Mickey Rodak of Chicago tonight maintained an even pace with the Franco-Belgian team of Alfred Letourner and Gerard Debaets which, up to today, had been constantly in front in Buffalo's six day bicycle race. The Chicagoans, however, were considerably ahead on sprint points as the 885th mile was passed.

Standings:

	Miles.	Laps.	Pts.
Ritter-Rodak	885	9	182
Letourner-Debaets	885	9	108

P. C. Miller Wins Shoot at Glen View Club Traps

Breaking twenty-five straight in the shoot-off, P. C. Miller won the feature event at the weekly shoot held at the Glen View club traps yesterday, defeating Gordon Whitney. In the regular event, Miller and Whitney tied at 97 birds. In the protection event H. M. Harper and Fred McNally won in a close finish with a total of 95. The singles saw some stiff competition, H. M. Harper, Fred McNally and John Ames finishing one bird behind Miller and Whitney. J. G. Searle, L. A. Crowell, Lewis Hart and M. F. Swaney were two behind.

Fenwick Quintet Beats Marmion, Aurora, 20-18

Aurora, Ill., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—The Fenwick High school basketball team of Oak Park, defeated Marmion of Aurora here today, 20 to 18. It was the first defeat in three games this season for Marmion. The Oak Park lightweights won the opening game, 25 to 18.

Prep Wonder in Texas Is Whole Football Team

He was the official point gatherer for Crowell High school's Wildcats. His average of 26½ points a game and 318 point total had much to do with their winning the class B regional title in this far northwestern sector of the state. Todd registered 664 points during his four years of eligibility.

The triple threat performer twisted along for an average of 25 yards on his touchdown trips this season, a few yards under the figure in 1933, when he made 29 trips into enemy pay dirt. He also made 24 placement kicks in try for points after touchdowns this year. His best single game record was seven touchdowns scored against Archer City.

"I seem to never know just what I am going to do, and after it's over I don't know what I've done."

He has played nearly every minute of every game; calls signals from his full back post; kicks sensationally; passes, backs up the line; is a strong blocker, and rarely is injured.

Twenty years old, Todd weighs 160 pounds and stands 5 feet 10½ inches. He has not decided which college he will attend.

Browns Lead League in One Run Victories

The St. Louis Browns took part in fifty-three games in 1934 that were decided by one run, St. Louis winning twenty-nine, according to figures released yesterday by the American league. The Philadelphia Athletics took part in one more one-run game but lost thirty of them while winning twenty-four. The New York Yankees had the best record, winning twenty-six and losing but fourteen by the narrowest of margins. Detroit won twenty-six also, but lost eighteen, while Cleveland took twenty-three out of thirty-nine one-runners. Altogether, 190 games were decided by a single tally.

The Browns took seven by one run from the White Sox and eight from Washington. Detroit won seven from St. Louis by a single run, while New York won six apiece by one run from Chicago and St. Louis.

New York	x	1	2	6	2	5	4	6	26	.650
Detroit	3	x	3	7	3	3	3	4	26	.591
Cleveland	1	3	x	1	1	6	6	5	23	.590
St. Louis	1	3	2	x	8	4	4	7	29	.547
Washington	2	0	4	2	x	5	5	3	21	.457
Philadelphia	3	5	3	2	4	x	4	4	24	.444
Boston	2	4	1	4	3	3	x	3	21	.404
Chicago	2	2	2	2	3	4	5	x	20	.385

Total lost. 14 18 16 24 25 30 31 32 190

LOU BROUILLARD, SAM SLAUGHTER SIGN FOR FIGHT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Lou Brouillard, former welter and middle weight boxing champion, and Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute middleweight, have been signed to headline Pittsburgh's annual Christmas day boxing show, Promoter Jules Beck announced tonight.

Both fighters have reputations for hard hitting. Slaughter knocked out Paul Pirrone and Young Stuhley twice each, while Brouillard has knockout records over Ben Jeby, Paul Pirrone, and many other middleweights.

The fight will be 12 rounds.

GUNNERS BEAT KANSAS CITY, 7-0; WIN STATE TITLE

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 16.—(AP)—A last quarter touchdown by Benny La Presta, former St. Louis university star, enabled the St. Louis Gunners of the National league to defeat the Kansas City Blues of the American league, 7 to 0, for the professional football championship of Missouri today. A crowd of 7,500 saw the game.

La Presta's touchdown was scored on a pass after the Gunners had advanced to the Blue's 19 yard line. La Presta place kicked the extra point.

English Bet Huge Sums in Football Pools

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Football pool betting, almost unknown in England a few years ago, now has grown to an extent which has staggered even the original promoters. Millions of 4 cent, 12 cent, and 25 cent wagers are being made every week. The pools have become one of the greatest mail order businesses of the country.

Liverpool was the first home, and is still the chief center of them, but since they were excluded from the scope of the betting bill, scores of new promoters have come into the field. One firm alone in Liverpool had more than 500,000 regular clients on its book when the football season opened. It employs thousands of girls in premises as large as a modern factory. The promoters own their own printing press, and provide fine playing fields for their staf.

Pays 3,318 to 1 Odds.

Another Liverpool organization recently in one week took more than 1,250,000 4 cent bets, and paid out odds on one of the pools of 3,318 to 1. The postoffice has increased its stafs in many districts to cope with the flood of letters. Their revenue from the sale of stamps and tax on postal orders will, if present figures are maintained, be increased by about $2,500,000 during the current football season.

One reason for the spectacular success of the pools is their great popularity with women. Winnings are paid on Tuesday, and there is no opportunity to bet again until the forecasts for the Saturday matches have been made.

Most women have no objection to the family having a flutter once a week, especially when there is a chance of winning such large prizes. Success depends on forecasting accurately the results of leading matches. Most promoters run a number of different pools on Saturday fixtures.

Promoters Take Their Cut.

A sum, which varies from 10 to 20 per cent, is deducted from the amount received for each pool for the promoter's expenses and profit. The balance is evenly divided among successful competitors.

Some of the largest firms pay out as much as $50,000 a week or more in "dividends" to winning clients. Profits are so handsome that most promoters can offer the additional inducement of a large cash prize to the subscriber with the largest number of accurate forecasts. One firm offers a weekly award of $10,000, and at least three others have $5,000 prizes.

TOURING GOLFERS FILE ENTRIES IN FLORIDA EVENT

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The cabled entries of the team of seven American golf stars now touring Australia were received today for the first annual national amateur-professional best ball match play event to be played at St. Augustine, Fla., March 14-17.

George R. Jacobus, president of the National P. G. A. announced the entries had been cabled from Sydney by Paul Runyan, captain of the touring squad which also includes Densmore Shute, Jimmy Thomson, Leo Diegel, Craig Wood, Ky Laffoon and Harry Cooper.

OLYMPIC SKATING TRIALS CARDED FOR MINNEAPOLIS

Speed skating trials for the 1936 American Olympic team will be held at Minneapolis, Jan. 12-13, 19-20, Frank M. Kalteaux, committee chairman, announced last night.

Candidates for places on the team will be invited to train at Minneapolis and will get opportunities for actual competition in meets at Stillwater, St. Cloud, Fairbault, and Duluth. Sectional trials will be finished Jan. 6, and all qualifiers must be in Minneapolis Jan. 7, according to Kalteaux.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

Landowners or sportsmen who go out with guns and shoot cock and hen pheasants in or out of season, just because of a theory that the pheasant is an enemy of the quail, are all wrong and they are merely destroying this game bird of Illinois without good reason, according to the latest findings here in Illinois and neighboring states.

Director of Conservation Charles F. Thompson reports that the state natural history survey is authority for the statement that the quail-pheasant competition actually is nonexistent, which supports Mr. Thompson's contention that pheasants and quail can get along all right in competing for food and cover.

Dr. Theodore Frison, head of the natural history survey, rendered the opinion that the pheasant is not an enemy of the quail. This opinion was the result of observations by the Illinois survey by Prof. H. M. Wight of the School of Forestry, University of Michigan, an authority on pheasants, and by Dr. Paul L. Errington, Iowa State college, an authority on quail.

Prof. Wight wrote: . . . "We have several thousand observations of the activity of pheasants and we haven't a single observation which in any way incriminates the pheasant in its relations with young quail, or quail nests. Fortunately, we have apparently outgrown that controversy in Michigan."

Dr. Errington declared the belief that pheasant and quail competition for food is not of much importance, but that competition for winter covert does occur. Dr. Errington is one of the most distinguished students of game and bird problems in the middle west. It was he who conducted the study of the number of game birds lost by hunters who do not use retrievers. He also conducted a valuable winter study of quail in Wisconsin to see what cover and food was needed by the birds.

In commenting on the relationship between quail and pheasants in winter, Dr. Errington said:

"Quail are not affected by small numbers of pheasants, but they are, under some conditions, crowded out when pheasants occur in large numbers. . . . I do not take much stock in reports of pheasants destroying quail nests and fighting the birds, as commonly reported.

"Unquestionably, instances of this sort occur, because almost all gallinaceous birds, notably turkeys, will break up nests of other species if they happen to run across them. Nevertheless, pheasants are not primarily egg eaters and probably do not search for nests."

This controversy about pheasants attacking quail is an old one. We can recall the way the controversy was carried on in this department eight years ago, when readers kept writing in, some defending, but most attacking the pheasants because of alleged interference with quail nests.

Now it seems there is nothing to it. Intensive study and observation gives the pheasant a rather clean bill of health. Anyway, the pheasant is thriving in most areas while the quail is decreasing, due to the fact that the former can live in country where the Bob Whites cannot make a go of it.

North Central Meets Albion Five Tonight

North Central has worked to smooth its passing game, and in practice the team has been shifted around considerably. Tonight's starting lineup is still uncertain.

The work of Bob Burns in the first two games probably has earned him a regular berth. He will pair with Len Yuknis, North Central scoring star, at the forwards. Capt. Bob Young and Will Spiegler will be at the guards, and either Ade Dillon or Jim Thumley at center. Herb Heilman and Shiffler, two freshmen playing their first season, are the most promising reserves.

The North Central college athletic board yesterday announced the scheduling of a game with De Paul for Feb. 4. It will be played on the De Paul court. Probable lineups:

NORTH CENTRAL.		ALBION.
Yuknis	F.	Thwaits
Burns	F.	Smith
Thumley	C.	Bernes
Young	G.	King
Spiegler	G.	Rutman

ALABAMA GETS REST; SQUAD IN GOOD CONDITION

University, Ala., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Alabama Crimson Tide took a rest today after a stiff scrimmage yesterday, the last let up before the "Rose Bowl Special" pulls out for the west coast Friday.

The squad as a whole is in good condition after a week of heavy work, except Bob Morrow, husky guard, who suffered a broken nose yesterday.

Coach Frank Thomas and his staf appeared pleased with the progress made, particularly the adeptness of Alabama on defense against the known Stanford power and deceptive plays.

The squad swings into the final drill tomorrow with a stiff program mapped out and the probability of one more scrimmage before the departure for California.

Tulane Squad Starts Work for Temple

New Orleans, La., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Green Wave of Tulane university will start training in full force tomorrow in preparation for the first "Sugar Bowl" game New Year's day against Temple university.

Coach Ted Cox issued a call for the entire varsity squad to report tomorrow for daily practice, but has not expressed his intentions on drills during the next week, when the college will be closed for the Christmas holidays. The Greenies have been resting for two weeks since the regular season ended.

George and Bob Tessier, linemen who were out of the L. S. U. game because of injuries, will report for practice again, but Claude [Little Monk] Simons, who suffered a fractured shoulder bone in the final game, will be excused during the first week of practice.

TEMPLE END IS ILL.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Mike Lorenz, left end on the Temple university football team, probably will be missing when the squad resumes practice tomorrow for the "Sugar Bowl" game with Tulane university at New Orleans New Year's day.

Lorenz was confined to a hospital over the week-end with an attack of laryngitis. He hopes to be discharged tomorrow, but is slated to stay out of uniform until Tuesday or Wednesday.

It is expected, however, that Coach Glenn [Pop] Warner will excuse Lorenz until the team begins drills at Baton Rouge, La., training site of the Owls, for the Tulane game.

NOTRE DAME AND WILDCAT FIVES MEET TOMORROW

Northwestern's basketball team will go out after its fourth straight victory of the season tomorrow night against Notre Dame at South Bend. It will be the first of the annual two game series between the schools, the second of which will be played Feb. 9 at Evanston. The Wildcats' next home appearance will be against Michigan State Saturday night.

After their successful showing against Pittsburgh last week the Wildcats are hopeful of turning back the Irish, thus avenging in part the double defeat they received from Notre Dame last year.

Sophomores Overcome Fright.

In the Pitt game the Purple rose to their greatest heights of the season, both offensively and defensively. The team flashed a smooth working attack in which sophomores showed definitly that they are over their early season fright.

With three games in which to test his players, Coach Dutch Lonborg finally has hit upon a starting combination which has high scoring potentialities and excellent defensive qualities. This group includes Lyle Fisher and Guy Mercer, forwards; Jess McAnally, center, and Al Kawal and Duke Vance, guards. All but Fisher and Kawal are sophomores.

Can Hit the Baskets.

All starters are good shots and can be depended upon to contribute their share of points. Fisher has led the team in scoring in the three games to date, with Mercer, former Oak Park prep star, running him a close second.

The team is well fortified with reserve talent. Heading the reserves is Milt Rosenfeld, veteran forward, whose two baskets in the Pitt game terminated the visitors' second half rally. Other players who are ready for duty are Tug Blume, forward; Babe Bender, guard, and Leo Grossberg, center, all sophomores.

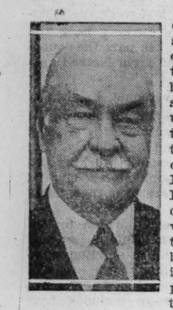
FREE MEN MUST GUARD LIBERTY, SAYS DR. BUTLER

Educator Warns of Invasion by Government.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—[Special.]—"One of the chief tasks of free men" under the present order of change and stress "is to require government to mind its own business and desist from attempts under any pretense" to invade their reserved of liberty, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, reminded the institution's board of trustees in his annual report made public today.



NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER.

The educator's remarks under this head indicated he is genuinely concerned over the present trend of events in the United States.

"Doctrin of Middle Ages."

"The notion, now preached and taught with much vehemence in various parts of the world from Russia, Germany and Italy to Mexico, that there is somewhere a hypothetical, invisible, and all powerful state which is antecedent to, superior to, and in necessary control of, every individual life and all individual effort, is so far below the level of established human knowledge that it is not easy to describe it in language that would be deemed parliamentary," he wrote. "This doctrin carries us back to the middle ages."

He warned the citizenry of this country that if they "permit their government so to extend its authority and control" as to limit them in the rendition of public service in accord with the "fundamental principles of American life and thought" they will see "the hand of death" laid upon "all that is best and finest in the public life of the American people."

Calls Radicals "Childish."

"All straight thinking relative to the American form of government and to the social, economic, and political order which has grown up under it," he said, "must start from and be based upon the fundamental distinction between the sphere of liberty and the sphere of government."

Dr. Butler looks upon some of the current doings of radicals in this so-called land of the free as nothing short of "childish."

"Habit of Benefaction Broken."

Dr. Butler dwells on the serious effect of the depression on the country's great educational institutions.

"The great fortunes which have been accumulating during the past two generations have now either disintegrated or otherwise disappeared," he said. "The noble habit of public benefaction so firmly established in the United States, to the untold advantage of American people, now is broken through lack of means with which to continue."

Mishawaka, Ind., Dec. 16.—[Special.]—The Rev. O. W. Bowen, 93, United Lutheran minister, died here today. He was the oldest pastor of the Michigan synod and was well known in Lutheran synods in Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois. He was regarded as the oldest minister in Indiana.

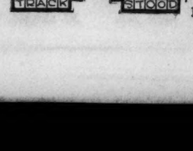
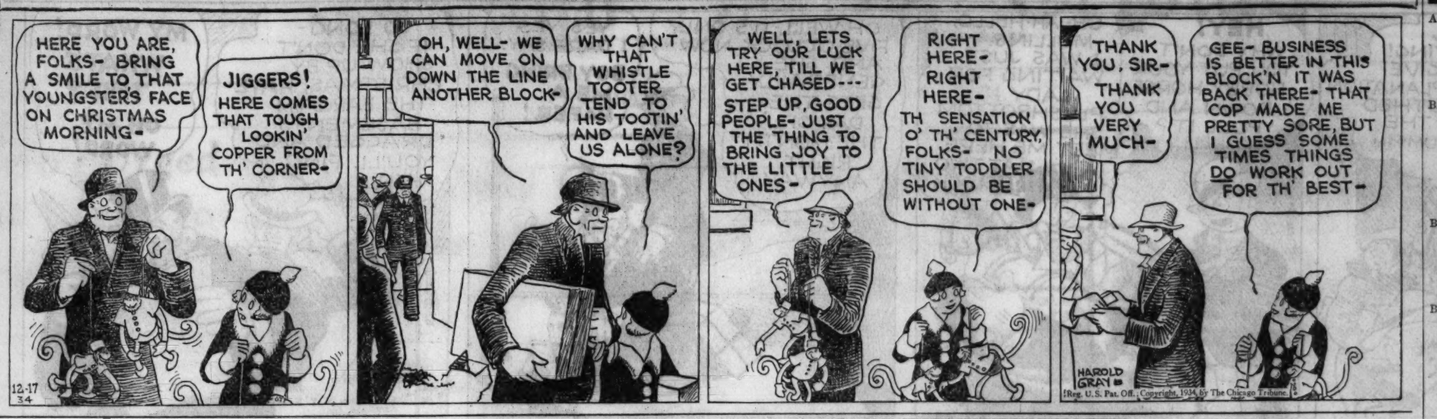
SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Traveling Salesmen



News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Elsie Janis, famous comedienne, will become the National Broadcasting company's first regular woman announcer. Miss Janis will be initiated into her new duties in a special program to be broadcast over the network at 9 o'clock next Wednesday evening. Participating in the broadcast will be Graham McNamee, Milton J. Cross, Alwyn Bach and other veteran NBC mouthpieces who will give her tips on their craft. Miss Janis is not new to radio—she has been a guest entertainer on many leading programs. After the first of the year she will be heard regularly guiding several well known network programs from first to final gongs.

While NBC is occupied on Saturday evenings with its three hour "Let's Dance" shows, CBS proposes to keep its followers entertained with a series of broadcasts giving them a panoramic view of life across the nation. First program is scheduled for 10:30 next Saturday night. CBS engineers will carry their microphones to many a typical American scene and listeners will do the eavesdropping. The microphones will pick up a few minutes of an ice skating party in Boston; the arguments of youngsters over their Saturday night bath; Christmas rush at the New York postoffice; sound of the U. S. mint in Philadelphia; comments of the crowd emerging from a Washington movie; the roar of Niagara; the merrymaking of a night club crowd in Chicago; cracker barrel arguments from a Kansas crossroads store; a bridge session in a midwestern home, and a broadcast from a movie set in Hollywood.

With the departure of Leopold Stokowsky, the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra will take over those Friday afternoon CBS broadcasts by the Philadelphia orchestra beginning Jan. 4. . . . Arthur Tracy, who has been off CBS for about a year, will return to the air via NBC early next month. . . . Sarajane Wells, who is the heroine of the CBS "Jack Armstrong, All American Boy" program, will appear in two plays the Players Guild of Evanston is presenting tomorrow evening. . . . Felix Knight, the young movie star of "Babes in Toyland" will appear with Ben Bernie tomorrow night.

The Rose Bowl football game will be broadcast over NBC. . . . When Jan Garber leaves the Trianon and W-G-N this week-end, to play one night stands for a week, Charlie Agnew's orchestra will substitute for him. . . . Vincent Lopez will be in town over the holidays playing debutantes' parties.

Mino Martini, the popular tenor of radio and grand opera, is to become a triple threat man at the conclusion of his current commercial series. Martini will go to Hollywood to make several musical pictures for Fox.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE PAYS GREAT HEALTH DIVIDEND

Approximately 30 per cent of the 2,900 students at Englewood High school showed a positive reaction to the tuberculin test recently, it was announced yesterday by the Chicago Tuberculosis institute, conductors of the extensive testing project.

The tests, given under the direction of Dr. Morris Snyder and Miss Tract Yohnke of the institute staf, were started shortly after the opening of the fall semester and completed last week.

"A positive reaction does not necessarily mean the existence of active tubercle bacilli germs in the body," officials explained, "but that the child has at some time or other been in contact with active tuberculosis."

Made possible by funds derived from the annual Christmas Seal sale, now in progress, the tests are valuable in warning susceptible persons of unsuspected cases and inspiring avoidance of tuberculin contacts.

If the "childhood" type is discovered curative methods can be started before the disease has a chance to make any headway.

"We sincerely hope that the Seal sale this year will not fall below its quota," institute officials said, "because a curtailment in this work now would give the disease a chance to advance without the slightest interference, and we would be faced again with the uncertainty of the extent of its progress in the youth of today."

TIME DEPOSIT INTEREST RATE CUT TO 2½ PCT.

U.S. Asks Reduction as Business Aid.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Federal officials applied a powerful "cheap money" prod today to business recovery by reducing the maximum interest payable by 13,800 banks on 11 billion dollars, of time and savings deposits from 3 to 2½ per cent.

The new rate becomes effective Feb. 1. It was fixed jointly by the Federal Reserve board and Deposit Insurance corporation with this frank purpose:

"The reduction in the deposit rate is in harmony with the prevailing downward trend in interest rates and is expected to support that trend, particularly in regard to rates on long-time money which are an important factor in business recovery.

Cuts Borrowing Cost.

"The decrease in rates on time deposits should have a tendency to bring about a decline in the cost to borrowers and to encourage depositors to seek investment for their idle funds.

"A more favorable capital market may be expected to create a more favorable mortgage market as well as encourage refunding operations and the undertaking of new capital projects generally, a development essential to recovery."

These words were used by the reserve board in making the announcement of its own action governing member banks and that of the insurance corporation for insured state banks and trust companies.

Another Recovery Help.

Perhaps as significant as the actual interest cut was the reserve board's open statement that its action was designed to supplement administration recovery efforts.

As the first statement issued since Marriner Eccles was named governor, it heralded completion of a new tie between the government and the theoretically independent reserve system.

Among immediate results expected were:

1. Improvement of the bond market by encouraging the investment of idle deposits in higher earning sources. This aid was expected to extend to the government securities market and facilitate the borrowing of recovery billions.

2. A general increase in the velocity of capital.

3. Encouragement of the recent decline in bond and mortgage yields which is considered desirable as a stimulus to building.

General Lowering of Rates.

4. A gradual lowering of federal reserve bank rediscount rates now above 2½ per cent. Atlanta made this reduction last week. Other districts still maintaining 3 per cent include Richmond, Minneapolis, Kansas City, and Dallas.

5. Supplementary action by state banking departments to make the new rule uniform.

The reserve board and insurance corporation action capped a long study into money conditions. It was estimated unofficially that 75 per cent of time deposits already yield only 2½ per cent or less and authoritative sources emphasized that the federal authorities were following the trend, not setting it.

"The reduction is in line with the action taken by state banking authorities in several states," the reserve board said, "and also with voluntary agreements made by clearing house associations and other banking groups."

FDIC Changes Urged.

Coincident with the new effort for cheaper money was a report to the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation recommending three legislative changes in the bank guarantee law. The report was made by Herman L. Ekern, former Wisconsin attorney general and state insurance commissioner, who made a special inquiry for the corporation.

As outlined by the chairman, Leo T. Crowley, the recommendations were:

1. Enactment of a permanent insurance plan as quickly as possible.

2. Fixing of $5,000—the present temporary level—as the limit to which the corporation should go in insuring deposits. Unless congress acts before July, deposits up to $10,000 will become fully insured, those from $10,000 to $50,000 would be 75 per cent insured, and those over $50,000 would be 50 per cent guaranteed.

3. Fixing of an annual premium to be paid by insured banks, thereby notifying institutions exactly what their expense would be and eliminating the unlimited liability objected to by banks.

FORD WILL SPEND 'AROUND $25,000,000 IN CHICAGO AREA

Close to $25,000,000 will be spent by the Ford Motor company in Chicago during 1935 of which about $5,000,000 will be paid to the company's employés. This statement was made yesterday by W. K. Edmunds, in charge of Ford activities in the Chicago branch area, who announced that the local assembly plant today is starting production on the 1935 Ford V-8 cars.

The balance of the $25,000,000 will go to industries in the Chicago area that supply the Ford company with materials. Mr. Edmunds said that during 1934 the gross volume of this business was in excess of $20,000,000 and contributed to the maintenance of families of approximately 100,000 employés of the companies involved.

The 1935 program will require the employment of 3,500 workmen five days a week, a decided increase over peak employment figures during 1934. Mr. Edmunds said that only former employés will be recalled to their jobs to bring the working force up to strength. Many of those who have been on Ford payrolls for a number of years have been notified to return to work during the last few days, he added.

Fahey Urged to Fight for Life of HOLC

Solution of thousands of cases now pending before the Cook County Probate court has been made most difficult as a result of the action of the Home Owners Loan corporation in restricting its activities, Probate Judge John F. O'Connell is informing John H. Fahey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan bank, in a letter he is sending to Washington today. Judge O'Connell is asking Fahey to use his best interest to have the work of the HOLC continued.

The HOLC announced on Nov. 13 that it was being forced to curtail its activities because its vast store of money either has been spent or is earmarked for the use of cases in its hands.

Judge O'Connell's Letter.

Judge O'Connell's letter states in part:

"The announcement that the Home Owners' Loan corporation would shortly cease functioning gave me a distinct shock.

"There are pending in this court more than 50,000 estates of persons deceased, under age, and incompetent. Fully half of these estates, involving hundreds of thousands of persons, are confronted with problems that may be solved by loans through the Home Owners' Loan corporation. Since the act went into effect orders have been entered in this court in more than 5,000 estates authorizing and approving exchanges of mortgages held by estates for Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds.

"The stagnant Chicago market makes it impossible to sell real estate for anything approximating its actual value. The distressed conditions of investors whose income has been cut off makes them pitiable figures in all too many cases. The stimulation to industry as a result of improvements directed by the corporation as a prerequisite to the making of any loans is a beneficent factor. Payment of defaulted taxes has aided in relieving distressed municipalities here. The liquidity of the bonds tends to promote the spending of money for useful purposes.

Millions Will Be Needed.

"This court recognizes its duty to use its influence to continue the functioning of the Home Owners' Loan corporation. Millions of dollars will be required to care for the loan problems of estates pending in the Probate court of Cook county. It is the writer's firm conviction that instead of terminating the activities of the Home Owners' Loan corporation the incoming congress should make available so much money as is needed to care for the requirements of the class which the original act was designed to serve.

"I have discussed this question with Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the board of the Continental-Illinois National Bank and Trust company, and he is in complete accord with my views.

"Recently a Chicago lawyer submitted to me a memorandum of his views on the desirability of continuing operations of the Home Owners' Loan corporation. They are confirmatory of my own views. While his memorandum is a lengthy document, I am taking the liberty of sending you a copy and hope that you may find time to glance through it.

"So urgent do I consider this matter that I would be happy to visit you or the congressional committee in charge in Washington to present the picture as we see it here. Surely, other large centers of population have had experiences not unlike ours."

PACKING WAGES, WORKERS SHOW SHARP INCREASE

Meat packing, the nation's largest industry from the standpoint of the value of its products, is employing 16 per cent more persons on a pay roll 38 per cent greater than a year ago, according to the latest available figures. Latest government statistics, issued for October, show more wage earners were employed by the packing industry in September and October than in any other two months' period on record.

Furthermore, pay roll totals for October were higher, with the exception of three months about 10 years ago, than they ever have been. The number of men employed each month during 1934 has been greater than the number employed in the corresponding month last year. Employment and pay roll total indices, according to the Institute of American Meat Packers, have been greatly in excess of the average indices for all manufacturing industries.

Volume of meat production, of consumption and of payments to producers also has been large in comparison with other years, the institute pointed out. The increase in employment in pay rolls was attributed in part to the heavy marketings of live stock during the year. The institute estimated over $10,000,000 a month in wages had been paid to about 135,000 wage earners by the industry, exclusive of salaried workers and executives.

Roosevelt to Get Dividend from Reorganized Bank

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt will get a cheering token of banking stability tomorrow in the form of an initial dividend check from the Federation Bank and Trust company. The size of the dividend was not made known. The bank, reorganized two years ago with the coöperation of both industry and labor, announced today that other stockholders receiving checks included Alfred E. Smith, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Senator Royal S. Copeland, Senator Robert F. Wagner, and Gov. Herbert Lehman.

Steel Output Rises Again to Meet Demands

Along with an increase of 3½ points to 33½ per cent of capacity in steel mill operations last week there was a substantial improvement in consumption, heavier demand for pig iron and coke, and another sharp advance in scrap prices, according to the magazine Steel's weekly review of the industry.

The journal states that producers are keying production schedules not only to supply current requirements, which are the highest since June, but also in preparation for several months of continuing improvement after the holiday interruptions.

Bookings Show Sharp Gain.

"Reinforced with demand from agricultural implement manufacturers, whose production is at the highest point in three years, larger commitments by makers of household utilities, some gains in railroad purchases, and miscellaneous needs, iron and steel bookings this month are 50 per cent over the comparable period in November," the magazine states.

The review continues that specifications from automobile manufacturers are mainly responsible for raising sheet mill operations to an average of 42 per cent of capacity, while some northern Ohio mills are operating at 60 per cent. Output of automobiles last week rose to 25,000 units from 19,000 in the preceding week, with some of the new models featuring all-steel "turret" tops and molybdenum steel springs.

"A strong undertone continues in the scrap market, with Steel's composite up 21 cents to $11.12, highest since the second week in May," the journal states. "Dealers and exporters are bidding against consumers in some districts. It is reported Japan has purchased nine vessels on the Pacific coast for scrap."

Structural Shape Awards Rise.

Structural shape awards for the week amounted to 9,600 tons, the review says, compared with 5,551 tons in the preceding week, and were featured by 3,000 tons for the first large commercial structure to be built in the New York metropolitan area for several months.

The review states that steel mill equipment programs under way or contemplated amount to $100,000,000, including $40,000,000 for the United States Steel corporation. In addition Standard Oil company of New Jersey will spend from $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 on modernization in 1935.

Several Districts Boost Output.

During the week there were gains in operations of 11 points to 59 per cent of capacity at Cleveland, 5 points to 32½ per cent at Birmingham, 1 point to 24 per cent in Pittsburgh, 1½ points to 35½ per cent at Chicago, 4 points to 39 per cent at Youngstown and 11 points to 59 per cent at Detroit. Operations were unchanged at 70 per cent in Wheeling, 24 per cent at Buffalo, and 47 per cent in New England. There was a drop of ½ point to 19½ per cent in eastern Pennsylvania. It is reported in trade circles that Youngstown will begin the week at 41 per cent of capacity, up 2 points.

The magazine's iron and steel price composite is up 9 cents to $32.44 a ton, due to the rise in scrap.

Jewel Tea Company, Inc., has just announced that sales for the four weeks ended Dec. 1 amounted to $1,469,721, an increase of 17.75 per cent above the $1,248,124 reported for the corresponding period of 1933. During the period the average number of units in operation was 1,544, against 1,456 a year ago.

Sales for the first forty-eight weeks of the year totaled $15,739,040, compared with $13,097,171 in the corresponding period of last year, up 20.17 per cent.

ASSETS OF NATIONAL BANKS NOW TOTAL NEARLY 25 BILLION

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special].—Assets of the 5,466 licensed national banks in the United States, Alaska, and Hawaii on Oct. 17, the date of the last call for statements of condition, amounted to $24,811,390,000, an increase of $909,798,000 reported by 5,422 banks on June 30 and a gain of $3,612,741,000 reported by 5,027 banks on Oct. 25, 1933, J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency, announced today.

While there was an important gain in the assets of these banks, loans and discounts on Oct. 17, at $7,633,924,000, compared with $7,694,749,000 on June 30 and $8,257,937,000 on Oct. 25, 1933, reflecting a continued liquidation of loans.

Deposits gained heavily. The figure for Oct. 17 was $20,821,392,000, an increase of $888,732,000, or 4.46 per cent, since June 30, and of $3,766,184,000, or 22.08 per cent, since the fall call in 1933.

Investments in United States government obligations, direct and fully guaranteed, on Oct. 17 aggregated $6,348,232,000, an increase of $344,580,000 since June 30, and of $2,236,587,000 in the year. These investments on Oct. 17 comprised direct obligations of the United States of $5,837,378,000, obligations of the Reconstruction Finance corporation of $184,255,000, Federal Farm Mortgage corporation bonds of $141,638,000 and Home Owners' corporation bonds, guaranteed as to interest and principal, of $184,961,000.

CHICAGO TRADE REPORTED BEST SINCE 1930 PERIOD

Chicago wholesale and retail trade last week was the best for any similar period since 1930, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Holiday buying in department stores and specialty shops carried retail figures far ahead of expectations. It was stated that purchases were heavy in both low and high priced merchandise.

An unusually heavy demand for spring commodities is boosting wholesale trade, with the retailers making large purchases of linens, household furnishings, spring clothing and all early year types of merchandise. It was stated that the area west of Chicago appears to be in a better buying mood than that stretching to the east.

Mail orders last week for late Christmas stock replenishment were also unusually heavy. Collections were said to be up to a satisfactory level. Employment in manufacturing industries appears to be slowly but steadily increasing.

Reading Company Profit for 10 Months $4,437,620

New York, Dec. 16.—Net income of the Reading company in the 10 months ended Oct. 31 amounted to $4,437,620 after ordinary charges and taxes, equal, after dividend requirements on the first and second preferred, to $1.79 a share on the common stock. This compares with $5,592,616, or $2.33 a share in the same period last year.

Trade Speeds as It Hits '34 Home Stretch

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Business quickened its pace as it came to the home stretch of 1934 this week. Retail trade was stimulated by favorable weather and reached the best levels in three or four years in many sections of the country, as the crest of the wave of Christmas buying approached.

The spotty improvement in industrial operations of recent weeks seemed to be broadening, led by steel, automobiles, textiles, food supplies, heating equipment, and building materials. Orders are gaining for shoes, and that industry is working out of its seasonal lull.

Largely Contra-Seasonal.

The improvement in industry in the last few weeks has been to a large extent contra-seasonal. The peak of autumn is usually reached in October, with a rather pronounced falling off in the last two months of the year. Some interruption to the upward trend in industrial activity is expected around the holidays.

The normal seasonal trend is usually upward from early in the new year, reaching a peak around March or April. A number of business analysts feel that the long rise to the spring peak has already started.

Hopes Hinge on Building.

Hopes for 1935 hinge to a considerable extent on the drive to revive building. The report of November contracts was disappointing, but may reflect a lull before the storm, as the new building drive has not yet started. The autumn campaign was concentrated on renovation loans. Building contracts let in the 37 states east of the Rockies for November, according to F. W. Dodge corporation, amounted to $111,740,800, compared with $162,340,600 in November of last year, and $135,224,800 for last October. All categories, including residential, industrial, and public building, declined rather sharply.

Dun & Bradstreet placed retail trade for the country as a whole sharply above the previous week, and 18 to 25 per cent above the like week of 1933.

RAIL EMPLOYES TO GET $30,000,000 PAY BOOST JAN. 1

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Nearly one million railroad workers will receive a new year gift of $30,000,000 a year. On Jan. 1, the railroads of the country will increase the wages of all their union employés five per cent in accordance with an agreement reached last April between the managers of the carriers and union chieftains.

There were aproximately 1,000,000 railroad workers on Nov. 15.

The wage increase is a part of a plan for restoring to workers the ten per cent deduction from their pay checks to which they agreed in 1932. Their basic wage rate was not reduced but when payrolls were made up ten per cent was withheld from each pay check. Workers received a fourth of the cut on July 1, last, and will receive the remaining one-fourth beginning April 1, 1935.

WORK, MAINTENANCE AND RECOVERY!

*"Thus we come to the startling idea that mass production has made, and is making, the creation, maintenance and replacement of almost all forms of permanent wealth impossible for the individual to undertake with wisdom * * "

Here is something new in the realm of economics. Sherwin C. Badger and Charles N. Edge have collaborated to give us a thought-provoking article that will challenge the attention of all thinking people—capitalists, industrialists, New Dealers and business men generally.

The authors explore not only the true cause and disturbing effects of present unemployment—but point out with fearless candor that the aims of the individual no longer coincide with those of the state and that these aims must and can be reconciled through capitalism. They tell us that there are centuries of work for America's unemployed millions and indicate what must be done both by the government and the people to crystallize it.

Traders Weigh Good and Bad News.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—At the moment, the stock market appears to be in the process of an inventory.

Trade news continues to urge a resumption of its lately interrupted creeping advance for a number of reasons. The summary for the last week included the longest string of favorable dividend actions of any week since the depression began. One survey listed eighty-eight of them. There was a rise in steel output to 33 per cent of capacity, as against 19 in September. The volume of retail sales exceeded that of 1933 in many sections of the country by as much as 25 to 50 per cent. Traders, however, detect a number of serious offsets in the otherwise alluring picture and

Business Leaders Seeking to Develop Recovery Plan

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Dec. 16.—(AP)—American business represented by some ninety of its principal executives, today began to forge a recovery plan behind which business may unite and which will be presented to the administration as a guide.

Committees of the chamber of commerce of the United States and the National Association of Manufacturers laid the groundwork for the "business conference for recovery," called by them in what some executives say may become an historic effort to compose conflicting economic elements.

Hopes for Agreement.

A short statement was issued which said "business hopes" to construct a program that will give "impetus to reemployment, reduce relief, and accelerate economic recovery."

But, the statement stressed, the conference is "under no illusion that all of the difficult questions will be settled immediately" and that it expects to "be able to make suggestions which will indicate the direction that recovery effort should take."

Included among those at the meeting are: C. B. Ames, chairman of the Texas Company of New York; Colby M. Chester Jr., president, General Foods corporation, New York; Harvay C. Couch, former director of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; Lammot du Pont, president, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Wilmington, Del.; Henry I. Harriman, president of the chamber of commerce; George H. Huston, chairman of the durable goods industries committee; Robert L. Lunk, chairman of the Manufacturers' association; George Mead, chief of NRA's industrial advisory board; John J. Raskob, General Motors corporation; Silas H. Strawn, former chamber president; Owen D. Young, chairman, General Electric company; C. L. Bardo, president of the manufacturers' association.

Program Is Prepared.

The committees of the two business associations took no action today except to lay out a tentative agenda, and discuss all the matters going into an economic program. There will be committees on labor, employment insurance, fiscal policy, the NRA, relief, general attitudes towards business, and so on. The separate programs will be coördinated into a general plan, but the conference said further conferences probably will be necessary.

In calling the conference, the invitation said that it was to "remain until a coöperative program is evolved and to consider various suggestions for a constructive program to accelerate recovery from our economic condition." Officials estimated the job would require three days. The meeting was called as a result of preliminary conferences of business leaders which concluded that coöperation between business groups and the administration was essential to recovery. There was a variance of opinion, however, as to whether the main effort should be directed toward a "united front" toward coöperation with the government.

Earnings on $300,000,000 Investment Taken from Security Holders

INCREASES in taxes, and reductions in rates which afford relatively unimportant savings for an individual customer, are taking away from investors in the Associated System enough to pay the annual interest on more than $300,000,000 of securities at the rate of 5 per cent.

If taxes had not been increased and rates had not been reduced since 1928; if employees' insurance had not been put into effect and costs had not been raised by the N. R. A., there would be available substantially over $15,000,000 more for investors, so that—

40,000 debenture holders of Associated Gas and Electric Company would still have ample margin of earnings to insure continued payment of interest on their investment.

Earnings of practically all industries have declined because of the general effects of the depression. Utilities had long been considered as depression-proof. During the current depression the loss of earnings by utilities and the shrinkage in value of utility securities have not been due primarily to the failure of earnings to withstand the effects of depression, but principally to—

1. Actual and threatened governmental competition. Since the passage of the T.V.A. act, the shrinkage in the market value of utility securities has been estimated to be in excess of 2 billion dollars. During the same time the market value of all securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange has actually increased by more than 5½ billion dollars.

2. Attacks by public officials and agencies, which have uniformly been followed by sharp declines in the market prices of utility securities. In the 19 days between November 1 and November 20, 1934, the market value of the securities of 16 principal holding companies controlling electric, gas and telephone properties shrank about $275,000,000.

3. Reduction in earnings through action of governmental agencies, such as excessive increases in taxes and unreasonable decreases in rates.

The result of all these policies has been to threaten the savings of millions of thrifty, small investors. Present improvement in the revenues of utilities, brought about largely by increased efforts of the managements to extend the use of electricity and gas, has partially offset these adverse conditions. But this improvement should not lull investors into inactivity. The far-reaching consequences of the policies here mentioned must be realized by investors, and their protests must be sufficiently vigorous to force the consideration they deserve.

In Market's Path.

Congress rates in the popular speculative mind as the main "lion" in the market's path. Washington dispatches bring intelligence almost daily of new radical proposals on the fire as the Solons forgather for the forthcoming session. Many believe that President Roosevelt will be able to hold the firebrands in check, especially if the present "talk up" business campaign begins to bear fruit, but many more cling apprehensively to their misgivings and refuse to be comforted. There is some concern, too, over the tenor of the President's fireside chat and more than one trader will breathe easier if the address takes place without some further jolts emanating from "a little left of center."

Still another obstacle to the market's immediate progress is the growing speculation in the minds of traders and investors in stocks as to whether the market has not sufficiently discounted business improvement visible and in immediate prospect. If, with most of the doubters, the answer has been found in the affirmative it has not been accompanied by any strong desire to sell on the ground that more recovery would not come later. Most of the fraternity have an abiding faith in the customary "spring rise" and many are inclined to take it as foregranted that some expansion can be expected in the next six or eight weeks, whatever the new dealers may have in store for their hapless constituency.

Inflation Ghost Still About.

Hopes and fears of monetary inflation, furthermore, help to keep speculative sentiment disturbed, although some brokers insist that this question is playing less figure in the market situation right now than it has for two years or more. Occasional activity on the silver and other so-called inflationary stock shows, unbiased observers submit, that the ghosts of monetary policy are still far from laid.

Meanwhile, faced with all these contrary perplexities, the market for all its daily fuss remains virtually at a standstill, awaiting more light. On only one day of the last week did the combined averages move as much as a point. They rose 9 cents a share in yesterday's two hour session, but microscopic as it was this was the first gain since last Monday, when an advance of 7 cents was recorded. On Tuesday, the index declined $1.35; on Wednesday, 17 cents; on Thursday, 42 cents, and on Friday, 32 cents. Since Dec. 5, the market has declined seven sessions and advanced slightly on two days.

International Nickel of Canada.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate information on International Nickel. What do they use nickel for most?—F. S.

Answer: International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., produces about 90 per cent of the world's nickel supply. The product is used in many industries both as an alloy and in its natural state. Some of its outlets are in the steel, automobile, electrical, and household fixture industries. The company has been active in developing new uses for the product.

The price of nickel has remained stable for more than seven years, following the announced policy of the management.

Although nickel is the most important metal produced, copper output exceeds that of nickel. The two metals are ordinarily found together. Platinum also s recovered as a by-product.

Reflecting world-wide improvement in industry, earnings for the first nine months of 1934 amounted to $14,018,000, or 86 cents per common share, against $5,636,000, or 29 cents per common share, for the corresponding 1933 period.

Net income in 1933 was $9,663,000, or 53 cents per common share, against loss of $135,000 for 1932. Net income in 1931, before a $342,000 foreign exchange loss, was $5,994,000, against net income of $11,770,000 in 1930.

As of Sept. 30, 1934, cash assets alone were more than three times current liabilities, a strong current position. Funded debt, due 1957, consisted of a $1,118,000 guaranteed subsidiary bond issue.

Capitalization consists of 276,278 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred and 14,584,025 shares of no par common. Waranted by increased earnings, ample working capital and favorable outlook the dividend basis on the common was raised to 15 cents a quarter from the previous rate of 10 cents, on Sept. 20, 1934.

The preferred is high grade. The common is medium grade.

Powdered Coal Engineering and Equipment.

Investors' Guide: Would be pleased if you could give me any information about Powdered Coal Engineering and Equipment company.—Mrs. L. E.

Answer: Powdered Coal Engineering and Equipment company was incorporated on May 1, 1915, in Delaware. Its business was the installation of equipment for carburization and burning of powdered coal. Its plant was in Chicago. Its properties were sold at foreclosure sale in 1922 or 1923. The company's charter was repealed on Jan. 24, 1927, for nonpayment of taxes.

BOND LIST RESTS, BUT INDIVIDUALS SHOW STRENGTH

Prime Corporation Liens Hold in Narrow Range.

New York, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Instances of individual strength were numerous in the last week's bond market, but the list, as a whole, was inclined to rest. Prime investment corporation issues held to a narrow range throughout, although many of these managed to edge into new high territory for the year or longer.

The principal activity was provided by the so-called secondary groups and daily variations of a point or so were the rule in these departments. The industrials were the most popular with both traders and investors, the average for this division again recording new 1934 tops. On the other hand, the rails were a little soft and the utilities just about held their own.

Profit Taking Noted.

Heaviness of some of the more speculative carriers was attributed largely to profit taking. Many of these had reached such levels that holders were apparently unable to resist the urge to cash in gains. In the readjusting process several of the second grade liens sold at substantial losses.

U. S. government securities were extremely quiet and most of the listed issues held to a restricted range. The low yields at which the majority of these loans were selling tended to cool the enthusiasm of most potential buyers.

Confidence Is Evident.

Investment quarters still reflected the renewed confidence engendered by the treasury's latest financing. With a working balance of some $1,700,000,000, it was not believed the government would undertake any new large-scale borrowing for four or five months, although the practice of keeping a suitable cash balance, some observers thought, probably will bring the treasury into the market with some sort of an offering in March.

Foreign obligations were fairly steady, although a sharp break in Italian loans on Monday stirred some apprehension in dollar bonds. The Italian group dropped following the order of the Rome government impounding foreign credits and bonds held by nationals. This list righted itself later. The Chileans rallied on announcement of a new plan for adjustment of the republic's defaulted debts.

SILVER FRIENDS READY TO OPEN NEW CAMPAIGN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Silver advocates, who are still dissatisfied with the administration's monetary program, were preparing today for a new campaign. There were indications, too, that their efforts were attracting the attention of those who think money should be left alone for a time.

In the house Representative Dies [Dem., Tex.], co-author of the present silver purchase plan, was seeking support for a bill directing that the silver dollar be devalued just like the gold dollar was.

"I'm going to introduce a bill to make that devaluation mandatory," he said. "Our present program has helped—look at how Japan's and China's purchases from us have increased. The more we sell abroad the better off we are. But we haven't gone far enough. We should cut the content of the silver dollar in half."

At the same time Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] and others were mapping their annual fight to remonetize silver, as Wheeler put it, "on a definite fixed ratio to gold and to have silver used not as token money but as basic money."

BUYING PUBLIC PAYS UP FASTER, SURVEY SHOWS

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 16.—(AP)—A monthly survey by the National Retail Credit association shows that the buying public, for the third consecutive month, is paying bills more promptly and buying more from retail stores, the association reported today. Sales on credit for November was given as 14.6 per cent higher than in November, 1933, while retail collections are the same period.

Of the 62 cities covered by the survey, representing 18,000 retailers, 54 show increases in collections, 5 decreases, and 3 no change. In sales on credit 56 cities report increases.

GRAIN VALUES SAG AS TRADING VOLUME FALLS

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Trading in the grain market last week was marked by a shrinkage both in the volume of transactions in the principal grains and in prices. In the absence of a constant flow of trading quotations sagged irregularly. At the close of the week wheat futures showed losses ranging up to 2 cents a bushel, while the recession in corn prices was slightly less.

It was lack of speculative interest in the market rather than development of any important depressing influence which brought about the decline. The market appears to be headed into a dull stretch which is likely to extend over the holiday period.

Scramble for Corn Diminishes.

The feverish bidding for corn in the country has slowed and this has been reflected in the futures market. Actually, however, the fundamental conditions on which the advance in corn was based have not changed. The country still faces a feed shortage that cannot be corrected even by fairly heavy importations from foreign countries.

There is a hitch, too, in the fact that the supply of foreign grains available for domestic feed purposes is limited.

Feed wheat continues to come into the country from Canada and several million more bushels are likely to be brought in. The domestic deficit is so large, amounting to between one and a half and two billion bushels, that the foreign grain actually imported appears negligible in comparison.

The key to the present market outlook appears to be the attitude of European buyers. Importers in Europe have been holding down their purchases notwithstanding the unfavorable change in Argentina's wheat crop. Canada is still holding the bulk of her 1934 wheat surplus and until it begins to move it is unlikely that world prices will show material improvement.

Week's Range of Prices.

Field's Orders Last Minute Day for Store Purchases

Marshall Field & Co. has announced that the wholesale and manufacturing division of the company is sponsoring a "Last Minute day" tomorrow, Tuesday, for the convenience of retailers whose stocks have been depleted by early holiday buying of the public. The company reports that there have been exceptionally strong reorders by storeowners in all parts of the metropolitan district.

MEN

There is just one thing I dare you to do—venture into a new field with an organization that has men earning over $100 A WEEK. If you accept this dare you are on the road to a glorious adventure. You will be leading almost immediately a richer and more exciting life. These are honest facts to be passed out to honest people by honest methods. We believe in working, not weeping; boosting, not knocking, and doing it in the pleasure of our job and the thrill of the money we make. Our men get what they go after and that is the greatest satisfaction they are getting out of life. No man is down and out until he has lost faith in himself.

We are merchandising a very unusual electrical unit and pay on a profit comm. and bonus basis. If you think you are ready right now to go to work answer this ad.

Apply Monday at 11 a. m. only or 3 p. m. No other time. We occupy the entire 10th floor of the Mather Tower Bldg., 75 E. Wacker-dr., near Michigan.

I AM READY TO PLACE IN INDEpendent incomes, with no investment, men who have had from 2 to 5 years' business experience or in the prominent trades, and who know how to deal with people. Our mechanical unit is the world's greatest success in its line, and men here by the dozen, who have been with us from 6 months to several years, make steady money. I want an engineer for years, and that experience giving me the habit of prying into things and mastering them, was my chief reason for coming up rapidly as I have in my growing comm. checks. I will explain the proposition to you from 10 to 12 m. or 2 to 4 p. m. today, Monday, Dec. 17, in Suite 215-226 at 1046 Wilson-av. Ask for Paul Barnhart.

MEN MECHANICALLY INCLINED.

I want a few men who have had some technical training along mechanical lines or in the trades, to learn selling a mechanical unit of unlimited possibilities and paying an unusually high comm. income regularly. I was a tool and die maker and when I started in this work, with no knowledge of the product or how to sell, I found that my mechanical experience was of greatest value to me. I will see you from 4 to 5 Monday afternoon, Dec. 17 only. Room 215, second floor, 1166 Diversey pkwy. Ask for T. N. Lind, Lake View residents preferred.

MEN.

An opportunity to earn substantial commissions at once is available to men of character and determination. Our unit which is mechanically operated, sells quickly with out sales demonstration. No cost or investment required. If you have the desire to earn money consistently and in substantial volume, apply Monday 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. Mr. Larsen, Hotel Annetta, 2417 South 52d-av., Cicero, Ill.
